Extensive Arc System Operated At Ebner Field

A complete new lighting system was unveiled recently at Ebner park in Mount Angel, when city officials joined with members of the Mt. Angel recreational association in dedication ceremonies.

The new lighting system consists of 120 lights of 1500 watts each, and makes the local park one of the best lighted athletic fields available to a city of Mt. Angel's size. It is so arranged that the playing field can be used for night football, baseball or any civic celebration.

Fred G. Starrett, division manager of the Portland General Electric company, recalled during the ceremonies that Mt. Angel was the first city of less than a thousand population in the country to have a lighted field and congratulated the recreational association on the program that has consistently kept the city's recreational facilities at a very high level. He was joined by George Emigh of the Salem Senator baseball club, who praised the community for its interest in sports and in the welfare of its youth.

Silverton Sox To Host Alcos Saturday Night

Silverton—The Silverton Red Sox, currently tied with Sweet Home for leadership of the State League, will engage the Albany Alcos on the McGinnis field diamond Saturday night. The second game of the week end program is slated for Sunday afternoon at Albany. The Alcos are a full game behind the Sox.

Charlie Sauvain, Oregon State's mound ace, and Bill Hanauka of the Salem schools, will handle the pitching chores for Silverton.

Bend and Sweet Home will meet on the latter's field Saturday and both teams will move across the mountains for the second contest Sunday afternoon.

San Antonio is the oldest city in Texas, with its first permanent settlement established in 1718 along with the founding of the mission.

Dallas—Memories of the good old days were recalled when these six living members of the eight-man Dallas high school basketball team of 1911 and 1912 gathered at a reunion Sunday afternoon at the home of V. Ray Boydston. The team bowled over all opposition as the second Dallas high school basketball team in the history of the school until they bumped into Ashland.

Famous Basketball Team Has Reunion at Dallas

Dallas, June 25—A reunion of the "iron men" of the Dallas high school basketball team of 1911-12 stirred sports memories in Polk county this week.

The get-together was arranged to coincide with a visit of Dr. Charles H. Poling of Long Beach, Calif., to Dallas. It was held at the home of V. Ray Boydston, a member of the team.

Only two members were missing, Allen Cadie, manager, and Lynn Matheny. Both are dead. Boydston received word that Matheny had died on May 9 of this year at Tillamook.

Highlight of the year 1911-12 was a tour of southern Oregon in which Dallas high played Cottage Grove, Roseburg and Ashland. The squad played a rugged brand of ball, patterned

West Salem Wins Junior Opener From Mayflower

West Salem Lumber and Mayflower Milk inaugurated the City Junior baseball season Friday evening. The game resulted in an 18-1 decision for the West Salem club.

Mayflower errors, of which there were 10, contributed largely to their downfall. Rice, West Salem hurler, held the dairymen to one blow. Jim Winter hit a homer in the third when eight runs were scored.

Tennis Leagues Formed to Boost Play on Courts

Plans to operate two separate leagues, each with three divisions, to stimulate local interest in tennis were announced Saturday by Del Ramsdell with the opening of the first match play.

The two leagues will operate at Leslie and Olinger courts with men's, boy's and girl's divisions. There is a possibility that a mixed doubles division may be added.

During the week Ramsdell expects to give tennis instructions at Richmond and Englewood schools as well as at Olinger and Leslie.

Wenatchee Player May Give WIL Honors

Bill Brenner, manager-catcher for the Vancouver Caps may provide Hal Rhyne, Wenatchee first sacker with his toughest competition for WIL batting honors before the season ends. This is indicated in the latest statistics released by the Howe News Bureau with compilations complete through June 19. At that time Rhyne had a percentage of .455 as against .425 for Brenner. However Brenner had participated in only half the number of games in which Rhyne has seen action.

Marty Krug, Salem first sacker who had taken part in 16 contests, shows a potent .370, good for fourth place. Bob Cherry, Larry Orteil, Mel Wasley and Bill Beard have skidded badly in the past two weeks.

Edo Vanni, Yakima outfielder, had checked in 17 stolen bases to hold the lead in that department. Dick Greco of Tacoma continues to pace the others in home runs with a total of 15.

