World War II Veteran Looms As Candidate to Head Legion

The Oregon department of the American Legion may have a World War II veteran as commander for the first time when the 31st annual gathering of the veterans of both wars concludes Saturday night, according to political rumors on the eve of the department's opening sessions.

Southern Oregon Legionnaires are making a strong bid for the 32nd convention and are launching a strenuous campaign not only to hold the 1950 convention in Grants Pass but also to have a Grants Pass man as the next department commander.

Sam Bove, World War II veteran and a member of Grants post No. 28 who is serving as state vice commander this year, is the candidate of the southern Oregonians. He is a young attorney and a graduate of Williamette university.

Backing their candidate and home town for the next convention, the Grants Pass delegation is scheduled to make a wide and judicial distribution of gladionettes as part of their campaign.

Eugene, originally believed a seeker for the convention, is now thought to be in the mood to delay its campaign and be content to be host for the 1951 convention.

Turning to the 40 at 8 convention, the grand promenade at its caucus tonight is thought to be favorable to W. E. (Windy) Wilkins, chef de gare of the La Grande voiture, as grand chief we dare. Favorable report of the findings of the caucus is tantamount to election and merely a formality at the grand voiture or business session of the organization the next day.

Wilkins has been active in the grand voiture for many years and has also served as president of the tri-state voiture composed of voyagers in Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

'Atomic Cocktail' — I. S. Randall, New York advertising and sales executive, holds cup containing radioactive iodine which he says apparently has cured him of hopeless thyroid cancer. Randall, writing in the American Magazine, says he had gone to a hospital to die, when the iodine drink, or "atomic cocktail," was tried. It cured his back pain quickly, and in a few months the thyroid cancers disappeared. Now he says he is feeling younger and more jaunty than for years. The iodine drink is ordinary water containing a very small amount of radioactive iodine produced at atomic energy plants. (AP Wirephoto)

Radioactive Iodine Cures Thyroid Cancer

New York, Aug. 3 (AP)—I. S. Randall, New York advertising and sales executive, told today in the American magazine how drinking radioactive iodine apparently has cured him of hopeless thyroid cancer.

The iodine drink is a glass of ordinary water containing a very small amount of radioactive iodine. Before the war this iodine was made by cyclotrons and was scarce and expensive. Now it is made by atomic energy plants, at Oak Ridge, Tenn., and at Chicago, and is much easier to get.

Randall's case adds one more to a small list of spectacular and almost miraculous recoveries, due to radioactive iodine drinks, he wrote. His thyroid cancer had spread to his spine and to shoulder bones.

He had gone to a hospital to die when the iodine drink was tried. It quickly cured his back pain and in a few months the thyroid cancers disappeared, he said.

Reports Given Society

The Unionvale Woman's Missionary society with ten members present held the monthly meeting at the church. The three members, Mrs. Clark Noble, the president, Mrs. George Millen and Mrs. Clarence S. Crawley, who had attended the annual convention at Jennings Lodge, each gave reports. The next meeting will be at the church August 18. "Japan" will be subject of missionary study for next year. Rev. George Millen, the local pastor here was re-assigned.

Heavy demand from the United States for cinchona bark, from which quinine is made, has caused prices for the bark to rise in Ecuador.
