Classop county ranked second in cash returns of $8,043 from 163 operators. Both Lane and Clatsop counties were high in the number of mink and muskrat trappings. Opossums, usually associated with the south, have continued to increase in Clatsop county and have spread into Columbia. Since their pelts bring but 20 cents, there has been little trapping of this animal.

"He's by far the best shortstop in the league," praised Charlie Petersen, Wenatchee manager. The party under discussion was none other than Bud Peterson, Salem's short patcher. Both day life, but they continue to function in the matter of the prought out and the sale of skins from fur bearers. This is amply brought out came in the second with Wasin a recent discussion of trapping carried in the July issue of the Oregon State Game commission bulletin covering the 1948-49 season. During that period 2,113 trappers caught 60,766 fur animals which brought them revenue of $110,827.81, less than half the fifth to score a brace of the first of the first of the first of the fifth to score a brace of the first of the fifth to score a brace of the fifth to score a brace of the fifth to score a brace of the financial rewards realized during the previous year. The decrease is based on a number of factors, including large importations of Russian and other furs, complete disregard for long haired furs by manufacturers, continuation of the government's 20 percent luxury tax and abnormal winter conditions which made trapping difficult. Andy Adams, about 20 pounds heavier than when he toiled for Salem back in 1946, who re-cently joined the Spokane, went the distance for his club.

The nightcap was chiefly noted for action and Solon backers would have enjoyed it immensely had the score been reversed. Grid Prices Down

Oregon State will reduce the top level price for grid contests next fall from $3.60 to $3.00 per pasteboard. However, the new scale does not include the OSC-Oregon classic which will be played in Corvallis this year. That event will cost the spectators $5 each and no doubt it will be a sell-out well in advance of the engagement. Oregon State does not sell season tickets to the general public because of its restricted seating capacity. This project, along with the basketball pavilion which cost in the neighborhood of $1.850,000, now being completed, will necessistate gate receipts of top bracket figures if the athletic department is to pay out.
