

FEPFA Applies to School Districts

The fair employment practices act of the 1949 legislature applies to school districts, since they are not specifically exempted from its provisions, Attorney General George Neuner held here today. The opinion was requested by District Attorney C. E. Luckey of Lane county.

The state engineering board sets the salary of its secretary because of an amendment by the 1949 legislature. Neuner declared in an opinion sought by E. A. Buckhorn, secretary of the board. Prior to July 16, when the amendment became operative, the salary was fixed by statute.

Failure of notices of a school election to specify the time of day the polls would be opened and closed should not invalidate the election, Neuner held in an opinion requested by the board of school district 103, Woodburn, Marion county, and the board was advised it has both authority and duty to issue and sell bonds voted by the district in an election July 29 of this year. Votes favoring the issue totaled 433; against, 300.

A constable cannot serve two districts, Neuner advised James A. Norman, Coos county district attorney, suggesting that justice districts 1 and 2 of that county could be consolidated if each of either is too small to require regular services of a constable. A justice of the peace may appoint someone to serve papers, too, Neuner's opinion pointed out.

just a few hours after his relatives increased a reward for finding him to $1,000.

Relatives, friends and foresters had been combing the woods for Tracy since his car—abandoned, and its door open—was found on a mountain road July 29. The elderly Estacada, Ore. resident had gone alone into the area after hearing reports that gold ore might be located there.

Hospital Drive Gets Results

Salem residents today responded enthusiastically today as a telephone canvass began with the purpose of contacting every home in the city in behalf of the Hospital Development program.

Five minutes after the campaign office opened this morning, two women workers recalled to report five promises of gifts from their contacts. "I've had three to say they want to give," Mrs. Eugene Anderson reported to Mrs. Chandler P. Brown, co-chairman of the women's section of the city drive. "They were the Pumalite Block Supply Co. in West Salem; Chris Renscher of 2804 Brooks Ave.; and E. G. Quine, 2035 Bruce, of the Salem Pump and Meter Co."

Meanwhile, Lois Maederer, headquarters office employe, was taking a call from Mrs. Phil Brownell, one of the 92 volunteers engaged in the dialing system of solicitations. Mrs. Brownell said that Mrs. W. A. Merrifield 101 Second St., and Mrs. Andrew Messman, of Route 6, had asked that representatives of the program call on them.

The telephone push is scheduled to be completed Tuesday night, but a preliminary report of progress will be had in a Tuesday luncheon meeting of group and team leaders.

Weekly report meeting of the larger gifts committee is scheduled Thursday noon. W. L. (Bill) Phillips, temporarily in charge of that phase of the enterprise, said that every member of the committee is expected to report at that time, and "we have reason to hope that we will be able to announce an unusually large gift total."

City Directory Work Started

A crew of 15 enumerators and a small office force have been working for the past four weeks preparing a new Salem city directory for publication by the R. L. Polk company. The new directory, which will be patterned after the 1947 edition, will be available for purchase sometime this fall.

Canvassers will finish their job of contacting every resident and business establishment in Marion county in about five weeks.

In the event an enumerator finds no one home at a residence, he leaves an information blank, requesting the occupant of that residence to fill in certain information and mail it to Salem headquarters at 426 Oregon building.

The city directory will carry an alphabetical list of persons and businesses, numerical list of streets numbers for each street showing the occupant of each building, and a classified business section.

McKay Presents Vail Trophies

Two of the five Theodore N. Vail awards made nationally for "noteworthy public service" in 1948 went to Oregon employes of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

The awards were presented at the Telephone employes' annual picnic at Viking park east of Portland with Gov. Douglas McKay making the presentation.

Receiving the silver Vail and $500 in cash was Wesley R. Schulz, Portland installer, who helped extricate two men buried by a cave-in and is credited with saving the life of one of the victims. The other award, a bronze plaque, was presented 11 telephone operators and switchmen, who during the Vanport flood remained at their posts in the Vanport Tyler office, warning residents until the power supply failed.

Another Portland employe of the company an engineering assistant, Howard M. Sidwell, received a Vail certificate of honorable mention for giving first aid to resuscitate an infant overcome by carbon monoxide poisoning in his parents' car. He also received the President's medal of the National Safety council and a National Red Cross certificate of merit.

Pick Site for SOE Library

Ashland, Aug. 8 (AP)—The building committee of the state board of higher education approved a site for the new southern Oregon College of education library today.

