

Astronomers Here Will Go to Convention This Weekend

Salem persons who are interested in astronomy will go to Portland this week-end to attend the second annual convention of the Northwest Region, Astronomical League.

Several visitors who stand high in astronomical study will be on the program. Among those to go from Salem will be Carl P. Richards, vice president of the National Astronomical League.

The convention will start at noon Saturday and end Sunday afternoon. Among matters of special interest will be the exhibit to be shown on the mezzanine floor of the Journal building, contributed by members from various regions of the league. Saturday afternoon sessions will include papers on the following topics:

Report on western amateur astronomers' conference, by H. J. Carruthers of Portland; "Stress Deformed Laps," by D. Thomas, Grand Coulee, Wash.; "The Axis of Rotation of Venus," by Thomas A. Craig, presented by Robert A. Millard of Portland; "Defraction Gratings," by Bruce Bowslaugh, presented by Charles G. Benson of Portland.

The convention banquet will be at the Central YMCA at 8:30 Saturday evening. At 8:30 at Library hall in Portland Public Library, three films that are attracting wide attention will be shown in colors.

One will be the building of the 200-inch telescope, "The Story of Palomar." The second film will be "Solar Prominences," preceded by an introduction by T. P. Maher of Arlington, Ore. The third will be of the 1945 total eclipse of the sun and accompanying phenomena, taken at Wolsley, Saskatchewan, by Paul Stevens of the Eastman Kodak company. It will be introduced by Carl Richards of Salem.

Business meeting including election of officers will be at the Journal building Sunday afternoon at 1:30. At 2:30 a series of papers will be presented, with Richards presiding. They will be:

"Meteor Patch Tracing," by J. Hugh Pruett, presented by James H. Karle; "A Theory of the Evolution of the Solar System," by Herbert P. Lee of Portland; and "Performance of a 18-inch Tile Grinding Tool," by Harold Simmons, presented by Cecil Post with inclusion of his own experiences with ceramic tile tools; and "A Clock for Small Telescopes," by Traver S. Martin.

Hereford Steer Beef Champion

Albany, Sept. 1—A 904-pound steer named "Chip" won the highly-coveted grand champion beef animal award for his owner 11-year-old Glenna Cochran of Brownsville as beef judging was completed in the third day of the annual Linn county 4-H club fair at the pavilion across from Waverly lake. Miss Cochran is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack B. Cochran. She walked away with four blue ribbons in her first year of raising and showing fat stock.

"Chip" won two of the awards for her and she rated first in her showmanship class and also exhibited the best heifer. She is a member of the Plainview Live-stock club.

Reserve champion beef animal was a steer named "Shorty," a pure-bred Hereford raised and shown by Norman Holmes of Halsey.

A tabulation of first place beef awards follows: Yearling heifer, Glenna Cochran; Angus steer for market, Numan Haffner, Harrisburg; shorthorn steer for market, Doug Gatchell, Lebanon; heifer calf, Gary Holmes, Halsey; showmanship, first year, Glenna Cochran; senior, Jimmy Gorman, Crabtree.

The fair set a state record by attracting the largest showing of dairy animals exhibited at any county 4-H fair so far this year, Joe Myers, in charge of the annual events stated Wednesday.

A total of 149 animals in six different breeds are being shown by almost 100 Linn county youth.

Wayne Norman, Scio, route 3, was judged champion in vegetable garden exhibits; Joan Griffith, Tangent, won first in beekeeping exhibits; and Anne Mackie, Tangent, was sweepstakes winner in rose and garden contest.

Former Silverton Woman Is Injured

Silverton—Miss Alice Ballingrud, Portland, for many years a Silverton resident, was badly hurt several days ago. Miss Ballingrud, a clerical employe of a large Portland firm, has followed as her hobby, amateur photography in which she has become proficient.

Being ambitious to gain footing on a mountain while spending her vacation in Sun Valley, Idaho, Miss Ballingrud and a companion were riding horses up a trail to a place from where she had planned taking pictures of the fine scenery, when she was thrown from her horse sustaining two fractures of one arm, shoulder and back injuries, base of the brain concussion which caused unconsciousness for some time.

Her condition is not considered too hopeful. She was placed in a cast and will be hospitalized for some time. Friends here may send messages to Miss Ballingrud at St. Vincent hospital.

Dallas Time Change Early September 11

Dallas—Dallas will revert to Pacific standard time at 2 a.m. on Sunday, September 11. This time was fixed by resolution early in the summer when daylight saving was adopted for the season.

The switchover will come a week before the start of school on September 19, and by that time the confusion which inevitably results when the time is changed should have been dissipated.

Attend Jones' Reunion Woodburn—Mrs. A. E. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. John Kallak and Elton Jones of Woodburn attended the reunion of the Jones clan at Champog which was in observance of the 96th anniversary of the coming of the S. W. R. Jones family to Oregon. This was the 3rd annual reunion of the family with descendants of six different branches of the original family represented.
