

Fire Destroys Yocum's Store, Polk County Landmark—Perrydale store, erected 70 years ago when Joseph Gaston's narrow gauge railroad was under construction to develop Polk and Yamhill counties, served farmers in this community with general merchandise since 1879. Fire early Sunday morning entirely destroyed Yocum's store.

Landmark Removed as Fire Destroys Perrydale Store

By BEN MAXWELL

Fire that destroyed Yocum's store at Perrydale early Sunday removed a distinguished Polk county landmark erected 70 years ago when this community was on the route of a narrow gauge railroad then under construction to develop Yamhill and Polk counties.

Perrydale was named by William Perry, pioneer property owner in the community, to honor himself. A post office was established there about 1870. The hamlet did not boom, however, until it became apparent that a narrow gauge railroad (the Dayton, Sheridan and Grand Ronde, projected by Joseph Gaston) would tap the region.

Five years later, in 1886, a stage line connected Perrydale with Salem, headquarters at the capitol being in the Sargeant house. Stages left Salem at 6:30 a. m. and covered the 16 miles to Perrydale by 11:30. W. M. Sargeant was driver and fare for the stage trip was $1.00.

Hilly Shapiro, basketball co-captain of City College of New York, also batted .403 last season to lead the baseball team.

On August 1, 1878, the town was laid out by I. W. McGrew and not long thereafter the narrow gauge train from Dayton arrived about 6 p. m. and cars from Dallas at 5:30 a. m.

Oregon State Business directory for 1881 mentions that McGrew & Johnson operated the general store (presumably in the building burned over the weekend). J. T. McCarty kept a meat market. Alexander Townsend was village druggist and Dr. J. W. Wilson was physician and surgeon. Dr. Wilson also kept the Eureka hotel and, says the directory, "gave his guests good eating and easy sleeping at reasonable rates." He was also justice of the peace.

Dr. Wilson's competitor in the hotel business was Mrs. Mary Wells who kept the Reno house. Besides these businesses Enes Richard served as wagon maker and Henry C. Gentry, who kept the saloon, served drinks. Jacob Turner mended boots and shoes and George Walling stocked stoves, tin and sheet iron ware.

Local culture was fostered in a one room schoolhouse with an average attendance of 30 pupils during nine months of the year. Regular meetings were conducted in the Methodist church twice during each month. In 1881 A. Patterson was Perrydale postmaster.
