

City Council Actions Make Way for Industry Extension

Removal of the old junk yard on North Capitol street near Hood, and establishment in its place of a Dairy Queen ice cream store were authorized Monday night by the enactment of an ordinance by the city council.

The act, passed after a public hearing in which no opposition was offered, changes the zone classification in Lots 6 and 7 of Block 3, North Capitol addition, from Class II residential to Class III-X business.

The property is owned by H. E. Canada.

Another industrial development made possible by passage of an ordinance vacates alleys in Blocks 27 and 28, North Salem, on petition of the Oregon Electric and Wallace Bonesteel.

It will enable the Oregon Electric to enlarge the building occupied by the Northwest Poultry and Dairy Produce company to employ an additional 70 persons, and will enable Bonesteel to build a warehouse.

The measure has been pending before the council for many months.

An ordinance bill for a zone change in Yew Park annex to enable Coburn Grabenhorst to build an apartment house was tabled to cut the meeting short so the budget committee could get to work.

Tabled also were three bills renewing the Southern Pacific company's franchises on Union, Front, Division, Water and Court streets.

The council heard petitions for and against the widening of Parrish street to a full 30 feet, but held the matter over for two weeks. The petition for out-weighed the remonstrance.

The city manager reported favorably on a petition for the improvement of South 20th street from Bellevue to Oak and the report was adopted.

Held over also was improvement of North 22nd from Breyman to the south terminus for the reason that petitions for and remonstrance were tied at 50 per cent each of the affected property.

Two petitions representing together more than 50 per cent of the property asked for the improvement of North 15th from Jefferson to Madison and were approved.

The council was requested in a petition signed by 303 persons to refuse a fare increase to City Transit Lines. The bus company has a petition before the council for an increase by elimination of three rides for a quarter and making the fare 10 cents straight. An ordinance bill for the increase was introduced.

Ninety signatures were signed to a petition from North Summer street residents asking that the street not be made a part of Highway 99E for one-way south-bound traffic. The residents claimed it would reduce property values as much as $500,000 create a hazard for children, and make necessary the destruction of the sequoia tree in North Summer street. The petition was filed for future reference.

June 27 was set as the date for a hearing on the zoning of the Kingwood annexation in Polk county.

As a compromise the council voted to pay Moises Aguilar $100 for injuries suffered when a bridge on South 14th street collapsed several months ago because of high water. Aguilar, in his car, was on the bridge at the time.

On recommendation of the chief of police and report by the manager the council approved

WHERE THE SPIRIT OF SERVICE BEGINS

One Coast-wide school system is for telephone people only—and better service for the West is the result

1. As this young lady learns to use a training switchboard, she'll also learn many things that will be mighty important to good service. All through her training she'll see how operators make courtesy and helpfulness a normal part of their job. And the same spirit is present as other telephone people learn their new skills.

2. On stubby poles like these, linemen learn to use their new climbing equipment. This is just one of the more than one hundred courses that telephone people study up and down the Coast. In 1948, thousands of employees received training. That means thousands better able to furnish good service to you.

3. On-the-job-training is typified by this "student" who is learning the workings of a trouble indicator frame—an automatic detective that makes sure the lines on its "beat" are giving good service. Even experienced employees take refresher courses like this to keep up-to-date... and keep learning their way up the ladder.

4. Good service for you comes from telephone people who know their jobs. You can help them serve you best by making sure you always have the right number in mind before calling, leaving a little time between calls, giving the called person time to answer.
