Missourians to Meet — The 16th annual Missouri state picnic will be held at Jantzen Beach, Portland, Sunday, July 24. An address of welcome will be made by Mayor Dorothy McCullough Lee of Portland with response by Joseph E. Harvey, ex-president of the organization. The program will include solos, banjo, violin, baton twirlers, readings and contests, and prize awards to the largest family and the oldest man and oldest woman present. Picnic dinner will be served from 12:15 to 1:30. Former Missourians and friends are invited. Passes may be had at the west gate.
Grain Prices Slump Again — Chicago, July 13 (AP)—Moderate selling pressure and a lack of commercial buying combined to send grains lower on the board of trade today. Losses were not large and activity slumped below recent days.

F. S. Crowley, 64 Educator Dies — Dallas, Ore., July 13 — Fred Solomon Crowley, 64, former Polk county school superintendent who also served other schools as principal, died at his home on Monmouth route 2 about 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Funeral services will be held from the Henkle and Bollenman chapel at 2:30 o'clock Thursday, with the Masonic lodge at Rickreall participating and burial in the IOOF cemetery here.
Crowley was born in Polk county Jan. 1, 1885, the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Crowley and with the exception of 15 years, spent his entire life in the county. He was married to Alta Hinshaw at Falls City, June 26, 1907.
During his absence from 1923 to 1938 he was in the Astoria district and served for a time as postmaster at Knappa and principal of a school at Newport. He was a former city superintendent at Independence and also was principal at Falls City and Rickreall. He was a member of the Masonic lodge at Rickreall for 35 years.
Besides his widow he is survived by two sons, Fred Solomon Crowley, Jr., and Charles L. Crowley, both of Monmouth Rt. 2 and a daughter, Mrs. Bertha Brunkhart, of Grass Valley, Oregon.

O & C Receipts To County Drop — Oregon & California grant land money allocated to the counties under the grants is going down and the participating counties can't expect to get the same amount of grant which came their way during the lush war years of high timber cuts and high prices, says Frank Seever, Portland, attorney for the grant land association, in a letter to County Judge Murphy.
Incidentally, he warns that he already has sidetracked one move started in Washington to cut the counties' share of the proceeds to 37 1/2 percent from 50 percent and to use 25 percent of the money to set up a development fund. But he says, the move is not dead but only sleeping and counties should take precaution to protect their interest.
Seever says that during the 1940-48 period 440,000,000 board feet was the average yearly cut from the lands but in 1949 fiscal year it has dropped to $263,000,000 board feet. He says during the year just closed return was $3,600,000 of which the counties' share was $1,800,000 as compared with $2,200,000 the preceding year. But in the present fiscal year he expects the counties' share to be cut to $1,000,000 or less with a prospective average of $800,000 and warns that any cut in the county percentage will reduce their take accordingly.

Navy Deserter Held for Larceny — A navy deserter, LeRoy E. Friederick was held by Salem police Wednesday on an auto larceny charge pending an investigation into numerous forgeries on prominent farmers' check- ing accounts.
Friederick was nabbed Tuesday when a grocery store at 546 Highland avenue telephoned police about a suspicious check. Detectives found him in the neighborhood, and brought him to headquarters for questioning.
In his wallet were found several checks made payable to a Eugene Enfield, one of the six aliases he told police he had used. That information provided police with the clinching clue in a car theft case.
Mrs. Thelma Tucker, who reported the theft of her car recently called police for a second time when the car was recovered. She turned over a blank check which she had found crumpled in the front seat made out to a Eugene Enfield.
When Friederick was confronted with this information, he signed a statement admitting the larceny of the auto. He gave a verbal admission of writing several checks, but no charges were filed immediately.
While the police interrogation of check activities was under way, naval authorities began a check of his record to determine how long he had been missing from the service.
Friederick, a minor, told police he had been married and that his wife had died recently. A navy investigator, however, advised the department that his wife was living in a tent in an orchard north of Salem near the Keizer district.
The navy information was partially confirmed when a Red Cross worker, sent by Friederick's wife, came to police headquarters to seek information as to why she had never received an allotment check as a serviceman's dependent.

