Hisckden 1873, the alarms have come in. There were five in June and five in May.

Keizer has a volunteer fire department, one fire truck and a new headquarters hall. Alarms are sent in by telephone. When a call comes in it automatically sets off the fire siren. The reason for this arrangement is that members of the small volunteer company are occupied with their regular business and there are times when no one is at the Miss Ria Deres. The department's telephone number is 3-9898, which should not be easily confused. Mem-bers of the company have tried to trace the call through the telephone central office, but haven't been successful.

Most of the false alarms have caused needless and expensive runs by the fire truck, and made no end of trouble and inconvenience for the firemen. William Leonard White
