A GAL FROM MAINE May's Only Five Feet But Navy Was Impressed

Washington (AP)—Tiny May Craig, weight 120 pounds, puffed herself up to over five feet and told off the great big navy. And got away with it.

It was like this:

Many weeks ago, the navy put a notice on the bulletin boards in the press galleries of the house and senate inviting reporters to take week-end cruises on carriers. The navy meant men, but it didn't say so.

May, a correspondent for a bunch of papers in Maine, has a set of sharp eyes behind her horn-rimmed specs. She was the first to spot the memo and say "aye-aye," which she did—in writing.

The navy didn't reply. She telephoned the navy. The navy, not expecting any lady guests, since none is allowed on a navy vessel, sputtered and said it would call back. The navy didn't. But little May did.

The navy said, golly, it was sorry, but the carrier Midway, which was to weigh anchor last Saturday with a flock of congressmen and newspapermen, had no facilities for women. May said, wait a second. Hadn't the navy invited a couple of lady congressmen to make the trip? Reva Zilpha Beck Bosone, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Chase Woodhouse, of Connecticut going.

The navy said it would check and call back. The navy called back this time and said it was sorry again. No go.

May bristled. She is one who was taught in her cub days to go to the top. She called John Lawrence Sullivan—this was before he resigned as secretary of the navy. "What's going on?" she demanded.

John said he didn't know but

Demonstration Work Popular

Dallas—Home Demonstration week is being observed May 1 to 7 and Mrs. Thelma E. Miller, acting Polk county extension agent, (home economics), calls attention to the extent of this program in Polk county. The time of the agent is divided between the adult program and the 4-H work.

There are 14 organized home extension units which hold eight regular monthly meetings. Projects for this year include: Blouse in a day, textile painting, frozen foods, Christmas greens, color in the home and furniture arrangement, gift wrapping and footstools.

A statistical summary shows that 97 meetings were given by the home agent totaling 1800; 77 meetings were given by project leaders with 1385 total attendance; 738 individual letters were written in answer to inquiries and 21 circular letters with a total of 3621 copies were mailed. There were 460 office calls and 401 telephone calls from people asking for information and bulletins on homemaking and the 4-H work.

There are 817 enrollments in 4-H projects which include 253 in clothing, 144 in cookery and 222 in health.

would darn soon find out. He darn soon called back. "May," said he, "I hope you and the congresswomen have a very fine trip." May, you may be sure, said "thank you."

The little gal from Maine, by the way, is used to fighting for her rights around the capital where women reporters once feared to tread.

Male members of the Capital Press crews screamed when the gals decided to bore into their inner sanctum. They'd fix 'em, the guys said. No lady powder rooms.

May fought the battle almost alone, but today there are powder rooms in both the house and senate press galleries.

Only three players ever have won the American League batting championship four times or more — Ty Cobb, Harry Heilmann and Ted Williams.