Special Election Voted for Hayesville School Merger — The Salem school board did not name a successor to Miss Joy Hills, recently resigned principal of Leslie junior high school during their conference Tuesday night. The delay in announcing the new principal was not due to a lack of applicants, but because there were so many outstanding candidates that additional time was deemed necessary to make a decision.
The candidates are from within the system as well as from outside the district.
The directors agreed to hold a special election to determine whether the Hayesville district to the north of Salem shall be consolidated with Salem. Action came after Hayesville directors have sought such action on the grounds of overcrowding of their present quarters which would result in a considerable outlay of cash to provide needed classrooms. Superintendent Frank B. Bennett said that Parish and Leslie junior high schools could absorb the 7th and 8th grade classes from Hayesville. The balance of the pupils would remain where they are.
The special election is contingent upon the filing of petitions bearing the necessary number of signatures of property owners. The Salem school board stipulates that if the consolidation is effective, Hayesville shall assume its proportion of the Salem district's bonded indebtedness. The sum of $4000 accumulated by Hayesville will be earmarked for improvements of their own school building. The district that seeks admission has the largest assessed valuation of any of those admitted within the past two years.
The resignation of William Kidwell, director of special education of the Salem district was accepted. Kidwell will become director of appointments and assistant psychology professor at San Diego State college where he is currently taking summer work.
O. C. Brown of West Salem was elected to the position of agricultural instructor while bids for three betterment projects were approved. The bid of R. L. Elfstrom company of $2,952 covers the cost of re-roofing a portion of the school office building and adjoining residence on North High. The Neuman company of Salem was awarded the contract for construction of a retaining wall and sidewalk at McKinley at a cost of $1,185, and T. J. Patzer company of Salem was given the job of filling 14 window openings at Leslie junior high school at a bid price of $3,373.
Assurance was given by Henry Carl that work on the Capitol and Four Corners grade school buildings will be pushed with all possible speed.
Harry Scott, who assumed the chairmanship of the board at the start of the fiscal year, announced his committee chairman assignments as follows: Mrs. Daid Wright, health; Edw. Majik, insurance and finance; Gardner Knapp, buildings and grounds; LeRoy J. Stewart, supplies and transportation.

Smith Sure of Beating Horse

When Paul A. Smith, of Mill City, pits his walking efforts against a horse on the Lebanon racetrack July 24, he expects not only to win but to break his previous high speed record of 8 1/2 miles an hour established in a training sprint at Mill City last week.
The mark he made, Smith said in Salem today, was made against a wind. He states that "picking 'em up and layin' 'em down" is easier and faster on a racetrack than on the road.
Smith and the horse start out at 6 o'clock the morning of the race and he estimates that it will take between 11 and 15 hours to cover the 75 miles announced for the length of the contest. Smith states that the last report he had from Mill City place him a three-to-one favorite over the horse.
Walking against a field of 95 percent younger men in Portland last August he placed fifth. He also has taken part in a coast-to-coast walk and from Albany to Mill City against time.
Smith says that the winner of the Lebanon race will be awarded the gate receipts, whatever they amount to. The owner of the horse will collect if he is defeated, Smith says, but he has no knowledge of what the horse will receive in event the animal wins, perhaps an extra feed of oats, but that is up to the owner, according to Smith.

New Laws

A new law becomes effective Saturday permitting establishment of dedicated or public road improvements on petition of property owners, the land to be assessed for the cost. As yet no petitions have come in under this law, although much interest has been shown, the petitions being ward off until proper forms are prepared.

North Firemen to Meet at Woodburn

The north Marion county firemen's association will meet at the Woodburn Settler's park Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock with arrangements made by the Woodburn firemen and their wives to serve supper to between 150 and 200 persons.
Special guests will be Bob Taylor, newly appointed state fire marshal, and "Chuck" Taylor, chief deputy state fire marshal, and several other representatives of the department.
Battalion Fire Chief Smith of Salem, president of the association, will be in charge of the program. The supper will be served in connection with the meeting which takes the place of the usual meeting of the Woodburn department.

Withdraws Protest On Elkhorn Road

S. C. Dark, Mehama, who recently filed with the county court a protest against a plan advanced by logging interests to reroute about two miles of the Elkhorn road on the opposite side of the river from its present location, has now reversed his attitude and in a letter to County Judge Grant Murphy says he doesn't want to retard progress and will willingly give a right of way across certain of his lands.
The county judge replied to Dark's original protest by stating that the court was not initiating any movement for the change but indicated it would cooperate with the loggers and other property owners if they wished to go ahead and grade and gravel a road along such right of way at their own expense. Dark's objections in his original letter were that he didn't want his land "cut to ribbons" by roads and that it would allow his stock to roam at will to far places.

She said she wanted it made "very clear that I did not suspect sabotage."
In Manila yesterday, William R. Mathews, publisher of the Tucson, Ariz., Star, said Mrs. Brandon had told him she wouldn't board the plane at Batavia because "it's going to be sabotaged as sure as you live."
Mrs. Brandon said in Hong Kong, however, that she and Mathews had made up their minds in New York, before the correspondents' journey had begun, not to make the return trip with the others. She told an interviewer she and Mathews were the only ones among the party who had planned to go north after the Batavia tour.

Change in Benefits
Oregon's department of veterans' affairs said today that Oregon veterans of World War II seeking state educational benefits for studies outside the state from now on must show such training is not available in Oregon.
The department called attention to an amendment to the state veterans' educational aid act passed by the 1949 legislature, which states the director of veterans' affairs cannot permit a beneficiary to draw benefits while attending school or college outside of Oregon without a "satisfactory showing that the training required is not available in an accredited institution within the state of Oregon." The amendment goes into effect July 16.
About 45 veterans have drawn Oregon benefits while studying in other states and two have been approved for study in foreign countries since the act went into effect in 1945.
