George W. Brock Dies at Home

Funeral services will be held at the W. J. Rigdon chapel Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 p.m. for George W. Brock, resident of the Salem area for the past 24 years, who died at his home at 4819 Elizabeth street Sunday. He had been ill since the first of the year.

Born at Willwood, Ill., October 24, 1858, Brock was married December 24, 1884, at Neosho, Mo., to Alice Lovell, who died in 1944 shortly after the couple had celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary. The couple came to Oregon and homesteaded in the eastern part of the state in 1888.

Brock was a member of the Presbyterian church, a charter member of the Masonic order at Washougal, Wash., and had been a member of the IOOF for 50 years.

Surviving are a son, Harland G. Brock of Salem; five daughters, Mrs. Esther Gogle of Salem, Mrs. June Hollingshead of Stayton, Mrs. Edith Spoon of Bandon, Ore., Mrs. Dora Wilder of Vancouver, Wash., and Mrs. Laura Loftin of Portland; a brother, Samuel Brock of Wasco, Ore.; and four sisters, Ella Medler of Portland, Minnie Brock of Hood River, Flora Brock of Coos Bay, Wash., and Mollie Hulse of Long Beach, Calif.

Don Smith, 15, student at Parrish junior high school, doesn't go in so much for Latin and Greek, but he's a wizard on Indian languages. He speaks several of them and exchanges letters with the tribal chiefs. Don is an artist and makes Indian dolls as a hobby. A display of the dolls is showing in the lobby of the Salem branch of the First National Bank of Portland and may be seen until July 2. He was a winner in a scholarship art display at Meier & Frank's in Portland and some of his winning etchings were displayed in Carnegie hall in Pittsburgh. In a hobby show sponsored recently by the Salem Rotary club he was a sweepstakes winner. Don hopes to make Indian lore a life study. He is an honorary member of the Nez Perce tribe. Above, Don is shown with his display at the bank.

LONG-DISTANCE CALL 'ON THE HOUSE' Shouting Over 'Phone Is Thing of Past, Harman Finds

By HARMON W. NICHOLS
Washington (AP)—If you are old enough, you probably remember granddad cranking up the party line phone and calling "long distance." Talking to somebody 20 or 30 miles away. Gramps doubtless could have done just as well standing out there in the hollow and blowing his echo against the four winds.

Well, to hear the Bell people who run the phone business, tell it—all that sort of thing is old-fashioned. The "hello" gang has come up with a tiny new device that would cut the old gait down to a whisper.

It's called a "transistor." It consists of a piece of something they call "germanium" and is about the size of a pin head. An electric current sent into the transistor controls a current that comes out 100 times stronger. You get the idea.

"You can hear Tokyo, say, as clearly as you can the guy next door when he calls on the phone in the middle of the night to tell you to cut down on the noise."

All of this was accomplished in two minutes in 1940, the bright young man said. Now? It's zingo! Less than a minute. It all adds up to a lot of radio relay systems which shoot the message through the air. (It says right here.)

Mr. Prescott led us to believe that the new system of talking to yourself around the world—and being able to hear yourself—will be a lot cheaper. I hope so.

I have paid so many long distance phone tolls in my time I don't much care whether we eventually have phones in our cars and television over the telephone, or what.

All I am happy about is that I got one "on the house" from Bell. I talked to an operator in Chicago named Geranium.

She thought I had a nice voice over the phone. I said as much for her.

The man asked would I like to talk to anybody else? Since it was free, I said, yes. Let's get hold of Aunt Mable up in Marinette, Wis. We tried the new system. Around the world in nothing flat. I got hold of a pant presser named Bob in Manitoba. Wrong number.

Dr. Stewart to Talk Planning

Dr. Blair Stewart will speak on "Economic Planning and Government" Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the fireplace room of the Salem Public library under the auspices of the Salem chapter of the League of Women Voters.

Dr. Stewart, for several years on the faculty at Reed college, has just accepted a position as dean of the college of arts and sciences at Oberlin college, Ohio.

He is a past director and member of the Corporation of Social Science Research council; is a member of the American Economic association, the Royal Economic society, and the American Statistical association, and has done work for various government agencies. He is also a well-known writer on economic subjects.

Mrs. Stewart is president of the state League of Women Voters and will accompany Dr. Stewart to Salem.

University Women Outline Objectives

Seattle, June 20 (AP)—A challenge to achieve "unity out of diversity" was laid before the convention of the American Association of University Women by the AAUW president today.

Dr. Althea Kratz Hottel of Philadelphia told delegates that although they come from varied backgrounds and walks of life, they will be called upon at this convention to weld their differences into a unified program for college and university women from all parts of the country.

Power-wower!

Come in—learn about the 5 basic advantages of Packard high-compression performance!

- 1 It's s-m-o-o-t-h-e-r — because this Packard's mighty 135-hp engine is not just an eight... it's an advanced design, precision-built Packard eight—with new Golden Anniversary advancements that make it smoother, quieter than ever before!
- 2 More responsive, because of "free-breathing" engine design. Sample its nimbleness in traffic... then go out on the open road and discover the meaning of Packard "safety-sprint" reserve power.
- 3 Thriftier! It's the gas-economy sensation of the fine car field!
- 4 More durable! Because it's built to Packard standards of design, materials, and workmanship.
- 5 And it stays in tune! Simplicity of design, and installation makes it easy to maintain the peak performance of this husky Packard straight-eight. That's another reason why Packard upkeep costs are so amazingly low.
