

Four Corners People Make Friends With Newcomers

Four Corners, Aug. 11—Many new residents have come to the Four Corners community recently to make their home here. Building a large ranch type dwelling on Macleay road is Wade Weekly. The Weeklys have been living in Salem. They will live in the new unfinished building while he finishes it. Besides the parents they have two children, Joanna and Jackie Weekly. Mr. Weekly is employed by Charles Gilbert as a carpenter.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Macomber are constructing a new cottage type dwelling also on Macleay road. While waiting for their house to be ready they are living in the Campbell cottage at 4155 Macleay.

Mr. and Mrs. Glen Harkness have purchased the property at 4145 Macleay road. The Harknesses came here from Tualatin, Ore. He is employed by the state.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Herman, who have been living in Salem are now living in the I. H. White cottage at 4127 Beck Ave. Mr. Herman is a teller in the First National bank of Salem and Mrs. Herman is employed by the state industrial accident commission.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Buckner, 352 S. Elma Ave., had as their house guests Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Reeves of Delake, Ore., who were here attending the American Legion convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Chet Perkins and son Raymond of Alhambra, Calif., renewed acquaintance with the C. R. Osborns, State street. The families were friends

L.A. 'Big Stink' Source Found

Los Angeles, Aug. 11. (AP)—The big stink in Los Angeles last week came from non-poisonous sulphur gases from an oil refinery.

Identification of the peculiar garlic-like smell which blanketed large sections of the metropolitan area was made today by Gordon P. Larson, air pollution (SMOG) control director.

He said it was determined by analysis of water in an air cooling unit at a home where the odor was strongest.

"There is no cause for alarm," he said.
