Likes Plan—Sheriff Denver Young has indicated to the county court that he likes the new plan of Architect Pietro Belluschi for Portland for a revamped fifth floor in the courthouse sketches instead of adding a sixth floor for juvenile quarters. Under the revamped plan kitchen, laundry and refrigeration are all available to the jail and juvenile quarters, 60 men prisoners are provided for with 16 allotments for boys and 12 for women and quarters for two mental cases held temporarily. Day rooms are provided, a matron's living room and other facilities.

Record Missing—County Engineer Swart reports he has been hunting for some record showing who owns the land on which sets a bridge over the Detroit river built by the bureau of roads in 1928-27 to make a cut-off across the stream where before it was necessary to make a long detour around. While, he says, the county owns the bridge, the records are silent as to either the government or county ever secured a deed to the land on which it sets. The government wants it to clear up the title on proceedings involved.

Get Right-of-way—County Engineer Swart and Bridge Foreman Ted Kuenzi Friday secured right of way agreement with land owners at the junction of Cloverdale cutoff road and Battle Creek-Parrish Gap road south of Salem where it is planned to install a box culvert and by doing so to do away with three small bridges covering a creek which meanders under the road. The change will be made this summer.

Deeds Named—Formal resolution of the county court declaring the county's share of the extension of Broadway from the city limits to the North River road enumerates deeds issued for right of way and prices paid showing following amounts and land owners: F. E. Gearhart, $786; C. E. Powell and wife, $560; W. H. Weeks and wife, $2000; John C. Enlow and wife, $4016.21 and L. E. Klump and wife, $620. The road has a 66-foot right of way.

Service Restored—Mail service to Berlin, Germany, has been restored to a basis similar to that which was in effect prior to the severing of surface transportation by the Russians, according to information received by Postmaster Albert Gragg. The gift parcel rate to the American, French and British zones is now six cents a pound via surface transportation. To Soviet zone the rate is 14 cents a pound.

Buttons Approved—At a Cherryland Festival board meeting at the Senator hotel Friday it was decided to again have buttons for admission to the three shows to be given during the festival. Buttons for adults are to be sold for a dollar, including tax and those for juniors (children 12 years of age or younger) will sell for 50 cents.

Holmes Now Home—Glen Holmes, one of the four Albany residents injured in an automobile accident just south of Salem recently, has returned home from the hospital here. Mrs. S. Holmes and Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips, injured in the same accident, are still receiving treatment.

Town Has No Traffic Deaths in 702 Days

Ablene, Tex., May 14 (AP)—Meet the new champion—Ablene last midnight passed its 702nd day without a city traffic death. No other city can make that claim. This west Texas city of some 40,000 population tied the record of Schenectady, N. Y.—701 days without a traffic fatality—at midnight Thursday.

Scott Asks Fair Deal for Tourist

Paraphrasing the Golden Rule, Commander Scott of travel fame, advised an audience at the Marion hotel Friday noon to "treat the tourist as you would be treated." On top of that he urged all those who come in contact with the tourist to become acquainted with what the community had to offer in the way of scenic attractions.

Scott, a resident of California, who was born in England, said the Pacific coast had everything that a tourist could possibly seek. He bespoke a fair deal for the tourist and urged that the visitor not be gouged by those who take his money.

The speaker was brought to Salem by Jim Mount, president of the Oregon Advertising clubs of Portland who spoke in the interest of cooperation between the various communities in seeing that the tourist has an opportunity to visit the entire state. He said the state had been lax in this connection.

The luncheon was held in connection with the weekly meeting of the Salem Board of Realtors.

Capital to "Move"—William E. Walsh, state senator for Coos county, will "move" the Oregon capital to Coos Bay next week. He will be here Tuesday when Governor Douglas McKay leaves the state on business, but plans to spend the rest of the week at Coos Bay. Senator Walsh came here Friday to attend a meeting of the state emergency board after speaking before a loggers' conference in Eugene earlier in the day.

'Daylighting' Espee Tunnel

"Daylighting" of 400 feet of a 700-foot tunnel on the Southern Pacific line between Corvallis and Toledo, made necessary by rain damage, is under way with a large battery of heavy machinery on the job.

This was reported here today by Lynn F. Cronemiller, assistant state forester, who was called to the scene Friday because five acres of state land lying in a mountain canyon will be covered by the removal of earth.

The term "daylighting," in the speech of engineers, means conversion of a tunnel into a cut. Of the 700-foot tunnel 400 feet will be changed into a cut over 100 feet deep, leaving a 300-foot tunnel.

"Because of excess rainfall," said Cronemiller, "the tunnel caved in, breaking down, of course, the heavy timbers. It was temporarily shored up so the line could be used, and also rail traffic will continue through the hill while the work is in progress.

"About 200,000 yards of earth will be removed and dumped on state land. When it is, by agreement with the railroad company, the state department of forestry will plant the five acres to trees at the expense of the Southern Pacific."

