Limit Arms to $450 Million

Washington, Aug. 25 (AP)—Two senate committees voted today to put a $450,000,000 limit on the amount of "excess" arms that may be sent to "friendly nations" under President Truman's military aid program.

The combined committees on foreign relations and armed services adopted an amendment by Senator Russell (D., Ga.) writing this ceiling into the arms aid bill.

A similar limit already has been adopted by the house. Chairman Connally (D., Tex.) told reporters that the limit will be figured on the basis of the original cost of the excess equipment.

He said the $450,000,000 worth of equipment the administration proposes to send abroad could go to any of the countries covered by the aid bill. These include European members of the Atlantic Alliance, Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea and the Philippines.

The committees are shaping up the bill for senate consideration. They still have to act on the amount of cash for pact nations whether China will be cut in for assistance.

A second ambulance headed for the hospital with Hurdle and Luria. Both died en route. The deaths were attributed to heart attacks.

House to Recess

Despite the long-standing tradition which says neither chamber should interfere with the meeting plans of the other, the senate voted down the house proposal by a count of 55 to 28. Previously it rejected, 47 to 35, a proposal by Senator Capehart (R., Ind.) that both chambers quit for keeps on September 30.

The senate action stunned the house, which had expected routine senate approval.

Oregon Work Started on Dam

Walla Walla, Wash., Aug. 25 (AP)—McNary dam contractors got the signal today to go ahead with construction work on the Oregon shore of the Columbia river.

Col. William Whipple, district army engineer, authorized contractors to start work under a $15,835,539.50 contract. The three firms which will handle the work are the Guy F. Atkinson company, Ostrander Construction company and J. A. Jones Construction company.

The notice stipulates that work must be started in 10 days and be completed by May 1, 1951.

The contract covers construction of a "junior" cofferdam to enclose an area for part of the powerhouse excavation, building concrete substructure for two main power units, erection of station service unit and assembly bay for the powerhouse, placing part of the Oregon shore abutment, building of temporary fishways and construction of a "second-step" cofferdam to provide for final powerhouse and spillway work.

Whipple said bids will be opened Sept. 20 on building curbs, sidewalks and driveways at McNary, Ore., the government townsite at the dam.

Britain's Budget Due for Slash

London, Aug. 25 (AP)—Sir Stafford Cripps told department heads of Britain's labor government today to get ready for at least a five percent slash in next year's national budget. Such a cut would bring savings of 150,000,000 pounds ($600,000,000).

The chancellor of the exchequer passed the word around barely two weeks before the scheduled start of Britain's dollar crisis huddle with U.S. officials in Washington Sept. 7.

A government informant, who told newsmen of the move, stressed that it was not brought on by American pressure. But other informed sources said Washington has been informed in advance of the decision to reduce spending at least an overall five percent compared with the budget for the 1949-50 fiscal year which began April 1.

The current budget totals 3,000,000,000 pounds ($12,000,000,000). The labor government has been under severe fire from some American political leaders and newspapers, who have accused it of inefficient administration and spending too much on social services.

Another government informant said yesterday Britain might have to revise drastically its costly cradle-to-grave national health service if the Washington dollar talks fail.

Cripps' move to pare government costs, and hence taxes, obviously would be a point in Britain's favor at the dollar talks.

One big economy target is likely to be the armed forces. Defense spending totals one-fourth of the current budget.

Farm Machinery Space At State Fair Sold Out

Display space for farm machinery is "sold out" for the 84th State Fair despite action taken by organized farm machinery implement dealers in Portland, Leo Spitzbart, director of the fair, said today.

Refusal of some of the dealers to meet an increase of space rates, for farm equipment, the first since 1941, will have no effect upon the exhibits though there will be some manufacturers' lines shown without competition.

Exhibitors in general readily agreed to an increase in their rates rather than have the fair boost the established gate charge of 50 cents, which has remained in effect since the mid-'30s. Any increase would result in a greatly decreased volume of visitors it was felt. Of the 50-cent gate the fair absorbs the tax and retains 42 cents with the other eight cents going to the government.

Machinery exhibitors paid $3 a front foot for space at the fair this year and were charged $4 this year except for corner "spots," with those on the midways paying $5. An additional one-half rate is charged for each foot along the second side.

The rate is applicable to those under shed on paving with the rate for each booth increased from $60 to $100. All booth space rented is the same size.

