Fall is almost here and the off-to-college girl has a problem or three in answering the "what-shall-I-wear" question.

First comes the classroom. Here a plaid skirt or blouse is not only comfortable and suitable but very popular. Plaids, pockets and fullness are the desirable features and here's a fulfillment of all three. For classwear and weekday cokedates they're the perfect thing.

For diversion... the all time favorite wool dress is tops in adaptability to college ways and wear. Good for classroom and good to have for exchanges that call for more than a skirt or sweater but nothing too dressy.

No girl feels attractively dressed unless she is comfortable and knows her underthings are just the way she likes them to be. The "just-let's-be-practical" idea still holds and that's why there's nothing more popular than a nylon jersey slip. It feels grand on and the laundry problem virtually vanishes... wash and dry and wear... that's all there is to it. Time is a precious thing at school with little set aside for ironing.

Liking your clothes is knowing that you are well-dressed... and comfortable at all times. We'll find these features together in the new Fall fashions for co-eds.
