Bank Account

Maragon previously had sworn at a hearing behind closed doors that his income over the same period totalled only around $30,000.

Senator Mundt (R-SD) called it "a clear case of perjury." But Maragon asserted his constitutional right at yesterday's session and refused to discuss the matter. He did so on the ground it might tend to incriminate him.

Up to Truman to Ask
Hoey said that in addition to the Maragon evidence, testimony regarding any government officials whose names have cropped up at the inquiry will be turned over to the departments concerned.

A means in asked whether that meant the testimony dealing with Vaughan would be laid before Mr. Truman. Hoey said the committee would take the initiative in that case.

"We won't send it unless the president should ask for it," he replied. "That's a different matter. It is the president's prerogative to ask for it if he wants it."

As for Vaughan's bank accounts, Hoey was asked in a radio interview last night whether the committee was looking into those as it did Maragon's.

"We have in a measure," he said, without explaining just how far the investigation has gone. He said it depends in part on what may seem necessary after Vaughan testifies Tuesday."

Devastation

At West Palm Beach the Red Cross estimated more than 2,000 of the city's 7,000 homes had been damaged. The baseball park grandstand collapsed.

Two companies of national guardsmen patrolled the streets to prevent looting of stores whose windows had been smashed.

West Palm Beach Sheriff John F. Kirk said they were needed to curb vandalism in the city's badly hit business district.

A number of bridges were impassable because of washouts and wind damage.

Florida east coast and Atlantic coast line service to the north halted at Stuart and four trains were reported stalled this side of St. Lucie bridge.

Two bridges were impassable around Lake Okechobee. But the lake itself—big killer of the 1928 hurricane—behaved sweet past U. S. army engineers said water was well below the danger level. That took the pressure off at the start.

Stuart reported six casualties and Fort Pierce two. The only death to date was a swimmer drowned off Miami yesterday.

Red Cross and National Guard units teamed up to evacuate 60 storm refugees in West Palm Beach when winds whipped off the roof of a hurricane shelter.

Estimated 100 miles per hour winds broke a skylight and blew off a section of the roof of the Conniston school four miles from downtown West Palm Beach.

Leave Garage—Archie Murphy and Clell Mathews have filed notice of retirement with the county clerk from M and M Garage.

an announcement which said: "Technical and fact finding discussions concerning the dollar earning problem open today between representatives of the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada at the department of state. These discussions will be followed by a conference at the ministerial level opening on September 7."

The task of the negotiators will be to determine the basic facts in Britain's economic plight in preparation for the cabinet-level talks which start Sept. 7.

Youth Admits Petty Thievery

The 16-year-old Salem boy who was picked up by city police early Friday morning while attempting to break into a service station at Center and Cottage streets, and who at that time admitted having stolen two newspaper display stands, has confessed to two more thefts, a police report indicated Saturday.

The boy said that he and an unnamed companion broke into a barbershop at 325 Bush street Thursday night and stole two razors.

He also admitted stealing a screwdriver and hatchet from a garage in the 300 block of North Cottage street the same night.

Police have found one of the stolen razors hidden under the seat of the prowler car which brought the youth to the station. The boy evidently had the razor on his person when he was apprehended, and attempted to hide it while riding to the police station.

Garage Filing Made—Certificate of assumed business name for Murphy's Richfield Service, Woodburn, has been filed with the county clerk by Archie and Oleia Murphy.

couldn't change her mind so I can't go on without her. If I can't have her no one else will. Write to my sister, RFD 1 Rockingham, N. C., and she will see that my baby is taken care of.

"I am trying for the last time to change her mind but no luck so here goes. I hope people don't hate me too bad for this but I just can't stand to lose her. I love her with all my heart and soul. Goodby and good luck to everyone. I hate to do this but that's all there is to it. (Signed, J.D.H.)"

Apparently as a postscript the following was written: "My sis' address is Mrs. L. Swanner. If Joyce and I could have gotten away to ourselves I am sure we could have made a go of things but I went back in the army and I lost her. If you see a guy named (here the spelling is hard to make out) tell him he's lucky I did not find him Friday morning or he would have got the same thing Joyce and I got as he is the cause of the whole mess and everybody else sticks their nose in our lives."

Cox' Gun Obtained
Hildreth obtained the gun from Arthur Cox, an employee of the Valley Motor company. He asked Cox for the loan of a .22 rifle to "shoot frogs in the Cascade." Then he asked Cox if he still had the old .410 shotgun and Cox said he did.

After Hildreth left Cox found that the gun was missing. Upon hearing of the shooting at Independence he notified police there that the gun had been taken from Salem.

Cpl. Hildreth came from North Carolina and was stationed at Camp Adair during the war. He had returned to this vicinity after his discharge. He appeared dissatisfied with conditions and the work he was able to obtain so re-enlisted in the army about five months ago, according to an acquaintance. It is not known whether he had leave of absence from the army or not. He has several brothers and sisters in North Carolina.

Mrs. Hildreth was the youngest of eight girls and also has six brothers who survive besides her parents and her young daughter.

Upon completion of the investigation Coroner Bollman announced the deaths were by murder and suicide and released the bodies to the W. L. Smith mortuary here.

"Imagine! I bought fine ground beef for only 29c per pound!"
"I just couldn't believe it! A lovely pin-up lamp for just $1.50!"
"That was the smartest purchase I've made in my life! Fine, high quality shirts for only $1.95!"