Statement that there was a "subsidy" paid by farm machinery exhibitors during the war years from 1942 to 1945 inclusive is denied because there was no fair offered during that period.

"The state fair is a non-profit institution and was faced with an alternative of raising the outside gate charge or charging the concessioners and exhibitors more," Manager Spitzbart declared today.

"The fair is obligated for $300,000 and obtains only $35,000 from the state, out of which $5000 is returnable for payment on the grandstand. Out of the remaining approximate quarter of a million dollars comes the annual upkeep of the 167 acres of which 14 acres are under roof, chiefly the livestock sheds," he said.

Other exhibitors have been glad of the opportunity to get the choicer locations and are paying $380 for a 12 by 12 foot corner of the previous 120 by 100 space which rented for $550 for the week.

There will be a complete machinery show, particularly of equipment used locally such as tillage equipment, sprayers, dusters and pumps. In addition a complete automobile and truck show will be staged in the machinery shed and adjacent grounds.

Libby Explains Health Program

The Oregon Farmers Union is primarily interested in the welfare and happiness of people, consequently anything that can be done to improve their health is of considerable importance to the agriculturalists. With this as a basis for his talk, Harle Libby, Jefferson farmer and president of the Farmers Union Health association, sketched for the benefit of the Salem Lions club membership Thursday afternoon some of the angles of the program.

Libby stated at the outset that more should be done in the way of preventative medicine. He felt that laymen as well as professional men were a bit deficient in this department of public health. And in this connection the speaker stated that the farmer, because of his remoteness from medical care and the expense involved was apt to be neglectful of his health.

The speaker commended the county court for getting behind the Kellogg plan for the training of more health nurses and said the enlargement of the scope of public health is highly desirable. However, in any health program that involves the populace, Libby said the lay voice should be heard.

North Santiam

The project is being financed by donations from the farmers, with $3500 from Marion and Linn counties and a contribution from the Mountain States Power company. With the support, however, of the county courts and advice from army engineers an effort is being made to have the government take over the project. The total cost will be around $15,000.

Farm Bureau

Overnight camp will be made at Hood River. Vic Thomsen, prominent Hood River farmer, has arranged a celebration. The caravan will be escorted into Hood River by the Hood River Saddle club, which is led by Bob Nunamaker, county Farm Bureau president.

Entry into Hood River will feature fire engines and tractors. The travelers will be given a banquet at the Columbia Gorge hotel, with talks by Mayor Sarge Gaulke, Steen and others.

At daybreak the caravan will roll out of Hood River and is scheduled to arrive at Oregon City at 8:30 a.m., August 31, where a welcoming ceremony has been arranged by Barry Brownell, regional director of the bureau. Radio appearances will be made.

With the caravan will be a special chuck wagon, loaded with farm products from various counties. Upon arrival in Salem these will be presented to Governor McKay who will turn them over to a charitable organization.

Pendleton will contribute a barrel of flour, Milton 10 cases of peas and prunes, Wallowa a case of butter, Jefferson, Crook and Deschutes counties 10 sacks of potatoes, Union county ham and bacon, Hood River apples and pears, Tillamook a round of its famous cheese, Clackamas county several dozens of eggs. Other counties and communities will contribute.

Mayor Robert L. Elstrom and Roy Harland, president of the Chamber of Commerce, will join the governor in welcoming the federation. In the caravan will be six trucks, 20 cars, and 45 or 50 people. The bureau will bring 12 new families to Salem.

Sheep showmanship awards for second year and older members went to Jerry Wipper, first; Shirley Hennies, Patricia Hennies, Karleen Drager and Patricia Ahrens, all of Cloverdale and all in the order named. Ray Gould, Gervais, was given high award for first year members in the sheep showmanship contest.

Assisting at judging contests were Ben Newell, Marion county agent, Karl Wipper and Elmer Klein, Aumsville; John Bannick, Brooks, and Elton Watts, Silvertown. Lawrence Thomas, Silvertown, is handling judging for dairy and dairy showmanship.

Thursday afternoon official judging is being staged for sheep, beef and hogs in that order. "I think the nation should know that Secretary of Air Symington, Secretary of Defense Johnson and air force officials have come through this inquiry without the slightest blemish and merit the complete confidence of the American people now and in the future."

The chairman put his view to a vote, and every member of the committee raised his hand in the affirmative.

When the committee resumes sessions in October, it will deal with remaining matters on the agenda—chief of which is the respective roles of the air force and the navy.