The Salem Senators are in third place in the matter of third defense and in sixth position in team batting.

Pheasants Blank 12th Streets, 7-0

With Warren Miller pitching one hit ball, the Golden Pheasants whitewashed 12th Street in a City League softball game Friday evening, 7-0. Mootry's was credited with a win when Knights of Columbus failed to place the required number of men on the field. They played an exhibition game and K. of C. lost 3-1 behind Jim Rawlins' one hit chugging.

Coaching School

Setting forth that "it is now widely recognized that modern coaching is a science," the University of Oregon will sponsor a football and basketball coaching school during the period from June 27 to July 10. The faculty will include Wally Butts, University of Georgia head football coach; Gordon Ridings, Columbia university basketball coach; Jim Aiken, head Webfoot mentor and John Warren, Oregon's well known court director. Riding, a product of Molalla high and later a basketball player under Bill Reinhart at the University of Oregon is reported as being a keen analyst of the court game. During his four-year tenure at Columbia his teams have won 50 and lost 14 Ivy league games. A one-hour course is offered in "problems of officiating basketball." From the reactions at most of the games it would seem that the entire two weeks could be devoted to the subject.

Portland Gets Three

Multnomah stadium will be the scene of three big-time football games next fall—two involving Oregon State college and one in which the University of Oregon is a participant. The stadium season will open August 27 with the Shrine benefit contest between the best of the Portland high schools graduates and a similar group from upstate. The California Bears, who before the Northwestern university in the Rose Bowl last January 1, will meet the Beavers October 1. Kip Taylor's Oregon Staters came back November 12 for a repeat performance with Michigan State and on November 5, the Webfoots take on the University of Washington Huskies in their annual gigantic. The stadium will go dark after the annual state high school championship contest of December 3.

Girls Doing Well

The girls who make up Jary's softball club are paying the penalty every undefeated athletic aggregation encounters sooner or later—the entire opposition goes gunning for them. The squad must seek its competition in the Portland league because no other teams are available here. And each time they appear in Portland they find an almost solid rooting section pulling for the other side. Their ability as softballers will be demonstrated during a series of exhibition games which will probably be staged at Waters park. Those contests will involve Lind's now engaged in a three-week tour of the south as well as the California Ramblers. Jary's club isn't a closed corporation and girls wishing to try out will be made welcome. All that is needed is to contact Syd Jary either by phone or his place of business.

Following Dad

It doesn't seem that it was 18 years ago that Trux Foreman played basketball for Salem high but a program of the 1931 state basketball tournament shows Trux in the lineup along with Glen Sanford, "Squee" Kitchen, Mark Sachler, John Bone and a number of other Vikings. The team was coached by Hollis Huntington and won 20 out of 22 games during the regular season. The University of Oregon Freshmen beat them twice but none of the other quintets they met scored more than 29 points. All of which is a prelude to what we started out to put down in print. It concerns Trux' 14-year-old son—a left-hander who appears to have a bright prospect on the baseball diamond. He is being coached by Wade Williams of Portland, now engaged in directing one of the American Legion junior clubs of that city. While not a member of the squad young Foreman is getting the atmosphere and the experience that goes along with native ability. An adoring uncle by the name of Clayton Foreman provides quite a lot of the equipment the nephew requires. Trux is now living in Portland where he is dispatcher for the Inland Empire trucking concern.

Ambidextrous Angel Pitcher Foils Seattle; Bevos Lose

Cal McLish of the Los Angeles Angels has a decided advantage over other Pacific Coast league pitchers. When batters start giving him trouble, he just changes gloves and starts chugging with the other arm.

Thematically, anyway, the Angels bought two pitchers for the price of one; McLish the right-hander and McLish the southpaw. His possibilities seem unlimited.

The ambidextrous newcomer made his second start Friday night with a 7 to 4 victory over the Seattle Rainiers. He pitched with his right side this time, yielding 10 hits and five walks.

The Angels are still at the bottom of the heap, but they now hold a 3 to 1 edge over Seattle in the series.

Con Dempsey twirled a three-hitter as San Francisco thumped Portland, 4 to 1. The series now stands at two apiece.