The project has to be completed in the next three months, or before the next rainy season, the engineers said.

Brand Inspection Law Effective May 16
Enforcement of the state livestock brand inspection law will begin Monday in the Willamette valley, State Agriculture Director E. L. Peterson said today.

He said the law will become effective in the coastal area as soon as possible.

The recent legislature extended brand inspection to these two areas, thus making it statewide. The purpose is to cut down the number of livestock thefts.

Under brand inspection, all livestock, except sheep and hogs, must be accompanied by transportation or brand inspection certificates when they are moved on public roads.

The certificates can be obtained from state brand inspectors, county agents or sheriff's offices.

Peterson today announced appointment of the following brand inspectors for Willamette valley points:
Woodburn—M. E. Minnville—Irving Hanger, Woodburn.
Salem—Allen Keith, Salem.
Albany—George Weber and D. H. Matins, both of Albany.

$330 Power Tools Stolen at Buildings

Power tools valued at $330 were looted from two sheds at construction sites Friday night at 1020 Oxford street and at 1860 S. Capitol street.

A speedomatic skill saw, valued at $125 and a power drill, valued at $90 were taken from the S. Capitol street tool shed while a second speedomatic saw was taken from the other tool shed.

In both cases, locks were clipped away with bolt cutters, and detectives presumed that both thefts had been accomplished by the same criminal in view of the similarity of the work and the close location of the two lootings.

No Protest on New Milk Regulations

No protests were made at a hearing on changes in grades and standards regulations under a new fluid milk law held by Kenneth E. Carl, assistant chief of foods and dairies division of the agriculture department.

The proposals mainly on Grade C milk provide for the following bacteria counts: Grade C raw milk, not over 80,000 milliliter for milk or 160,000 for cream; grade C raw milk for pasteurization, not over 500,000 per milliliter and grade C pasteurized milk, not over 50,000 per milliliter.

Several producers protested against the licensing of Grade C milk.

Horseshoe Tourney Here on Sunday

Dr. Roy Reynolds, secretary of the Salem Horseshoe Pitchers club, has been informed by the Portland club that it will send a force of its best pitchers to Salem Sunday for a friendly get-together at Olinger field courts.

It will not be a match between the two clubs, but the best of both clubs will be seen in action.

Top honors in the Salem club are said to be a toss-up among Pearl Harland, Helge Donaldson, E. C. Pearson and Young Hampton.

All pitchers in this area are invited to participate.
Dr. Forrest I. Goddard is president of the Salem club.

Salem Girl Musician Hurt

Klamath Falls, May 14 (AP)—A Salem girl, Joyce Jensen, 17, was injured here last night when she was struck by an automobile in front of the Klamath armory, where state high school music contestants were filling cars to be transported to local homes for the night.

She suffered scalp lacerations and was released from a hospital after treatment. Gerrell Lloyd Butler, 40, driver of the car, was fined $5 in police court today for not having an operator's license. He also was given a suspended sentence for having inadequate brakes and the judge reserved judgment on a charge of failure to yield right of way to a pedestrian.

Richard Fanger, Medford, received several stitches in a finger which he caught in a bus window while riding to the Klamath music festival.

Columbia Flood

Near Oroville, Wash., an emergency bridge was thrown across the Similkameen, a tributary of the Okanogan, when high water made a temporary bridge built after last year's floods unsafe.

The Portland weather bureau calmed fears that the Columbia would run wild as it did last year.

Vancouver Crest to be 22 Feet
River forecasters said, at worst, the Columbia would reach a crest of 25 feet at Vancouver, Wash. Even that height was not expected. They predicted the big river would rise slowly to a crest of 22 feet at Vancouver on Monday. That level is eight feet below last year's peak.

An end to the current northwestern heat wave was predicted by Monday with a mass of cool air moving in from the Pacific ocean. Lower temperatures would decrease the runoff from mountain snow fields and sharply reduce flood danger throughout the region.

With the exception of the minor dike failure near the Canadian border, levees along the Kootenai river were holding. The town of Bonners Ferry, Idaho, was gaining added protection as workers increased dike heights there. The Spokane weather bureau estimated the Kootenai would reach 29 feet at Bonners Ferry today—two feet below flood stage, but several feet below the growing dike tops.

Seepage through a new river barrier at Orofino let flood water into a city park and baseball diamond. Two lumber mills on the river were still idle because of the high water.

The Snake river rose one foot at Lewiston, Idaho, yesterday but no serious damage was expected there. The Clearwater was falling slightly at Lewiston late yesterday following cooler weather in the mountains.

At Richland, Wash., a backwater from the Columbia flowed into drainage ditches in the town. Workers pushed a small dike across of vulnerable point and put pumps to work spilling out seepage water.

The upper Columbia reached 22.8 feet at Boundary today, six feet below flood stage.

Northern Idaho's big Pend Oreille lake was coming up gradually and would damage some large shore installations if the rise continued another five feet.

