Campus Clippings OREGON STATE COLLEGE
By MARILYN HILL

Following the confusion and activities of the crowded social schedule this term Oregon Staters will happily take the three-day relief of the Memorial day holidays and head for the beach or homeward to get a rest before the onslaught of final week.

Prospective Oregon Staters filled the campus to overflowing last week-end for the biggest Campus Week-end program in recent years. The guests were entertained Friday night at the Associated Women Students annual carnival with concessions ranging from side shows to kissing booths. Later on Friday was the midnight show featuring humor and talent drawn from Oregon Staters. Saturday the freshmen and sophomores battled to a tie in the annual tug-o-war, and rookies said goodbye forever to their traditional green ribbons which they threw to a glowing fire.

At the double dance Saturday night many Salemites were visible in the crowds at the Memorial Union and men's gymnasium. Among the many were Joan Smith, Marilyn Cutshall, Darrell Lawrence, Dot McCall, "Corky" Shafer, Katie Siegmund, Janie Pearcey, Don Ludahl and Jean Clement.

Members of the women's camp education classes applied their knowledge last week-end at an actual practice session at Camp Kilowan near Falls City. The campers learned to cook various camping specialties, made cream pitchers, spatulas and sugar containers out of tin cans, and constructed lashed tables, benches and chairs. Madeline Keene was leader of one of the units, and Pat Powell was a member of the group.

Another experiment in applying knowledge was tried by the community drama classes of the speech department Thursday night. The classes in acting, directing and make-up combined with the stagecraft groups to present four one-act plays practically without faculty supervision. The finished products proved that the idea was good in many ways. Playing before nearly 2000 spectators Saturday, the OSC alumni basketball quint, featuring Cliff Crandall and Red Rocha, won 50-43 over the 1950 Orange varsity. Staters watched the two stars with long faces, wondering what varsity could do without Crandall, until the game was going and veterans such as Tommy Holman and Jack Orr showed that they definitely knew what they were doing.

Episcopal Rector Will Leave Albany

Albany—Rev. E. W. Hughes of St. Peter's Episcopal church, reported Tuesday that he has accepted a call from the vestry of St. Mary's church in Eugene to become assistant to the rector, the Rev. Ernest Bartlam. The change will be effective July 1, Rev. Hughes announced. Rev. and Mrs. Hughes came to the local mission three and a half years ago from Astoria. No successor to the local mission has been announced here.