There were six stolen bases in the game—four for the Seals and two for the Beavers. It was Dempsey's eighth win of the season.

San Diego made it two in a row over the league-leading Hollywood Stars with a 7 to 3 triumph. Lyman Linde went the route for the Padres, giving up eight hits. The Stars hold a 3 to 2 edge in the series.

Ken Holcombe limited Oakland to five hits as Sacramento won, 3 to 1. Homers by Al White and Bill Wilson gave the Solons their winning margin.

Best Ball Two Set for Golfers

Resuming its program of special week end activities, the men's club will sponsor a best ball twosome over the Salem Golf club course this week end.

Next Thursday evening the group will hold its customary monthly dinner in the club house.

Woodburn Golf Jamboree is Set

Woodburn—The 1949 Woodburn golf club jamboree fun day is to be held Sunday afternoon at the local course. Golf play will start at 1:30 p. m. and a no-host dinner is planned for 7 p. m.

Entrance fee will be 50 cents and prizes are being offered in men's and women's divisions and special prizes for special events. Proceeds will be used for improvement of the course. All golfers are invited to attend and bring a friend.

Lee Aces Knoll

Willson Lee, of the state vocational education department, turned in a hole-in-one on the third green of the Oak Knoll golf course Friday. Distance is 113 yards. Playing with him were Larry Eaton, William Loomis and Allen Lee.

Salem Legion Nine Extends Win String Over Silverton

Salem's American Legion juniors, sponsored by Capitol Post No. 9, remained undefeated in district competition as the result of a 17-3 decision over Silverton Friday evening at Waters park.

The locals, coached by Bill Hanauka, will host the Woodburn juniors Sunday afternoon at 2:30, also at Waters park.

Bob DeGeer, Salem chucker, limited the visitors to six hits during his seven inning stint. The locals clubbed Ray Lester for a dozen blows. Lester was a bit wild as he walked eight, but while doing so he fanned nine. DeGeer issued two bases on balls and struck out four.

The issue was settled in the first three innings when the Salem juniors checked in 15 tallies.

Top Trackmen to Chase AAU Crowns

Fresno, Cal., June 25 (AP)—The big guns in the nation's upper-crust track and field society take to the cinders tonight in quest of American AAU championships—and possibly an all-expenses paid trip to Europe.

With the "minor league" junior division competition out of the way after record smashing performances last night, the top names in track and field sport will be gunning for individual championships—and probable invitations to become members of the 55-man team that will tour Europe this summer.

Already assured of such a berth is smooth-striding Fred Wilt of the New York Athletic club. Wilt clinched his bid in the 10,000 meter event last night when he set a new national AAU record in 31 minutes, 5.7 seconds, chipping 1.2 seconds off a 13-year-old mark set by the great Don Lash of Indiana.

Today's feature races probably will come in the hurdle events where two great stars will be shooting for world's records. One is Harrison Dillard, the former Baldwin-Wallace record smasher, and the other, Craig Dixon of UCLA. Both are capable of cracking marks in the 100 meter highs and the 220 meter lows.

One of the outstanding performances last night was turned in by big Jim Urquhart of the University of Wisconsin, who romped to easy victories in both the 1,500 and 5,000 meter events. He had only an hour's rest between the two, but still ran completely away from his junior division rivals.

The junior division team title went to the San Francisco Olympic club with 12 3/4 points. Los Angeles Athletic club was second with 10 1/4 points. Morgan State college of Baltimore was a weak third with 3, followed by the CYO of Chicago with 2 1/2.

Mt. Angel Wins Legion Pitching Duel by 2 to 1

Mt. Angel—The Stayton American Legion junior diamond squad, one of the tougher outfits of the district, lost to Mt. Angel Friday night, 2 to 1 in a pitching duel between Frank Gierspacher of the losers and Arnie Bielemeier of Mt. Angel. Only one hit was recorded in the seven innings of play and that was off Gierspacher. The blow was a triple by Fritz Beyer. Combined with two errors in the fourth the result was Mt. Angel's two tallies.

E. Highberger scored for Stayton in the fourth on a walk, a stolen base and one of the three errors credited to Mt. Angel. Stayton... 000 100—1 0 3
