Program Outlined for Herb Tea, Aug. 18

Lebanon—Speaker at the 12th annual herb tea to the Lebanon Garden club on Aug. 18 will be Miss Adelaide Barker of the Oregon State library, through whose efforts a remarkable collection of herb books have been added to the state library. It is announced by Mrs. Einar Rasmussen, speaker chairman for the tea to be held at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dillard.

Mrs. Rasmussen, in charge of the herb exhibit of the tea, is working out the idea of displaying the fresh herbs in addition to the products made from them. Working with Mrs. Rasmussen is Mrs. Oliver Gundersen, an experimenter and herb book collector. The Lebanon Garden club herb exhibit at the State Fair last year was planned and executed by them, and proved to be one of the most popular exhibits. It has been asked for again for this year's fair.

Mrs. Rasmussen will also show at the herb tea samples of the favors made by Oregon Garden clubs for the National Garden club convention held this year in Portland. As state chairman for the favors committee, she contacted clubs all over the state and distributed the favors during the week of the convention. Not only Mrs. Rasmussen, but the Oregon clubs which made the favors are now receiving letters of appreciation from federated members from many states, particularly eastern.

An artist and artisan with gourds, Mrs. F. H. Haskell, who grows them larger than Africa's calabashes on her farm between Albany and Crabtree, will exhibit her handsome crafted and painted gourd baskets, bowls and decorative pieces at the herb tea.

Planting her own seed each year, Mrs. Haskell finds that gourds come true to type, and on her south Santiam river bottom soil, they grow a little larger each year. Her largest gourd is six inches taller, and some inches larger around than the largest gourd of which she has seen any record.

Mrs. Bruce Ensley's fuchsias will be on exhibit at the herb tea again this year, showing the results of many years' horticultural experience and skill, learned through practice and experiment. Mrs. Ensley adds to her fuchsia varieties each year, and produces specimens of tree, hanging, bush and other types. She is a member of the Oregon Fuchsia society.

For the convenience of out-of-town guests, highway 20 just north of Lebanon will have signs designating the location of the Dillard home.
