

ALL FOR A CRIPPLED SON

Former Beauty Starts On a Wheelbarrow Trek

Jacksonville, Fla. (AP)—Mrs. Julia Roka St. Clair, 47, "Miss Hungary of 1918," hoisted the handles of a wheelbarrow loaded with her boy and headed for Detroit Tuesday.

EDIT PAGE—Former

She started the 1,200-mile journey from Jacksonville to Michigan, pushing her six-year-old crippled son, Adolphus, in a brand new wheelbarrow. She made three miles in the first 45 minutes.

She's doing it for "Dolphie" who wants to see his 82-year-old grandmother in Detroit before it's too late.

Mrs. St. Clair said she expects to arrive in Michigan in "about a month," cooking by the road side and taking "pot luck" in the sparsely populated mountain regions along the route. She will stop up with food when the distance between "pot lucks" is too great.

A broad-shouldered, strong-armed woman, Mrs. St. Clair wore blue overalls and sandals when she started the journey Dolphie, seated in the wheelbarrow facing his mother, also wore blue overalls, his legs dangling between the handles of the vehicle.

He clutched a book of poetry his mother hoped he would memorize on the long journey. A few miles outside of Jacksonville, the boy, born with a crippled arm and leg which has been responding to Mrs. St. Clair's constant treatment, left his cramped position in the wheelbarrow to walk a while.

Mrs. St. Clair said they planned to while away the highway hours by singing and "having fun."

"And I'll be slim and beautiful when I get there," she said. Bread Strike Averted

Portland, June 23 (AP)—A late-hour settlement kept bread rolling today from this city's major bakeries to stores here and upstate.

With a strike of AFL truck drivers scheduled to start at midnight, agreement was reached with bakery operators last night. Its principal provision was a $5 raise to $75 weekly for drivers.

Oregon Early To Bar Tucker

Oregon was one of the first states to deny the Tucker Corporation permission to sell its stock according to a statement just released by Maurice Hudson, corporation commissioner.

The corporation commission notified the Tucker Corporation on July 10, 1947, that it must necessarily deny their application. Tucker Corporation had applied to sell $300,000 worth of stock to Oregon residents, or 60,000 shares at $5 per share.

At the time the Oregon commission denied this application Tucker Corporation had obtained permission to sell its stock in 18 states, and later other states also gave this right.

The Oregon decision was based upon an examination of the report of the securities and exchange commission, from which it was concluded that the sale of Tucker Corporation stock in this state would not be fair, just and equitable for the people of Oregon.

"Subsequent events have indicated that this is true," Hudson said today.

In 1934, average meat consumption by Americans dropped to 117 pounds, compared with 145 pounds in 1948 and 151 in 1900.

Salem Man On Safety Council

Portland, June 23 (AP)—Six men from Portland and one each from Corvallis and Salem have been appointed to the board of governors of the Western Safety Council. The council will hold its 11th annual conference at the Multnomah hotel June 26-29 in Portland.

Portland men include John L. Carpenter, vice chairman of the Portland Traffic and Transportation Commission; Otto Hartwig, safety director of Crown-Zellerbach Corporation; Capt. J. A. Hazelwood, Commission of Public Docks; Sidney King, Oregon State Motor Association; Frank E. Landsburg, Interstate Commerce Commission; and Roy Owen, chairman of the Portland Aviation Commission.

Unemployment in Oregon Still High

The state unemployment compensation commission reported today that seasonal employment gains of more than 50,000 had cut the number of those actively seeking work in Oregon in half since February. But it added that recovery was still slightly below that of last year.

Reports from 731 employers from all parts of Oregon had an optimistic note, the commission said. But June unemployment of nearly 40,000 remained nearly 5000 more than last year at this time.

Bids Received for Detroit Turbines

Portland, Ore., June 23 (AP)—The corps of engineers today said Baldwin Locomotive Works, Philadelphia, Pa., was the "apparent low bidder" on two 70,000 horsepower hydraulic turbines for the Detroit dam on the north Santiam river.

Col. O. E. Walsh said the Philadelphia firm bid $1,312,465 but did not equal the Woodward Governor Co.'s, Rockford, Ill., bid on governing equipment for the turbines.

Woodward was "apparently low" with an offer of $61,107. The contract specifications called for delivery of the first turbine May 15, 1952 and the second, May 1, 1953.
