

Behind-the-Scene Workers — It was through the thorough planning and hard work of this group that the 31st annual state Legion convention was made ready. The host commission of the convention, pictured here in front of Capital post headquarters at 2650 South Commercial, are, left to right, top row, Orval Loman, transportation and first aid; Chandler Brown, finance; William C. Dyer, parades; Arthur M. Johnson, bands and drum corps; Kenneth M. Potts, concessions and decorations; Rex Kimmell, police and civic cooperation; Joe Felton, legal; Wayne C. Perdue, entertainment. Bottom row, left to right, Sephus Starr, housing; Charles Huggings, business sessions and memorial; Carl Gabrielson, vice-chairman; John Kerrick, general chairman; Onas D. Olson, executive secretary and registrar; Mildred Christenson, auxiliary liaison; Brazier Small, 40 et 8; George E. Donaldson, dances.

Post Clubhouse Sightly Place

Persons entering Salem on Highway 99E from the south cannot help seeing the clubhouse of Capital Post No. 9 at 2650 South Commercial street.

The big club with its large lawn was purchased by Capital Post in 1948, and was opened under the post's supervision on June 7, 1948.

Legionnaires from throughout the United States, Alaska and Hawaii have visited the elaborate clubhouse. It is open to all Legionnaires, auxiliary members and their guests.

The building originally was owned by the Rose Lawn Funeral home. It then became the Normandy Manor night club. It is today one of the finest dining spots in Salem.

Over 300 people can be accommodated at one time at the dining tables.

Numerous parties and banquets are held at the club, as well as all post meetings of Capital Post and Post No. 136 of Salem.

Mrs. Mem Pearce serves as one of the "unsung heroes" of the 31st annual convention in her job as general secretary to the executive secretary.

Beauty Queen—Ladyce Cameron, of Chelsea, Mass., 5 feet 7 inches tall and 122 pounds, is a candidate for honors as queen of carnival week at Hampton Beach, N. H.

Extensive irrigation and anti-malarial projects are to be started in the British West Indies.

Miss Oregon

(Continued from Page 1)

afternoon, the grand parade Friday night, and the convention cavalcade vaudeville performance at the State Fair grounds.

Miss Oregon will ride in both parades attired in a bathing suit.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Krueger, Beverley's parents, are both active in Legion affairs, and will be here with their daughter during the convention as house guests of Mrs. I. N. Bacon.

Grain Harvest Starts

Aurora — Farmers and combine operators were warned during the week by warehousemen that some grain is being brought in which is too wet for threshing. Combining it now will result in considerable loss of grain, they said. John Todd of Aurora warehouse said that an electric moisture tester will reveal immediately, on a small sample, whether grain is dry enough for threshing.

Coach Making Study

Monmouth — Sam Ramey of Oregon College of Education, who will be the assistant coach at the Independence high school this fall, is spending several weeks in Portland taking instructions on a high school driving course which probably will be taught to Monmouth and Independence high school students this fall.

House Builder — Maj. Gen. Glen E. Edgerton, retired army engineer, is executive director of the joint congressional commission on reconstruction of the White House.

To You Legionnaires We Extend Our Welcome

As You Served Before, We Now Want to Be of Service to You in Salem. Our New Store Will Be Opening August 11 at 550
North Capitol . . . Plan to Be With Us at Our Opening.

484 State Street

Phone 3-9191