GOP Tells All About Election

Washington, May 31 (AP)—The republican national committee is out today with a book full of figures and footnotes seeking to answer the question: Who won the 1948 election?

There is no dispute about who lost that election. The republicans lost it, and the committee does not attempt any fast figuring to challenge that fact. But the republicans do argue that labor claims too much when it takes credit for Mr. Truman's election.

In 44 pages of text and upwards of 100 pages of statistical tables, the committee has analyzed last November's returns more thoroughly than any previous election ever was analyzed. If you have wondered by what percentage the Gallup poll over-estimated the republican vote for president last year, the answer is 4.4 percent. The Crossley poll was wrong by 4.8 percent.

Don't be too hard on the poll takers. These fresh republican statistics show that the American people voted last November against the trends and against tradition.

The American political trend for 20 years or more has been for a presidential ticket to build up popularity and momentum sufficient to sweep into office many congressional candidates who were not strong enough to win on their own. Scores of congressional candidates rode the late FDR's coat tails to such victories.

The republican election analysis shows that President Truman was not able to give 1948 democratic congressional candidates such a life. In nearly a dozen big industrial cities, Mr. Truman ran behind the democratic congressional candidates. These cities were Baltimore, Chicago, Cleveland, Columbus, Denver, Detroit, Jersey City, New York, Philadelphia and St. Louis.

'WE TOO' WAS LUCKY

'Act of Providence' Saves Six from River Disaster

Lovers Point, Md., May 31 (AP)—Six persons agreed today that only an "act of Providence" saved them from injury or death when their little pleasure boat sank in the dark waters of the Potomac river Sunday night.

The six, who had boarded the vessel at Piney Point, Md., in the afternoon for a fishing trip down the river, were picked up by the motorship "Seafarer" after they had clung for two hours to the superstructure of the partially-submerged craft, the "We Too."

One of the rescued, George Crosby, a refrigeration engineer of Washington, telephoned that the "Seafarer" just "happened by the scene." He said it was only by the sheerest good fortune that all escaped injury.

Crosby said the "We Too," which is owned by Wilbur M. Sherwood of Washington, began shipping water through a faulty hose connection. He said the passengers aboard the craft did not notice the trouble until the ship became "sluggish."

The six passengers donned life preservers, he said, and the ship sank within five minutes. Luckily, however, he added, it sank over a sand bar so that the superstructure was never completely under water.

Only two states have more counties than Kentucky's 120.

Big Ben Celebrates 90th Birthday Today

London, May 31 (AP)—Big Ben, the giant clock that booms the hours above the house of parliament is 90 years old today.

Ben Ben has failed only once in these nine decades—a broken pendulum spring put it out of action in 1944.

The clock was named after Sir Benjamin Hall, chief works commissioner in 1858 when the clock was built. It started service in 1859.
