

Cherk Fattened on Engadines For Voyageurs at Promenade

Baby cherk meat will be the delicacy on which voyageurs of the 40 et 8 will feed at the grand poemanade banquet here on August 2, just before the state Legion convention.

The cherk has been held in captivity here for 10 years, but a 10-year-old cherk isn't old and tough. He corresponds in age to a yearling steer.

During the 10 years the cherk has been fed almost exclusively on engadines, of which cherk are especially fond. Cherk meat dried and smoked is called "cherky," not to be confused with "jerky" or turkey. But the cherk meat to be served the voyageurs will not be dried. It will be juicy steaks just off the grill.

Here's more about the animal in a letter that has gone out to the voyageurs from Ethan Grant, the cherk's keeper:

"A 10-year-old secret can now be told. Late in 1939 two Oregon voyageurs on a fishing trip near Prestoria captured a young cherk, one of the rarest known animals on earth. They didn't know for a long time what it was. But these two men, Brazier Small, now Chef de Gare of Voltaire 153, and Sephus Starr, now commander-elect of Capital Post 9, Salem, did know they had an oddity.

"Ascertaining its sex, they named the young cherk 'Esker.' For reasons of their own, but probably because they were unable to identify Esker with the game laws, they decided to keep him a secret. Since then, they and Esker, have had some noteworthy experiences.

They were first confronted with what to feed the little animal. They tried just about everything from salmonberries to powdered china doorknobs. Esker weighed around four pounds at the time, and was losing rapidly.

"It was at this point that Brazier and Sephus took Ira (Fog) Pilcher into their confidence. Pilcher claims he can do anything he sets his mind to, and he frequently proves it. He didn't know anything at all about a cherk, but he soon solved its food problem. He discovered, somehow, that Esker would thrive on engadines, although Pilcher didn't know at the time what an engadine was. The only place in the world where you can find an engadine is in Northern Michigan. Pilcher got a supply and it has temperature, because the medical profession had never produced one properly calibrated to register the extreme heat of a cherk about the time fishing season opened.

"The record is filled with strange doings in the effort to care for Esker. It would have to be collected piecemeal from each of the 10 or so voyageurs who have been parties to his welfare around Salem. Except that most of them won't talk. For instance ask them what happened the night Bert Victor and Bill Poorman let Esker loose in the laurel bushes in front of the Elks Club, and they'll tell you convincingly they don't even remember it. "Esker has grown, and here is why the secret can now be told. He weighs almost 400 pounds and appears in the pink of condition, or as Brazier says, "Like the inside of a Louisiana watermelon." If the engadines hold out till August 2 Esker will be roasted and served to Oregon's voyageurs at the Grand Promenade banquet."

Only Bobby Jones (1926, 1930) and Gene Sarazen (1932) have won the U. S. and British open golf titles in the same year.

Gardens Are Given Flax Festival Place

Mt. Angel—The flax festival displays in the city hall will have added interest this year for, beside the usual flax and flax product exhibits there will be a garden section and all garden lovers are invited to compete for worthwhile cash prizes.

There are three divisions: flower arrangements for individuals; vegetable arrangements for individuals; and flower arrangements for garden clubs.

Each club will be allotted six feet of space.

Three cash prizes will be awarded in each division. Mrs. O. J. Williams is chairman of the committee in charge of the exhibits.

Mt. Angel Garden club members met Tuesday afternoon to make flax corsages which will again be sold by the club this year. The little corsages of golden flax balls proved very popular last year. Mrs. Ben Traviss is chairman of the corsage committee.

The garden club will also enter a float in the grand parade on Saturday afternoon, the second day of the festival, and Mrs. A. Ebner is chairman of the committee decorating the float.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have finished in the National League cellar only once, in 1905.

French Boxcar Permanently Set As Attraction

The French boxcar, presented to the grand voiture of Oregon, Societe of the 40 et 8, will soon be permanently installed as a public attraction on the grounds of Salem's Legion hall on South Commercial.

It will be near Highway 99E where it may be seen by tourists and other drivers on the highway.

A concrete foundation is being laid for the car. In it will be embedded two steel rails on which the car will set, enclosed by a chain barrier. A concrete walk will surround the spot.

The car was given the Oregon grand voiture in a Salem ceremony at the time the merel train of gifts from the people of France to the people of the United States was received in this country. This particular car brought the gifts distributed in Oregon.

It was soon found that the car couldn't conveniently be taken from one part of the state to another, so the grand voiture left it permanently in the custody of Marion county Voiture No. 153.

At Last—Recently Angela Lansbury, London-born film actress, was heard to complain that as long as she had been in Hollywood no one had ever photographed her in a bathing suit at the beach. Happily, this unheard-of situation has now been corrected, with the above results. (AP Wire-photo)
