Gene Peterson took over at this juncture and was greeted with a triple into deep right field and a single by Snag Moore. The upshot of the bombardment was six runs. From there on out Peterson held the Bears hitless although he issued three bases on balls.

Bud Peterson got two of the three hits off Soriano and Mel Wasley the other. It was the Yakima moundsman's sixth successive victory with not a single setback being charged against him.

Official paid attendance was 2471, with 500 school boy patrols from the valley in the right field bleachers.

The two clubs will play a single game Saturday night and engage in double headers Sunday and Monday evenings. The Secnators will return to Salem June 31 to open a three game stand with Bremerton.

Grantland Rice, dean of sportswriters, has a provocative article in the current issue of "Sport Magazine" entitled "Which One Is the Big League?" He points out that from 1910 to 1940 "the American league began to assemble great stars such as Ruth, Cobb, DiMaggio, Williams and Greenberg. League owners spent thousands of dollars to acquire top flight players, while the rival National league had no such spenders. Not until a few years ago, did the National league wake up and to day they are building up and noving forward, while the American league isn't holding its own."

Union, already the state class B titlist in basketball and track, will try to add the class B base, ball crown in a game against Drain, a southern Oregon outfit that has not lost a game this year. Roelandt Decides

Bleacher Buddies

Decision of Frankie Roelandt. No. 1 catcher of the OSC Beaver baseball club to take up coaching rather than turn pro caused a number of tongues to wag. However, those who know the financial arrangement between Roelandt and Medford high school believe the OSC senior has made a wise decision. His salary for the coaching job is a good one. Then during the summer months it is probable he will be able to pick up considerable cash by playing semi-pro ball. If, after a year or two, Roelandt decides he doesn't like coaching, he will still be young enough to try the professional game.

The Western International loop occasionally manufactures one of those "pitchers' battles" in which the contestants wear themselves out circling the bags, but the Far Western league continues to place first in this connection. For instance, there was the 28 to 14 win by Marysville over Vallejo the other night. The Marysville team scored their runs in four innings—8, 10, 6 and 4, respectively. The same night Redding downed Medford, 15-7, with Rod Province, Senatorowned pitcher, being one of the five pitchers the losing club sent to the mound. It seems the Far Western pitchers have control difficulties as well as those in Class B baseball for the five Vallejo moundsmen ismued a total of 19 walks.

League Lopsided Rice claims the American loop has become lopsided. There is strength at the top, but a woeful weakness in the three lower teams — the Washington Senators, St. Louis Browns and the Chicago While Sox. In contrast "the weak National league clubs of a few years ago have all been strengthened, and today the league is a well-halaned, eight team circuit, in which any club can cause trouble to the leaders." All of which leads the writer to the conclusion that "unless the American league and so something about this situation in the next year or so, the suprement that be longed to it for over 30 years will be gone, as the older league takes over and runs the show." A Quick Shift The Vickaburg, Miss., club must have been in a real rush to secure the services of Jim Wert or perhaps the former Salem first sucker was in a hurry to get on his way. His departure, a left-handed pitcher was thrown into the breach. Inexperiment all feth burden was probably responsible for an error in the fourth funning when proper handling of Bus Sporer's toss on Calvey's grounder would have retired the side without damage being done.
