

Keizer Has Country Fair As Benefit for Scouting

Keizer, Aug. 18—Preparations are complete for the Keizer county fair carnival, to be held at 8 o'clock tomorrow night as a benefit for Keizer Scout Troop 41.

The carnival is to be an outdoor affair at the Keizer corners and will include a wide variety of typical country fair events. Running the gamut from hog calling and husband calling to free outdoor musical entertainment and movies, the event will feature assorted prizes.

The country fair is expected to put the Keizer Scout troop over the top in its drive to collect $500 to enable the troop to go to the Pendleton Round-up. Leaving Monday morning by chartered bus, the Scouts will camp the rest of the week on the Umatilla river near Pendleton and will spend a day and a half at the Roundup.

This project, for which the troop has been gathering funds for nearly two years, will wind up a three-year period as Scoutmaster for Mickey Hickman, who retires as local scoutmaster September 1. Hickman resigned following a unanimous vote by the troop requesting him to remain. He will be followed as scoutmaster by Otto Yunker. Remaining as assistant scoutmaster is Marvin Black, with Lloyd Woods being added as assistant scoutmaster.

Street Paving Will Start at Lebanon

Lebanon—Work on the joint state-city paving program on Williams and Milton streets is due to commence sometime late this week, according to information received at the city recorder's office.

Warren Northwest Construction of Portland, who will soon begin paving other city streets, received the state bid to hard surface Milton street from Main to Williams, and north on Williams to Grant.

The state will assume part of the paving costs with the remaining costs assessed against property owners.

The roadway will form the first half of a by-pass for trucks traveling through the city.

School Board Counts Pennies

Dallas—Faced with high costs that will make the construction of the new Lyle school a narrow squeeze to get within the $250,000 bond issue approved by the voters, the Dallas school board is seeking every means to cut the construction costs.

The board has asked the city council to waive customary building permits as required under a Dallas ordinance. On the general contract of $210,000, the usual fee would amount to $420 plus additional sums for plumbing and wiring, depending upon the number of toilets and outlets.

This request was based on the fact that the school is tax exempt and must conform to all codes even though no city inspection were required.

Faced with the request, the council was in doubt as to the proper disposition of the matter at the regular meeting. Finally, the matter was turned over to the finance committee with instructions to check other cities as to the usual procedure in such cases.

Upon hearing that Bill Blackley, city auditor, had received word from the industrial accident commission stating that as many firemen as wanted could be covered under accident compensation, the council voted to give the volunteer department the right to extend coverage with a maximum of 50 men. At the present time only 25 are covered.

William A. Boydston was appointed a member of the Dallas ambulance commission to succeed Eugene Hayter, who has resigned. Boydston's term will expire January 1, 1950. The appointment was by Mayor Hollis Smith and was confirmed by the council.

Walt Whitman's poems, translated into Spanish, were featured at a recent open-air recital in Palermo, Argentina.
