

Pictures More Immoral Than Ever, Catholic Leader Says

Chicago, Aug. 27 (AP)—The Rev. Patrick J. Masterson, executive secretary of the Roman Catholic National League of Decency, charged Friday that this year's motion pictures are more immoral than at any time in the legion's 15-year history.

3 FFA Members Win Degrees

Three Marion county Future Farmer members are in line to receive the organization's highest degree, that of American Farmer.

The three named are Earl E. Van Cleave, Rt. 7, Salem; Robert Lee Barnes, Rt. 3, Silverton and Laurence Ellis Fisher, Rt. 1, Sublimity.

Ralph L. Morgan, state FFA supervisor of agriculture education received word from national headquarters that the Oregon applications have been reviewed and the board of trustees will recommend to the delegates at the national FFA convention in Kansas City in October that the three boys receive the coveted degree. Recommendation is usually tantamount to election.

Degree winners will receive a certificate and gold key from the FFA organization and a $25 check from the Future Farmers of America Foundation.

Rocky Point School Changes Ownership

Stayton—Mrs. Emma Sutton has reported that she has sold her home at 873 Second street in Stayton to Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Booz. Possession is planned in the near future.

Sale of the Rocky Point school by Henry Kelly of New Hampshire to Clara Wolf of Sublimity was reported this week by George H. Bell.

WHEN PARIS WAS SURRENDERED

Delirious Day 5 Years Ago Well Planted in Memories

(Editor's Note—Paris was liberated five years ago Friday. Gen. Otto Von Choltitz, German military governor of Paris, surrendered to American and French commanders at the Montparnasse station.)

Among the millions of Frenchmen who lived through that delirious day was Jean De Gandt, Staff correspondent of the United Press for more than 30 years. In the following dispatch, De Gandt re-tells what he and the other millions felt and thought then.)

By JEAN DE GANDT

Paris, Aug. 27 (AP)—All of us remember and none will ever forget that historic day five years ago Friday, when Paris was freed of the gloom of German occupation.

We Parisians had been living a long week of mixed hope and fear, and were certain the end was near. But everywhere there was the fear that something tragic would befall the city before freedom came again.

The Germans were fighting mad, but scared, too; they were angry because they knew they had to quit. But there was also the fear of being taken prisoner.

As the allied troops closed in, it became evident to the Germans that they had only one way out: eastward. And I, for one, will never forget the long queues of German trucks piled up to the top with everything one could think of—from waste paper baskets to pet dogs—streaming out on the main road from Paris to Strasbourg.

Meanwhile, American and French troops were approaching closer and closer from the southwest of Paris. Among them was Ross Hazeltine, now of the United Press bureau in Paris, who came with the American fourth infantry division, and whose divisional combat team entered Paris while two other east, crossed the Marne river east of Paris and continued the pursuit of the retreating Germans.

The fourth division troops entered the city from a generally southern direction, joining with the French troops of Gen. Philippe Leclerc, whose second French armored division was closing in from a more south-westerly direction. This is how Leclerc's troops actually reached the Paris city hall first, after marching slowly through the Avenue D'Italie, through dense crowds of madly cheering Frenchmen.

Through other streets Americans were advancing, too, and the same delirious welcome greeted them. Parisians had heard over the radio about the famous "jeeps," but none had Lebanon—The country home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dillard was the scene of the 12th annual herb tea of the Lebanon Garden club, August 18. Pictured is one of a series of lovely gardens where more than 300 guests were served various herb brews and sandwich and cookie delicacies flavored with herbs. The Dillard garden is one of the "open gardens" listed by the National Federation of Garden clubs. (Valley Studio photo)

New Directory In Large Size

Delivery of the new green-covered 1949 Salem and Vicinity Telephone Directory, appearing for the first time in the "big city" size, will begin September 6, and is expected to be completed by September 10, according to E. A. Berglund, manager for The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company.

It is the largest Salem telephone directory ever printed, the new 1949 edition to be 9x11 inches, with three columns.

"The Salem area has just outgrown the smaller directory, and the change to the larger size is necessary to keep up with the demand for service," Berglund said. He added that "due to the many changes and additions since the last issue, it is now more important than ever that telephone users refer to their new directories for correct listings."

Customers who follow the questionable practice of storing valuable papers, letters, photographs and even money, between the pages of their telephone directories are urged to shake them out before they are turned in or discarded.

Hop Yards Calling North County Folks

Aurora—A number of local people are employed in harvesting hops in the Pardey, Grim and DuRette yards in the Aurora area. Late hops will be picked in the Merle Trachel yard at Whiskey Hill next week. Pickers are wanted to help harvest the 20 acres. Picking started Thursday in the Ed Budreau yard one-half mile east of White school.

Late cluster hops are being harvested in the Frank J. Pokorny yard, three miles west of Donald. Truck to haul pickers is available at HiWay Market, Canby, at 8:30 a.m. daily and return in evening. Starting September 1, 30 acres of late cluster.

PTA Officers To Meet Here

Official call for the Oregon congress school of instruction was issued today by Mrs. Ralph Sipprell, president of the Marion County Council of the Parent-Teacher association. The meeting will be held next Tuesday at the Chamber of Commerce rooms from 10 o'clock until 4 o'clock. The invitation includes executive officers and members of all PTA units in the county.

Instead of formal instruction as in the past, the school this year will be informal or "round table" in nature with all taking part. Registration opens at 9 o'clock with coffee to be served from 9:15 o'clock until the meeting is called to order. A get-together no-host luncheon will be served at the Senator hotel.

Assisting in the solution of problems will be Mrs. H. H. Hargreaves, Oregon Congress president; Mrs. Jennelle Moorhead, Oregon Congress vice president; Mrs. C. A. Fratzke, area vice president; Mrs. Ralph Heron, state visual education chairman and Mrs. James Bunnell, state health and summer round-up chairman.

Social Missions Worker to Speak

Miss Eisoide Eland, social missions worker on Ellis Island, N.Y., for the United Lutheran church in America, will be guest speaker at St. Mark Evangelical Lutheran church, 343 North Church street, Sunday morning at the 11 o'clock worship service.

Miss Eland, Estonian by birth, has an international background and speaks many foreign languages. She has been the immigrant and social worker on Ellis Island, U.S. immigration station, for the past seven years and is one of the staff members of the board of social missions (ULCA).

Her work with the displaced persons families is of local interest. Miss Eland aided C. A. Kells, formerly of the YMCA, with the placement of Ardo Tarem and family, Estonian DP's, here recently.

The public is invited to hear her speak about her work. She is the house guest of the Tarems during her stay in Salem. Miss Eland is visiting the west for the first time and is enroute to Canada.

FUTILITY

A kitten has all the time in the world. She might as well waste some of it trying to do the impossible.

But man doesn't have all the time in the world. He has a brief span of years in which to achieve his life's aims. Man can't afford to waste some of those years—and strength and vitality as well—trying to accomplish what is impracticable.

One of religion's great services to mankind has been its revelation of worthwhile and attainable goals in life. Christianity has shown man the great potential in right living—and the tragic futility of wrong living.

Attend and support the Church. It can help you choose the best goals . . . and attain them.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
