

No Liquor at Embassy Party

Washington, Aug. 16 (AP)—Fruit juices took the place of scotch and bourbon at last night's Indian embassy celebration of the second anniversary of the independence of India. Madame Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, the ambassador, was the hostess at the formal diplomatic reception. The total absence of alcoholic drinks was quite a blow to some of the regular Washington party-goers among the 750 who attended the formal affair. However, it was in line with the teachings of the late Mahatma Gandhi, who said that the India of his dreams would be wholly free of "the curse of intoxicating drinks and drugs."

OPPOSITE OF DACHSHUND

New Breed of Dog Only Half-a-Dog Long

Tokyo—The Japanese have a new breed of dog. It can be described as one dog high and half a dog long. That compares with the classic description of the dachshund—half a dog high and a dog and a half long.

The new breed has the face of a bulldog and looks normal except that as your eye moves back from his head it gets to his tail too soon.

It might be the Japanese heard about Arabian horses, which have one or two vertebrae less than other horses and are noted for their grace and speed. Perhaps a dog with shorter backbone might be as outstanding among other dogs, they may have reasoned.

At any rate the short wheel-base model made its appearance in the Gunjo district of Gifu prefecture. Its backbone is about 20 inches (50 centimeters) long and he stands about as high. When he sits it looks like half of him is in a hole through the floor.

NEW BREED
Half a Dog Long

Breeders say the dog is not a freak, like an egg with two yolks or a hole in one on the golf course. They say dog lovers are paying exorbitant prices for the quick-rump animals.

Professors of Gifu university's agriculture and animal husbandry department have expressed an interest in the new breed and may prepare a report after a thorough investigation. But so far, no one has disclosed how the abridged version was developed. Or why.
