An amendment to the traffic code voted by the city council Monday night requires the stopping of motor vehicles before passing school buses that are stopped to receive or unload passengers.

'Little Hoover' Group Picked

Oregon's "Little Hoover commission," which will study whether the state government should be reorganized, was appointed today. It will make its recommendations to the 1951 legislature.

Members of the commission, named by Senate President William E. Walsh and House Speaker Frank J. Van Dyke, are:

Sen. Philip S. Hitchcock, Klamath Falls; Sen. Angus Gibson, Junction City; Rep. Rudie Wilhelm, Portland; Rep. Charles K. McColloch, Baker; and Rep. Paul Geddes, Roseburg.

Governor Douglas McKay, Walsh and Van Dyke named the committee to study whether Oregon's colleges are adequate. It will recommend whether junior colleges and more colleges should be constructed.

Members of this committee are Edgar Smith, Portland, president of the state board of higher education; Dr. H. Morgan Odell, president of Lewis and Clark college, Portland; James W. Bushong, Bend; Oscar I. Paulson, Salem, state director of vocational education; Sen. Thomas Parkinson, Roseburg; Rep. Sprague Carter, Pendleton; and Rep. J. F. Short, Redmond.

Walsh appointed the senate committee to investigate state institutions. Members are Sens. Vernon D. Bull, La Grande; Russell Gardner, Newport; Frank H. Hilton, Portland; Carl Engdahl, Pendleton; and Stewart Hardie, Condon.

Hospital Drive Meet Tonight

The tempo of pre-drive preparations for the community hospital drives which start next Tuesday was stepped-up today with the announcement of a captains' training meeting by the general campaign chairman, Al Loucks.

The heads of both men's and women's divisions, said Loucks, have been assured by their 10 commanders that 50 captains will be present at the meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Campaign literature and materials will be distributed and special instructions will be given the group by drive leaders.

The initial task of the newly-named captains will be to recruit five workers each to complete the general campaign organization of 315 people. The date set for all workers to report for instructions and the selection of prospect names is Friday, July 15, at which time another meeting will be held.

The advance gift workers are due for a final report before the general campaign starts at a luncheon Thursday. More than 70 members of this committee have raised $248,000 so far. The total goal for both hospitals is $1,100,000.

Navy's 'Blue Angels' Here on August 5

Salem is to see the navy's "Blue Angels" August 5.

The fliers, famous for their stunting and considered the navy's top precision fliers, are to be here on that date as part of the American Legion state convention celebration.

First word that the "Blue Angels," who fly F-8-F fighters (Bearcats) with a 2300 horse power Pratt-Whitney reciprocating engine, would be coming to Salem, was received by the U. S. Naval Air Station in Seattle last week from the chief of naval air reserve training at Pensacola, Fla.

Tuesday morning Carl Gabrielson of the American Legion received a telegram from the chief of advance training at Corpus Christi, Tex., containing the same information.

5 Jurors Think Hiss Judge Bias

New York, July 12 (AP)—The New York Herald said today that telephone interviews with members of the Alger Hiss trial jury show five think Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman was biased in favor of the defense.

The newspaper said two of the 12 jurors stated they do not think the judge showed bias, one declined to take a stand, three had no comment, and the 12th could not be reached.

Judge Kaufman, who has been accused of bias by some members of the house committee on un-American activities, issued this statement last night:

"After conferring with some of the judges in this court I will stand on the record and will not enter any debates. The record speaks for itself."

Trial of Hiss, former state department official, ended Friday night with the jury split eight for conviction and four for acquittal. The government plans to bring Hiss on trial again on the perjury charges.

5 Flax Princesses Meet Salem Jaycees

Five of the six princesses of the Mt. Angel Flax festival were presented Tuesday to members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce by Gene Barrett, manager of the eleventh annual affair.

The five girls who attended the meeting were: Kathleen Tempis, Silverton, Yvonne Bailey, Mt. Angel, Ramona Berg, Monitor, Jacqueline Rue, Woodburn and Mildred Brentano, St. Paul.

The Flaxaria festival will be held July 29, 30 and 31.

Prior to the introduction of the girls, the group voted to back a driving instruction program in Salem which will be jointly sponsored by auto firms. Plans were laid for a golf tournament also.

Goldenrod, bane of hay fever victims, can be made to yield a sweet oil that imparts a licorice flavor to candy and chewing