Howard Kable, Portland architect, was chosen to design the building, which will be on Ashland street—nearer to the center of the campus than a previously-planned site.

The building committee received a detailed survey of the college's expansion plans, and authorized a survey of the possibility of installing central heating.

The architectural firm of Wolfe and Phillips, Portland, was chosen to design library buildings at both Oregon College of Education, Monmouth, and Eastern Oregon College of Education, La Grande. The building committee explained money would be saved by one firm doing the two structures simultaneously.

The regular meeting of the state board of higher education will be held here tomorrow.

Radio Facility Installed by UAL

United Air Lines radio technicians from Denver and Portland last week completed the reconversion of United radio range (localizer) to an H-facility to be used until such time as the instrument landing system is installed by the CAA.

The facility has also been flight tested and checked by Assistant Flight Manager John Hodson from the Seattle office of UAL and by a CAA air carrier inspector. During the tests which showed the power output to be greatly increased with the Salem identifying signal heard south of Eugene and North of Portland.

Until now is in the process of preparing a let-down procedure for the revised facility. This is expected to be commissioned and approved by the CAA in the very near future. The new United equipment will in all probability lower the landing minimums permitting planes to come into the local airport under lower ceilings and visibility and thus improving the regularity of the Salem facility.

The recent changes in the United equipment will meet with the approval of the airline pilots, who had formally objected to the old facility.

Ask Bids on Union School at Stayton

Bids for the construction of a high school to serve an area in Marion and Linn counties will be received by the board of district No. YH-4 at Stayton until 8 p.m., August 23, according to Edward J. Bell, clerk. Estimated cost of the proposed structure is $225,000.

Plans call for a one-story building of frame and brick veneer construction with a heating plant to be included in the contract. The new school is designed to accommodate approximately 300 students.

The building will contain a library, classrooms, home economics department, music room and an auditorium-gymnasium.

Materials to be used include asphalt tile, acoustical tile and ceramic tile. The building will be constructed over concrete slab on the ground, with a pitched roof and composition shingles. There will be no basement.

Attorney General Falls, Breaks Ribs

State's Attorney General George Neuner, whose deep and resounding voice has been heard in many an Oregon courtroom, was speaking in low tones today.

Until the X-ray films have been studied by his physician, he won't know for sure, but both he and the doctor are of the opinion that he fractured two ribs in a fall at his McMinnville home Friday night. He broke his left wrist in the fall, and that is in a cast and sling, but to be on the safe side the damaged ribs are encased in what Neuner terms "my first corset," a tape device which limits his breathing and consequently his speaking.

Soldier Pleads Innocent to Theft

Pvt. Aurelio Martinez, a Ft. Lewis soldier who was nabbed by a group of Astoria Legionnaires after driving a stolen car in a hit-run accident, pleaded innocent to car larceny charges Monday in district court.

He was ordered held in lieu of $1,500 bail for hearing on August 15.

At the time of his arrest by a private prosecutor on a hit-run accident charge, Martinez told police he had been picked up by a girl and invited to drive the car while she left it for an errand. He claimed to be following her instructions when the accident occurred early Friday morning.

The car he was driving had been stolen from a John Turrintine, Jr., 239 S. Cottage.

Voting Starts in German Election

Frankfurt, Germany, Aug. 8 (AP)—A contest so close that no party will win a parliamentary majority was forecast by allied observers today in West Germany's first federal election.

It will take a coalition of two or more parties to form the government, they predicted.

This forecast—unofficial but founded on neutral surveys—was made as the campaign roared into its final week.

Lost Aged Estacada Man Found in Forest

Ziesar, Ore., Aug. 8 (AP)—An aged man, lost since July in the wooded country near Mount Hood, was found today—alive, but in poor condition—by two searchers.

District Forest Ranger Jim Langdon was notified that the two men came upon John Harrison Tracy, 76, shortly before noon in a trail shelter at Mud creek.

The report said Tracy was very weak, and foresters planned to carry him out.

Ray Godleski, Sandy, and Ben Franklin, Estacada, found Tracy

Klan Routed in Pitched Battle

Iron City, Ga., Aug. 8 (AP)—A one-armed Georgia mayor and some of his friends renewed a shooting war against robed, night-riding Ku Klux Klansmen yesterday.

To top it off, the mayor chased a Klan official in Alabama at a 100-mile-an-hour pace and had him jailed.

