Open House at New Hospital

Though it is still in the progress of being equipped, the new treatment hospital at the Oregon State hospital will this week have its formal opening. Occasion for the formal opening, other than completion of the building, is the observance of Mental Health week.

Announcement of the opening was made Monday by Dr. Charles E. Bates who stated that the building, while not entirely equipped has enough equipment to give the public a picture of the work to be carried on at the hospital. Days and hours that it will be open to the public are Saturday, April 30 and Sunday, May 1, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Also open will be the nurses' home at the state hospital, which has been completed and occupied for about two months and the new ward building at the Oregon State hospital farm. This building has been occupied by patients for about a month. Days and hours for these buildings to be open to the public are the same as for the treatment hospital.
