Catcher Slattery Succumbs at 71

Boston, July 18 (AP)—Jack Slattery, who once managed the Boston Braves and caught for four American league clubs, died yesterday at the age of 71. Slattery made his major league debut with the Boston Red Sox in 1903 and later played with Washington, the Chicago White Sox and St. Louis Browns. The Braves gave him a one-year managerial contract in 1928 but he resigned in May of the same year and was succeeded by Rogers Hornsby.

Jary's Softball Girls Make Waters Park Date

One of the few home appearances of the Jary softball girls' team has been scheduled for July 26th at Waters Park when the Salem softball crew will meet Portland's Lind florist squad. Betty Evans, whose exceptional pitching has won her a nationwide reputation, will control the hill for the Portlanders. She will face with Jackie Gardner or Lavonna Shotwell for the Jary crew.

Despite the reputation of Miss Evans, the Gardner and Shotwell mound combination is not expected to be an easy mark for the Lind florists. The Salem pair have brought their team through the schedule of games in the Portland league thus far without a single defeat.

The Lind team has just returned from a three-weeks tour of the south where the girls played 26 games against such opposition as the Fresno Rockets and Arizona Ramblers. The Ramblers are the current world championship team, having won that honor last year in Portland. The Jary team has been priming for a shot at the Lind squad for the right to act as host team to the world championship tournament which will be held in Portland in September.

Waitkus to Go Home for Rest

Chicago, July 18 (AP)—Eddie Waitkus went home yesterday more than a month after he was shot by a demented girl fan. The Philadelphia Phillies' star first baseman will be out of the line-up for "quite some time," a spokesman at the Billings Memorial hospital here said. Surgeons removed the .22 caliber bullet from Waitkus' chest during his stay at the hospital. His assailant, 19-year-old Ruth Steinhagen, has been declared insane and committed to a mental hospital.

Bucky Worries Over Nats Showing, Relied Hurlers

New York, July 16 (AP)—Square-jawed Bucky Walters was a puzzled man today and what put the Cincinnati manager on the ropes had nothing to do with the reasons why his Reds were mired deep in the second division.

As far as the Reds were concerned, their troubles were obvious to anybody who ever had seen a baseball and no comment was necessary—or forthcoming—from Walters.

But Bucky, along with a lot of other national leaguers, was trying to figure why so few pitchers can make good in relief roles.

"They're both a puzzle to me," Walters admitted. "As for the All-Star game, it can't be the breaks because you'd think breaks would even up some time. Maybe it's because we just don't have those big hitters to bring 'em across."

As for the lack of good relief pitchers, Walters allowed that it must be a mental problem. Certainly it is inexplicable why, in the case of a starter like Don Newcombe, he can't survive the hail of baseballs when he is called as a fireman.

"I know, because I never was any good as a relief pitcher," Walters explained.

"I remember one time we were at the Polo Grounds and Bill McKechnie started looking down the bench for a reliever," Bucky smiled. The big fellow pointed at his chest and said: "How about me, Bill, I'm ready." Bucky chuckled and recalled: "I went out there and boom, boom, boom. They had three runs so quick it made me blink—as I walked to the showers." McKechnie stamped into the clubhouse after the game, hunted up Walters where he was sitting far back in a corner of the dressing room, and shook his finger at Bucky while he snort-

"The next time I look for a relief pitcher, Don't you open your big mouth."

"PACKAGED" MILLS process ALL of Every Log — Efficiently

WHEN this company's long-range objective is reached, we will have at each mill site—in one compact package—enough different kinds of mills to use ALL the timber harvest from our tree farms. The advantages are many. First, transportation, administration costs, power, and other costs are reduced. Without such economies it would not be practical to use all the harvest—because in order to win permanent markets, prices must be low enough to attract customers. Integration makes it economically sound to use all the different sizes and species of trees grown on the supporting tree farm. We can also make salable products from formerly unused sound material. Planer shavings, slabs, and short pieces for example—become the raw materials for other nearby mills. This volume creates more jobs for workers. Future stability is greatly improved for employees, shareholders, our communities and allied business.

TO HELP INSURE A PERMANENT INDUSTRY WE—

- OPERATE TREE FARMS—to provide a never ending timber supply for our mills. The forest crop is harvested, reseeded, harvested, reseeded—in about 80-year cycles.
- DIVERSIFY OUR MANUFACTURING—in order to use all of the tree. The aim is to build manufacturing centers in each of our operating areas so that an one millite we can make useful products from low value as well as high value material.
- DEVELOP NEW PRODUCTS—to increase the "take" from each acre of forest land harvested. A staff of engineers and scientists spend all of their time in this work. More products mean more steady jobs.
- DEVELOP PERMANENT MARKETS—to be reasonably certain that Weyerhaeuser products are in steady demand year in and year out, in good times and bad. We work toward consistent high quality, and apply modern selling methods to create customer demand.
