Linn Seed Crop Increase Noted

Lebanon—Increased acreage on several seed crops and continued high acreage on others is planned for the Desert Seed company's second year operations in Linn county, it is pointed out by Hal Burgess, manager of the company's Willamette valley division with headquarters in Lebanon.

Contracts for vine seed crops have now been filled and planting operations will commence soon after May 1. Yields on these crops last year were reported as very high by the company manager.

Burgess said that contracting is now being done with local farmers for biennial seed crops. These crops are planted during the summer and fall and mature the following year. A major number of these crops have been successfully raised locally for many years.

Many farmers are contracting for these in place of grain raising. The latter crop now is fluctuating in price and no longer holds a dependency for good profit, announced Burgess. In the Scroggin feed and seed Company offices are located warehouse on west Sherman.
