Seven Die in Wind Squall

New York, July 5 (AP)—At least seven persons were dead and an estimated 20 small boats missing in the wake of a violent wind and rain squall that cut through the parched New York metropolitan area yesterday.

A similar sudden squall in the Boston area overturned boats and caused the drowning of a month-old baby girl.

The coast guard estimated that 20 small boats still are missing in the metropolitan area. A spokesman said, however, there was no immediate indication that the death toll would rise.

Truman's Brother Injured in Tumble

Grandview, Mo., July 5 (AP)—J. Vivian Truman, the president's brother, was hospitalized today by head injuries suffered in an Independence day accident.

He fell from a barn loft on the family farm while removing picnic tables from the loft. Truman was knocked unconscious in the eight-foot tumble.

Dr. John R. McKee, the family physician, said his condition was not critical.

Truman, who is district director of the federal housing administration, was reported resting comfortably today by hospital attendants.

New Service Station Construction Starts

Lebanon—Construction of a new service station featuring Richfield products in the Lebanon area was announced when Buroker Construction company applied for a permit on south Main street.

The new building is located between Main and Park where they join the six-lane highway leading from the city.

Actual work is now underway. The structure will cost $15,000 according to the information presented at the time the building permit was procured.

Residents Make Mountain Out of Molehill in Reality

By LEO TURNER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Molehill, W. Va., July 5 (AP)—This town's 93 residents made a mountain out of a molehill the other day.

They dragged down the sign from in front of the post office that read Molehill, W. Va., for the last 92 years and nailed Mountain, W. Va., in its place. Some 2,000 mountaineers from as far as the Ohio river 20 miles away trooped over the hills in their sun bonnets and Sunday shoes to listen to the oratory and see the fireworks.

There was a traffic jam in front of Haymond's General store that sent chickens, cows and children in all directions.

Molehill's last day was the biggest it had ever seen.

Sherman Ridgewood whipped his 1925 Model T Ford coupe with its red wooden wheels around a curve in the mountain road to lead the procession into town soon after sunup. It was a wild two-wheeled ride around the bends in the new road that replaced the snake path through the hills as part of the benefits Molehill gets for changing its name.

The road was widened, leveled and the underbrush cut away for the arrival of Sen. Harley M. Kilgore, Gov. Okey L. Paterson and Rep. Cleveland M. Bailey, who came to wish the town good luck under its new name. Incidentally, this county is a republican stronghold in a democratic state.

A sound crew was on hand to record the ceremony for Columbia Broadcasting company's "County Fair" radio show next Saturday night.

Most of the town had the time of its life. But there were tears in the eyes of tall, thin, 87-year-old J. R. Marsh as he leaned on his cane and watched the celebration.

"It's terrible," he said. "Think of all the records in there that will have to be changed. There's no sense in spending all that money when you can't change a thing by just changing its name."

The town was named by John Lantz, the son of the first postmaster, Jacob Lantz, in 1857, Marsh said.

Molehill was written off the maps with a burst of oratory, a carnival, square dancing and a burst of fireworks that spelled out "Mountain" with a burst of rocks on the hillside. The only sign that was left was the tall red building at the end of town that said "Molehill Hammer Mill."

The whole thing started three months ago when a couple of idea men for the Columbia Broadcasting company radio show "County Fair" were thumbing through the postal guide and found the name Molehill. The local people like the idea of a change.

African slaves were first introduced in America in 1619, the first shipment going to Jamestown.
