State Session Guide Published

All members of the Oregon legislature from the year 1860 to and including 1949, and all the chief clerks have been compiled by David C. Dunaway, state archivist, and published in a booklet.

The names are listed alphabetically with dates showing the sessions in which they served. Listed chronologically are the legislative sessions, and on the cover page is a picture of the house of representatives of 1865.

An introductory note says: "This list of members and chief clerks of the Oregon legislative assembly is designed to serve as a general name index to the published House and Senate Journals. Men who were sworn in, and who later lost their seats to successful contestants have been included, although the fact that they lost their seats has not been indicated. The state legislature convened from the first at Salem, Oregon, and met on the second Monday of September of the even-numbered years from 1860 to 1882, and on the second Monday of January in the odd-numbered years beginning with 1885. 'S. S.' has been used for the abbreviation for Special Session throughout this publication, with the exception of 1865, 1898 and 1920, in which years no regular session was held."

Morse Says Demos To Have Hard Time

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Senator Morse (R-Ore.) thinks the democrats are helping — inadvertently — to re-elect him in 1950.

During debate on a proposed 2 percent retail sales tax for the District of Columbia, Morse said the democrats "are going to have an awfully hard time beating me in 1950."

He said the fight he was making against "the democratic sponsored sales tax will be great campaign ammunition in Oregon. Do not forget that."

Ball Season Opens

Independence, May 14—Independence and Marion meet on the high school field here Sunday afternoon as the recently organized baseball team here opens its season. The team is sponsored by local merchants.

Platoon Plan Being Formed

Dallas — Seasonal work for both adults and young people of the Dallas area is offered by a plan formed with the co-operation of the Dallas high school guidance department under the direction of Roy Dancer.

Using a platoon system, workers will go by bus to the Alderman farms near Dayton for strawberry picking and bean picking. One bus load of high school students has already been organized and another is planned for adults if sufficient interest is shown.

Transportation will be at no cost to the worker. Strawberry picking will begin on June 6 and bean picking will start at the conclusion of the berry season. If weather holds good, little layoff through the summer is foreseen.

Buses will leave the high school in the morning and return there in the evening. Crews will work 5½ days per week, quitting at noon on Saturday. At least 2000 pickers are needed for the seasonal farm work in that area this year.

Strawberries are said to be better than average and pickers should be able to make at least $12 per day.

Use of Water Funds In Portland Stymied

Portland, May 13 (AP)—The plan to solve Portland's financial troubles by raising water rates ran into a snag today.

Finance Commissioner Ormond R. Bean said he doubted that the city council has the power to raise revenue that way.

The city charter did not contemplate use of water sales to raise revenue, he said, adding that only a vote of the people could authorize a four-fold rate increase. "The unfair and inequitable distribution of the tax burden would more than offset its value as a revenue raiser," Bean said.

Spuds for Cattle Excel Potatoes Sold to People

Washington, May 14 (AP)—Rep. Tollefson (R, Wash.), wants to know why, it's true, that people in his state can buy better potatoes for their livestock than housewives can get—and cheaper, too.

A constituent, Tollefson said, wrote him that he bought a 100-pound sack of potatoes for $3.50, plus three per cent sales tax, while his next door neighbor bought six tons of potatoes for feed for cows and paid $6 a ton, without sales tax.

"There was not a potato in his six tons," the constituent wrote, "that was not larger and better than any spud in my sack."

Tollefson sent the report to Secretary of Agriculture Brannan with a request that he be informed why the department purchases only the best grade of potatoes under the price support program, leaving poorer grades for the housewives. Citizens of his district complain, he said, that potatoes they buy are "rotten, scaly and of poor grade" because no others are found in the market.

The three districts involved are St. Paul union high school district No. 3; Turner-Aumsville district No. 5 and Hubbard district No. 6, also known as the North Marion district.

In each case bonds have been voted for the district, they have been validated in proceedings in circuit court, sites have been selected and bond sales are now only awaiting outcome of Monday's elections.

In the North Marion district No. 6 the matter of dissolution was voted on at a previous election held September 16, last year, and lost by a vote of 393 to 211.

Petitions for Monday's dissolution election were in the hands of the district boundary board for some time awaiting either outcome of litigation or solution as to the effects of an amendment by the voters of the state changing qualifications of electors at school district elections. This amendment had made doubtful the question of just what registered voters would be eligible as school district and regular voting precinct lines do not coincide. This matter is now straightened out under new legislation.

Another new law also provides that such dissolution elections cannot be called oftener than every two years, which, if the proposal for dissolution fall next Monday, will give time for the districts to proceed with their plans.

Daylight Time For West Salem

West Salem, May 14—Sale of a tract of city land and surplus pipe supply, and the adoption of daylight savings time were approved at a special meeting of the city council held last night.

Carl A. Gerlinger's bid of $2,000 for the 100x100 foot tract of land at the corner of Patterson and Seventh street was accepted and Steve Anderson, city attorney was instructed to execute the necessary papers. All property adjoining this tract, site of the Patterson street well, is owned by the Gerlingers, who have developed several industries in the Churchmere addition.

A surplus pipe supply of possibly 1200 to 1500 feet was sold to the Alaska Junk company at $1.31 per foot. The only other bid received, after quite extensive advertising by the city, was from the Jenson Well Drilling company.

Daylight savings time was officially adopted to conform with the Salem time schedule which will become effective at 2:01 a. m. Monday, May 16.

Hand on the Bible

Millions of books have been written since man first learned to record his thoughts in written symbols. Many of these have been valuable; others were hardly worth reading, and few possessed the qualities of literary permanency.

The book most essential to the happiness and welfare of humanity is the Holy Bible. It is educational in itself, touching every phase of human thought and knowledge, and is the only book that bridges the gap between man and his Creator.

Writing may be educational, inspirational, promotional or merely entertaining. Books deal with the arts and techniques of life, the lives of people and the movements of history. Essentially the Bible deals with the spiritual elements of life and man's relations to God.

Wise men keep their hands on the Bible as the source of ultimate truth and an infallible guide to right living. They know that beyond the material is the spiritual, beyond today is tomorrow, and beyond the world is God.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