CIO Union to Appeal $750,000 Verdict

Juneau, Alaska, May 14 (AP)—The international and local CIO longshoremen's and warehousemen's union which were assessed $750,000 damages by a federal jury, gave notice they will file for a new trial today.

The verdict, in favor of the Juneau Spruce corporation, was returned yesterday.

Juneau Spruce sued under the Taft-Hartley act's union liability clause, claiming tremendous losses were suffered when longshoremen picketed the company's plant last year. The ILWU sought the right to load company barges and sling lumber. The work was being done by the CIO international woodworkers of America.

Rice to Attend Highway Meet

The Marion county court Saturday directed County Commissioner Roy Rice to attend a session of the state highway commission at Portland next Tuesday when city officials, Chamber of Commerce representatives and others will be present to discuss the Baldock plan and make a report on what the city has done in regard to it.

County Judge Grant Murphy said he considered it of importance that the county court have a representative there as it has several hole cards of interest in that connection. There is the matter of the bridge, the matter of what road will be used as an entrance to Salem for the North Santiam highway and probably foremost the matter of a by-pass road for the Pacific highway, all of which are of significance to the court. In addition, he considers of prime importance the possibility of the plan being side-tracked and in that event he says he wants to see that Marion county gets its fair share of state highway money, anyway.

The county court will not be much in evidence here next week, Commissioner Ed Rogers will leave Monday for North Bend to remain until Friday and County Judge Murphy will leave Tuesday for the same place to stay until Saturday. They both are going to attend the state session of the Odd Fellows. This will leave Commissioner Rice here and he may be absent some of the time in addition to his Portland trip set for Tuesday.

MILITARY MEN AND VETERANS

Monday, May 16
Pioneer post No. 149, American Legion, at American Legion club.

Houser Visiting
In Salem on a few days' leave prior to leaving for duty in Japan is Maj. Edwin Houser. Houser, who returned to active duty with the army in October, 1948, prior to that was president of the Marion chapter of the ROA. He has been stationed at Fort Riley, Kans., since returning to Army duty.

Houser reports to San Francisco Wednesday for his overseas assignment. Mrs. Houser and the couple's daughter, now visiting in Oklahoma with her family, plan to join the major in Japan later.

Enlistments Authorized
Salem's Army and Air Force recruiting station this week received authorization from Sixth Army for enlistment and re-enlistment of personnel for direct assignment to almost any branch of the army and to outfits such as the First Cavalry division, Seventh Infantry, 24th Infantry and the Par East Command unassigned.

There are also several Air Force openings for high school and non-high school graduates attaining a score of 90 or above on the initial examination given at the local recruiting office.

Has Exhibit
The Military Manpower committee members who Friday visited the Army and Air Force Exposition in Portland found a former Salem army officer, Lt. William Cray, in charge of the educational exhibit. Cray was down from Fort Lewis where he has charge of the post educational program.

Truman Hedges On Criticism

Washington, May 14 (AP)—The White House said today President Truman intended no criticism of house democratic leadership in a letter he wrote to a union leader about recent labor law compromise proposals in congress.

House Speaker Rayburn (D., Tex.) and other administration supporters last week offered a compromise house labor bill, including a number of provisions similar to those in the administration-opposed Taft-Hartley law. But the bill was defeated.

The president is pledged to repeal Taft-Hartley. His letter to A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, read:

"The compromisers got nowhere, as I was sure they wouldn't, and they never had any consideration whatever for me."

Questioned on published reports that this was a presidential spanking of Rayburn, White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said there were two "typographical errors" in the quoted sentence.

Ross said he checked the letter's text with Mr. Truman and "No slip at any persons was intended." Ross said the sentence should have read:

"The compromisers (instead of 'compromisers') got nowhere, as I was sure they wouldn't, and they never had any consideration whatever from (instead of 'for') me."

Press Freedom

The pact will not be open for signatures for several months. The assembly will take up a broader companion draft treaty on freedom of information at its next session opening in September, and present both for signature after the second pact is completed.

The U. S. had battled since drafting of the treaty started at a 54-nation conference in Geneva last year to restrict the treaty to terms this country could accept.

Only last night the delegation won withdrawal of an Indian-Chilean amendment that might have affected a clause prohibiting censorship in peacetime except for national defense.

Canham said the final version is acceptable to the government.

State Asks Data on Road to Mehama

County Engineer Hedda Swart Saturday received a call from one of the engineers in the state highway department asking for descriptions on the right of way of the proposed road from Mill City to Mehama which has been contemplated as a Marion county link of the North Santiam highway but never has been developed.

This gave rise to speculation around the courthouse as whether prospects of developing this road may be getting hot. It is considered as eventually a very important highway for Marion county.

The road was first considered in the early 1930s when clearing was done part way on it by a CWA crew and a federal work camp was established a few miles up the right of way from Mehama. Since then it has been lying quiescent but plans were underway for resurrecting it.
