Al Shean, 81, of Vaudeville Dies

New York, Aug. 12 (AP)—Al Shean, 81, veteran vaudevillian and partner in the old team of Gallagher and Shean, died today.

He had been ill for several months.

Death was caused by a heart ailment.

Shean's last stage performance took place in Kentucky last year while he was touring with the company of "Music in the Air."

He suffered a heart attack then and been inactive since.

The vaudeville team of Gallagher and Shean ended with the death of Frank Gallagher 25 years ago. For years Shean performed as a "single" but never quite achieved the popularity he enjoyed when he and Gallagher were touring the vaudeville circuits.

Shean died this morning in his suite in the Hotel Ansonia on Manhattan's west side. His nurse, Miss Majorie Morrison, was with him at the time.

Shean's wife died five years ago. They had been married 54 years.

A son, Lawrence, survives in Seattle.

Tarem Talks About Estonia

Ardo Tarem, Estonian YMCA secretary who came to Salem as a displaced person to work at the local Y and Willamette university, contrasted his local home today to the space he occupied in an American camp in Germany.

After reviewing his life under Russian and German occupations in Estonia, Tarem told how he was sent to Germany by the Nazis to supervise Estonian youths in a slave labor camp for farm work.

When the Americans came in, he couldn't return to Estonia, so he worked with the military government as an interpreter, occupying small quarters with eight other families.

"Every meal was like having a holiday celebration so far as the number of persons was concerned," Tarem recalled. He said one four-burner stove served the eight families.

"I just couldn't believe it when I came to Salem and found a home waiting with everything furnished down to the last detail," he smiled as he thanks Salem again.

Russia Attacks

(Last week Tito alerted his troops in Yugoslav Macedonia, between communist Bulgaria and Albania, and said his soviet dominated neighbors were spreading rumors of a possible Red army invasion there. The Yugoslav leader was quoted by his official news agency as dismissing the reports as attempted intimidation, but warned he was ready to fight any invader.)

Tito Tied to Capitalists

Referring to the present nature of Yugoslav-Russian relations, the soviet note said:

"That certain strong ties bind the Yugoslav government or chief persons in the Yugoslav government with the camp of foreign capitalists.

"The Yugoslav government more and more is joining up with imperialistic circles (the west) against the USSR and is in a bloc with them.

"That the Soviet government can no longer consider the Yugoslav government as an ally."

Shrine Club Picnic At Dallas August 17

Peters Purchases Meadows Restaurant

Announcement was made Friday that The Meadows, popular restaurant at 340 State street, has changed hands, effective Monday.

The purchaser is Art Peters, well-known Salem restaurant man, who bought the property from Herman Rieck, who has operated the restaurant for about 10 years. Rieck said he expected to develop property he owns on Capitol street.

Peters said the restaurant would be closed for a few days, starting Monday, for remodeling. Peters has had connections over a period of years with various restaurants. He was a cook at The Spa under the ownership of the late Frank Myers, and was at one time head pastryman for the Portland Golf club.

He said The Meadows would be under the management of Mrs. Peters. Oren Dockin will be chef.

Mahoney Urges Latourette for Bench

Washington, D. C., Aug. 12 (AP)—Willis E. Mahoney, Oregon democratic leader, today said he had called on President Truman to urge appointment of Circuit Judge Earl C. Latourette of Oregon City as Oregon's new federal judge.

See Case in Court—A district court jury had a honey of a problem Friday. Jurors were called upon to decide whether I. Vistica, Woodburn, had been guilty of possessing and failing to register an apiry according to state law. The charge against the defendant was made by M. A. Pierson. Vistica's defense was that he merely cared for the bees and that they were owned by his father.

Ilgenfritz to Head Munitions Texas Slaying

Washington, Aug. 12 (AP)—President Truman today nominated Carl A. Ilgenfritz of Pittsburgh, Pa., to be chairman of the munitions board.

Ilgenfritz, a U. S. Steel company executive, is a member of the American Iron and Steel Institute and the National Association of purchasing agents. He is a native of Youngstown, Ohio.

Secretary of Defense Johnson, who recommended the appointment to Mr. Truman, described Ilgenfritz as a republican. The nomination is subject to senate confirmation.

The munitions board post long has been vacant. It was offered to Ward Canaday of Toledo, O., some weeks ago, but he said he could not arrange his affairs to accept. Canaday is chairman of the Finance committee of the Willys-Overland company.

Ilgenfritz has been acting as advisor to the federal bureau of supply and also served on the Hoover governmental reorganization commission.

While they set in motion the machinery to secure the Oregon governor's consent to the extradition the Arizona officers went into a huddle with Texas Ranger Frank Probst who has been here several days seeking links in a chain of evidence to connect McEwen with the murder in Amarillo, Texas, of Tex Thornton, internationally known oil field explosive expert, who was slain 10 days after the Shupe murder with virtually the identical technique used in each of the killings.

The Arizona officers say that McEwen, the alleged killer, was released from the Arizona penitentiary five days before the Shupe murder. He had been sentenced to a three-year stretch for car theft.

The officers say they have plenty of witnesses to show that McEwen made the acquaintance of Shupe, apparently in a barroom, and that they were together until about 3 a. m., of the day of the murder. They say further witnesses gave the information about that time the pair drove away from a Phoenix place with McEwen at the wheel of Shupe's car.

McEwen, they say, was last seen in Phoenix about 7 o'clock in the morning walking along the street carrying a suitcase. About 10 o'clock that morning Shupe's body was found in an irrigation canal near Scottsdale a mile east of Phoenix. It was concealed behind a row of trees and tall grass. When found it was attired only in shorts and a hole had been driven into the side of his head with some sharp instrument.

Officers say that Shupe was supposed to have made a $1600 payment on his citrus ranch that day and the theory is that because the killer made a search for a money belt. However, it was thought he only had about $50 on him but probably had told his slayer of his plans to make the payment on the ranch.

The killing of Tex Thornton at Amarillo 10 days later took on about the same picture as the Arizona murder. Thornton got acquainted with his presumed slayer at a bar, made arrangements for the man and a girl friend to get rooms at an auto court where Thornton's body was later found in a room clad only in shorts, his shirt tied tightly around his neck. He had four holes in his head seemingly made by some sharp instrument. The head also was badly bruised. One of the officers said it looked as though he had been hit by a 2x4 with a spike in it.

The Arizona officers said they would head off for Arizona with their man as soon as the governor signs the papers for his extradition.

Texas Ranger Frank Probst will continue his investigation until he wrings out the last bit of evidence, he said. He further said that the description they have of Thornton's supposed slayer fits almost identically into the description of McEwen. He indicated that he will leave no effort undone to bolster up his findings should, by any chance, the case against McEwen in Arizona turn sour. But there was no showing on his part he would try to take McEwen back to Texas ahead of the Arizona officers.

McEwen, according to information of local officers, came here from California and took a job as a bean picker. He was arrested after taking a hearse from a local morgue and wrecking it. Later he pleaded guilty in district court to larceny of another car but the charge here will be brushed off for the murder charge in Arizona.