The shooting spree started, said Mayor C. L. Drake of Iron City, when 12 or 15 carloads of robed Klansmen rolled into this little southwest Georgia hamlet in the dark, early Sunday morning hours. One unidentified Klansman received a flesh wound. Drake reported none of his fighters was hurt.

The mayor, a Klan foe of long standing, declared "some of the bullets whizzed by within five feet of me" while he hastily scribbled down the robed figures' auto tag numbers.

Drake said he didn't have a gun but that some of his friends did and they peppered the Klan convoy with shotgun and pistol fire. The night riders retaliated, he related.

Several hours elapsed between the shooting and the daredevil automobile chase to Dothan, Ala., 38-miles away.

The Klan official, booked as Bill Hendrix of Tallahassee, Fla., said he is an organizer for a new hooded order, the Southern Ku Klux Klan. "The mayor had him jailed on a warrant charging assault with intent to murder."

Mrs. F.D.R. Is Grandmother

Portland, Ore., Aug. 8 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late president, was a great-grandmother today.

A nine-pound, one-ounce boy was born Sunday to Mrs. Van H. Seagraves, the former "Sis-tie" Boettiger and Mrs. Roosevelt's granddaughter. It was the first great grandchild of the late president.

Mrs. Anna Roosevelt Boettiger said the baby would be named Nicholas Delano Seagraves, explaining that both were historical Roosevelt family names.

"Buzzie and I were at the hospital with Van for the event," she said.

Van Seagraves, the father, is employed by the Bonneville power administration.

The time of birth was 12:28 p.m. (PDT).

Viola Lyons Sets Pace in Air Race

Portland, Aug. 8 (AP)—Viola Lyons, 30-year-old housewife of John Day, set the pace in a 60-mile air race that was staged yesterday during the Oregon Civil Air patrol's third annual flying circus.

One mishap marred the day of aerial acrobatics and demonstrations by military and civilian flight. Donna Seip, 19, Centennial, Wash., pilot in the women's pilots race made a forced landing in a berry patch near Oregon City. Her plane engine halted. She was unhurt.

Strange Case of Leaking Roof at Track Explained

Washington, Aug. 8 (AP)—Paul Grindle, New England manufacturer, told senators today about the strange case of the leaking roof at the Foxboro trotting track clubhouse—and what caused it.

The track, located 19 miles from Boston, was built during 1946-47 with what Grindle described as $15,000 worth of help from James V. Hunt of Washington, key figure in the senate's "five percenter" investigation.

Grindle, one of the opening witnesses before the senate investigating committee, said Hunt told him this story of how he helped get the track built:

Paul Bowser of Boston, president of the track, went to Hunt for help in getting the then-required government okay. Hunt went to Frank Creedon, then housing expeditor now with the Hanford, Wash., atomic plant, and Creedon told him what to do about "getting around regulations."

Lent, veteran of 18 months of duty with the American division in the Pacific, has been at the Salem recruiting station since it was reopened after the war, coming here September 12, 1945. He is to report to Fort Lewis the middle of this month. Mrs. Lent will accompany the sergeant to the army post but the couple will maintain their permanent address in Salem.

Sgt. Haines, a resident of Salem prior to re-entering the army for duty here as a recruiter, joined the staff at the local station in January, 1948. He entered the service in 1940 with the Arkansas National Guard and was in the army for almost six years, before his discharge in 1945.

Haines, who saw service in Alaska and in Europe during the war reports to Fort Lewis August 22. He and his wife and their two children left Salem Monday to take up their residence in Tacoma.

Recruiters to Go to Ft. Lewis

Paul Bowser of Boston, president of the track, went to Hunt for help in getting the then-required government okay. Hunt went to Frank Creedon, then housing expeditor now with the Hanford, Wash., atomic plant, and Creedon told him what to do about "getting around regulations."

Bowser notified Hunt of what had happened and Hunt again went to Creedon. Creedon called the Boston office by telephone and demanded to know if they were trying to make him "the laughing stock of the country."

Boston officials told Creedon the slots already had been cut and it would cost too much to plug them.

Grindle, a Framingham, Mass., manufacturer, never did get around to saying whether the slots had been covered over. He did say Hunt told him he collected a $15,000 fee from the track.

Training School Escapee Captured

Portland, Aug. 8 (AP)—A 16-year-old Woodburn training school escapee was held here in the county jail today on burglary charges after being arrested with a pistol in his pocket.

Detectives' Capt. Howard Kelley said Donald Mullen, Portland, was under $3,000 bail in
