FDR Didn't Like 'Home on Range'

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Correspondent

Washington (UPI)—The late FDR went through the last years of his life with his hands cupped over his ears—listening to a tune he didn't particularly like, "Home On the Range."

I got the story from Johnny Salb, handsome, gray-haired organist for radio station WTOP. Johnny knew Mr. Roosevelt well and spent many hours entertaining him.

"The first time I went to see him," Johnny said, "I was with Eddie Peabody, the famous banjo player and a great friend of the late chief. We sat down and started to whack out a few licks of 'Home on the Range'."

FDR yelled "Stop it," and told the music-makers how the legend sprouted and grew.

At a press conference once, somebody asked the president if he didn't think the tune was a pretty fancy one. He admitted that it was. The next day somebody wrote a column in the papers saying it was his favorite. He was stuck with it.

"Actually," said Johnny, "FD

R's favorite—the one he asked me to play most often was 'Yellow Rose of Texas.' Eddie and I played it that first day. After Eddie left, the president asked me if I would stick around for a few minutes.

He said: 'You fellows did a good job on that; only you had the right words but the wrong tune.' The president hummed it for me and I wrote it down on the back of an envelope. I had it transcribed on a piece of music paper and gave it to FDR as a present. He asked me to autograph it for him."

Johnny, by the way, doubtless has entertained more presidents than any man alive. He started with Woodrow Wilson, who could be lulled to sleep as the muted organ gave out the classics.

Warren G. Harding was more of a sport than a music lover, Johnny said, and often asked the musician to cool his heels in the lobby while he tried to draw an inside straight with some of his cronies upstairs.

Calvin Coolidge liked his music on the quiet side "almost to the point of complete quiet, although Mrs. Coolidge seemed to enjoy it."

If Herbert Hoover liked music he kept still about it, according to the organist, "because I was never invited to the White House to play for him."

Johnny hasn't played for the present occupant of the White House, who happens to be a musician himself. But he's about to.

Linn Rabbit People Will Form Chapter

Lebanon—Organization of a Linn county branch of the American rabbit and cavy breeders' association was announced for this Friday evening by Mrs. L. R. Whitmarsh, Lebanon breeder. The local unit will be patterned after the Eugene unit established last week.

Friday's meeting is open to breeders of all type rabbits and will be held in the home of Mrs. Ray Schroll, Clark Mill road in Sweet Home.

Officers will be elected during the first session. Plan to introduce blood stock into Willamette valley rabbit lines, promote sale of rabbits for eating, and development of better eating types are among aims of the proposed group.

John Christenson and Chet Fredrickson, Salem, prominent in rabbit breeding, will attend the Linn county unit formation meeting.

'Confesses' — Lee Goode Scott (above), 16, was charged with the murder of his schoolmate, Dana Weaver, whose beaten body was found in a church parish house in Roanoke, Va. A telephone tip led to his arrest. He gave detectives a statement after six hours of questioning. They hesitated to call it a "confession" officially. (Acme Telephoto)

Amity Scout Troop Invited to Dinner

Dayton—Electa Chapter No. 29, OES, met for regular communication in the Masonic Hall. Guests for the evening were Holly chapter. Alfred Dietrich of LaFayette played several numbers on his accordion. Out of state guests were from Vancouver, B. C., Canada, and Wyoming. Each one present received a gladiolus bulb, a gift from the Worthy Matron, Velene Coburn, in remembrance of Mothers Day. A degree was given for the mothers by the Star points and five mothers were presented a corsage.

Glover decided that the Scout troop did such a good job during clean up week that he started a fund from contributions from his friends and neighbors, which amounted to around $80 and arranged the dinner. One business man contributed $25 toward the fund.

The high school band, and girls chorus, presented a concert preceding the dinner in the school auditorium.

The Scouts are launching a paper drive this week.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Curley Lawson's cousin from back East and a few of us got talking when he was here visiting, and I couldn't help noticing how different he said things.

For instance, he said, "Lifting that 200-pound bag of cement almost killed me." "You mean sick of cement?" asks Curley. (That's the way we'd say it.) "No," interrupta young Elliott who'd spent a lot of time down South, "He means a 'poke of see-mint'."

It was good for a chuckle, anyway. Bag, sack or poke—we knew
