

Uniform Traffic Laws in All States Urged by Visitor

Need of uniform traffic laws in every state in the union was stressed by Winston H. Thornburg, representing Gov. Frederick G. Payne of Maine, in a conference Wednesday with Governor McKay and other state officials.

Thornburg, in company with his wife, is visiting the 47 states in the union as well as Mexico. He has already covered fourteen states and toured in Mexico.

On his trip Thornburg is making a study of each state's traffic regulations, the type of road markers used and other pertinent subjects relative to traffic safety. Upon his return to Maine he plans to compile this information and send a copy of the compilation to every governor in the United States.

While in Salem, Thornburg conferred with Secretary of State Earl T. Newbry and R. H. Baldock, state highway engineer after having luncheon with Gov. McKay.

Thornburg said that because highway markings differ in virtually every state, motorists traveling over the country become confused.

He praised the use in Oregon of signs reading "Prepare to Stop."

"Oregon is the first state in which I have observed these warning signs," he said. "They are simple and easy to understand, just as all highway signs should be."

He also advocated use of larger highway signs in cities, declaring that motorists often are unable to see the signs in the city because of conflicting neon and other advertising signs. Hence, he said, it was often difficult for strangers to find their way through the cities and towns.

Education was advocated by Thornburg as the most important factor in reducing accidents and traffic deaths. He said that he had found that driving training courses had been installed in the high schools of most states but said that this training should be extended into the elementary schools, first because it would tend to protect the children from accidents while crossing streets and further that it would result in a helpful influence upon parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Thornburg left for Olympia after concluding conferences with the Oregon officials.

Shaw Proposes Crime 'Cure'

London, Aug. 25 (AP)—George Bernard Shaw proposed a sweeping cure for crime today: Abolish prisons and put their inmates to death.

The 93-year-old playwright set forth his views in a printed postcard mailed to editors from his home at Ayot Saint Lawrence.

"If we find a hungry tiger at large or a cobra in the garden, we do not punish it," Shaw said. "We kill it because, if we do not, it will kill us."

"Fleas, lice, locusts, white ants, anopheles mosquitoes, Australian rabbits, must be exterminated, not punished.

"Precisely the same necessity arises in the case of incorrigibly dangerous or mischievous human beings, sane or insane, hopeless idiots, and enemy soldiers.

"The kindest method so far known is to let criminals go to bed and to sleep as usual, and then turn on an odorless gas to prevent them ever waking. Enemy soldiers we have to kill how we can."

Truckers Organize

Corvallis, Aug. 25 (AP)—Benton county truckers have joined Lane county operators in organizing the Western Truck Owners' association to fight what they described as "excessive" fines levied for overloads on highways.

The design of the White House is said to have been modelled on that of the Duke of Leinster's palace in Dublin.

Mrs. Lucy Ellis Dies At Home in Indiana

Salem friends have received word of the death recently in Athens, Ind., of a former Salem resident, Mrs. Lucy Ellis.

Mrs. Ellis, who a few years ago suffered a stroke and had since been in ill health, with her four children, came to Salem to reside about 20 years ago. Eight years ago she left Salem to make her home in Seattle with a daughter, Mrs. Louise

Surviving besides the sister and the daughter in Seattle are a daughter, Montis, in California and another daughter, Mrs. Wilma Smith of Longview, Wash.; and a son, Dale E. Ellis, who with his family went to Athens to attend the funeral service held there Thursday, August 25.

Juneau, Alaska, has an annual average snowfall of 105.7 inches.

This Is Paynight For Naval Reserve

Uncle Sam is parting with $6,335.30 this evening when members of Salem's organized Naval Reserve surface division hold their regular meeting.

The money is to be given out as pay checks for training duty for the past quarter to approximately 200 officers and men of the unit.

Men of the unit every quarter receive checks from the navy covering the drill meetings that they have attended.

'Gambling' Judge Wins Bet on Face

St. Louis, (AP)—Judge Francis E. Williams denounced gamblers before a grand jury with a burst of oratory. Several days later, the judge gambled $6.30.

He gave the money to a defendant in his court who needed it to pay a fine for flourishing a deadly weapon.

The defendant, James Murrain, 29, was fined $121.60, including court costs. He had only $115.

Judge Williams reached in his pocket and came up with the difference.

"You have an honest face," the judge said. "You can repay me Monday."

The bet paid off.
