

Local Paragraphs

Work Under Way—The county court reported that work started Thursday on clearing the right of way of the extension of Broadway to the North River road, a county bulldozer being turned loose there to tear out trees and other impediments. In the meantime several applications have been received for purchase of a house and barn which the county inherited in purchase of some of the right of way and these are being considered. They must be removed by the purchasers immediately to allow grading work to proceed.

Wish to Dredge—Members of the Marion county court expressed themselves Friday as being favorable to dredging the gravel bar which has accumulated at the Yamhill side of the Wheatland ferry land and which at present water allows only a foot and a half clearance. It will be necessary for the Yamhill county court to approve the dredging. A dredge is said to be in the vicinity now and the court here wishes the work done while the facility is available. Commissioner Roy Rice said if the dredging isn't done the ferry might as well be tied up for the summer as a slight drop in the river will put it out of commission completely. He said this year because of the bad condition of the Wallace road, will probably make the ferry traffic heavier than ever if it is kept operating.

May Haul Logs—Log hauling permits have been granted by the county court to Schothofer Transportation, Stayton; George Jungwirth, route 1, Woodburn; A. A. Rhoades, Silverton; J. M. Sobrero, route 1, Silverton, and Oregon Pulp & Paper Co., Salem.

Bids Called for Second Unit Of State Sewer System

Two state institutions, Hillcrest School for Girls, and Fairview home, will this week be using a unit of the new state sewer, completed at a cost of about $50,000.
On May 19 the state board of control will open bids on a larger unit estimated to cost around $80,000. The two projects are designed to serve about three times the present population of the state institutions east and southeast of the city.

The completed unit eliminates two septic tanks at Hillcrest school and three at Fairview home. The next project will eliminate a dozen or more septic tanks, including two at Oregon state prison annex, nine at State tuberculosis hospital and five at Cottage farm.

The completed unit in general follows the Southern Pacific railroad to Hoyt street, then goes west on Hoyt to Berry, and north on Berry one and a half blocks to connect with the city system.

The unit is about 15,700 feet long and the biggest pipe is 21 inches in diameter. The contractor was Bresco, Inc.

The next project will hook up with the completed one at Fairview home. It involves 13,899 cubic yards of excavation, 2355 feet of 6-inch pipe, 9983 feet of 8-inch, 5410 feet of 10-inch, 14,374 feet of 12-inch pipe and 71 manholes.

The work will include one railroad crossing and one crossing under Mill creek.

Engineer for the projects is G. R. Boatwright. The plans were drawn by B. A. Huston and the field surveys made by P. J. Ferguson, both of Boatwright's staff.
