

Kingwood Plan Gets Approval

The public will have opportunity to give its ideas about the zoning of the Kingwood annexation in Polk county at a hearing dated for June 7.

The date was fixed by the city planning and zoning commission Tuesday night when it gave its approval to a zoning classification.

The approval is for a Class I residential zone for Kingwood Heights and most of the district west of Wallace road, a Class IV industrial zone for that part of the annexation east of Wallace road, and a Class III business zone for an area above Ninth street, between Patterson avenue and Wallace road, and extending north about 200 feet.

The commission gave its approval to an application for a zone change from Class I residential to Class III-X business at the northeast corner of the North Capitol and Hood intersection, a property which is 108 by 114 feet.

Proposed for the location is a Dairy Queen drive-in to be set up by William P. Highley who has a drive-in on South Commercial. If he can get the zone changed Highley intends, the commission was told by Joe Bourne, realtor, to buy the H. E. Canada junk yard.

Most of the property owners in the district have signed Highley's petition, it was reported. Existence of the junk yard has not been interfered with in the residential area for the reason that it was there when zoning was established in the city and therefore stands on legal rights.

Hawaiian Strike May Hurt Coast

Honolulu, May 4 (AP)—The three-day-old Hawaiian longshore strike was expected today to cause serious repercussions on the west coast of the United States.

San Francisco faced the loss of an estimated 25,000 tons of island cargo a week and a decline in the number of stevedores called to work. Hawaiian trade accounts for one-quarter of business handled at the port.

Other west coast ports probably will not be affected for another two weeks, provided the strike lasts that long, observers said.

More Land for Vets to Open

More than 12,000 acres of irrigable public land comprising 104 farm units are being opened to homestead entry in Wyoming by the federal bureau of reclamation, with preference going to veterans of World War II.

The Oregon department of veterans' affairs, in making the announcement locally, said applications must be filed by July 12 with the superintendent, Shoshone project, bureau of reclamation, Box 900, Cody, Wyoming. Application blanks and detailed instructions may be obtained from the same agency, by requesting Shoshone project public notice No. 58.

One hundred of the homesteads are near Ralston, which is six miles from Powell and 20 miles from Cody on Wyoming highway 14. The other four are three miles north of Cody.

The lands are described as raw, with about one-third covered with sagebrush and the remainder with native grasses. Soils, the reclamation bureau says, consist primarily of sandy loam underlaid with gravel. "Adaptable crops," according to the bureau, "include alfalfa, clover, wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas, potatoes and sugar beets. Legumes are recommended as crops for the first few years. Cattle, sheep raising, and dairying are important industries, and hogs and poultry do well."

Applicants must have $3000 in cash, assets, or farm equipment, two years of farming experience, good health, character references, and must intend to farm as an occupation. This will be the third homestead opening in what is known as the Heart Mountain division of the Shoshone reclamation project, 112 World War II veterans already having settled on adjoining farm units offered by the government since the late war.

Norwegian shipbuilders are again putting figureheads on their ships, even though the ships are now driven by engines.
