Pearson Asserts McKay Has CVA Utility Viewpoint

Treasurer Says Governor Can't Speak

Washington, June 23 (4º) — Walter Pearson, Oregon state treasurer, a democrat, told the senate committee hearing on the proposal that Oregon Governor Douglas McKay who will testify against the CVA bill tomorrow "represents the utility view point" and cannot speak for the people of Oregon. Pearson said they favor the CVA.

The action amounted to another tactical victory for the supporters of the Taft-Hartley law provision which lets the government get injunctions against critical strikes—though not all who voted against the Morse plan favor injunctions. Both sides are predicting that the still-to-come vote on the injunction issue itself will be very client today by Senator Ommittee today by Senator Hickenlooper (R-I o w a), who has charged the AEC with "incredible mismanagement."
