

WAR-BRIDE DEADLINE SEPT. 21

Portland Ex-GI Smiling Now; Bride-to-Be Coming

New Orleans, Sept. 14 (AP)—Edward Reisbeck, 37, the ex-GI from Portland, Ore., who has been trying to get his German fiancée into this country, was all smiles today.

He was sure his bride-to-be would get into the U. S. before the Sept. 21 deadline on admittance of war brides to this country. Reisbeck beamed as he explained he expected Fraulein Hilda Eisner and their two-year-old child, Beatrice Marianne, to arrive in Halifax on the SS Aquitania September 19. A train is to speed them across the U.S. border before the deadline.

The combat veteran, who served with the Third army in Germany, said that if they did not beat the deadline it might take years to get them in under an immigration quota.

Reisbeck said Fraulein Eisner and the daughter would come here, where they will be married and he will see the child for the first time.

Previously Reisbeck said that he had been married in Germany. After his mother in Portland told newsmen otherwise, Reisbeck explained, "I thought it best just to say I was married. You see the point, don't you. You don't think it will cause any trouble, do you?"

Reisbeck added he already had gone through troubles enough. Months ago he had reservations for Hilda and the baby, but, when he checked, the company said it could not bring them over for months.

When he came to New Orleans, steamship companies told him the same story. Newspaper stories of his plight changed matters. Transportation was arranged and Reisbeck got a job. All that remains now is the long journey through England and Canada.

"Oh yes," said Reisbeck, "do you know a minister?"

Two Former Silverton Residents Heard from

Silverton—Word has been received from two former Silverton matrons now of Portland of interest locally.

Mrs. Lars Opedal who makes her home with her daughter, Mrs. O. G. Larson (Martha Opedal) left by train for Idaho, the last of the week, where she will join her brother-in-law, Floyd Brown, and the two are proceeding to New York, N.Y., where they will spend some time at the home of a son and daughter-in-law of Mrs. Opedal, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Opedal and children.

Mrs. A. T. Gunderson has written friends that she was able to leave a Portland hospital after three weeks treatment, and will complete her convalescence at home.

BEAUTIFUL BLONDE TAKES HER PICK—

'Rugged, Athletic' Man Rated Choice of Women

By PATRICIA CLARY

Hollywood, Sept. 14 (AP)—The most sex-citing girl of the year today elected the world most's sex-citing men. You can see as many of them on the sports page as in movies.

A handsome set of muscles, Marilyn Maxwell said in sighing over Lou Boudreau, Doak Walker and Joe Verdeur, has lots more sex appeal than a handsome face.

The beautiful blonde, named the year's most sex-citing girl by 500 members of the American Art Congress, put Boudreau first on her list of the world's most sex-citing men.

The manager and shortstop of the Cleveland Indians is in front by a bicep, she said, because every woman wants a "rugged, athletic" man.

Ezio Pinza, grandfather, Metropolitan Opera and "South Pacific" star, is almost as sex-citing.

"A sophisticated older man gives a girl a much bigger thrill than a young punk," she said.

No. 3 was symphony conductor Leopold Stokowski.

"He has music and fire in his soul. He is the romantic type I adore."

No. 4—Prince Aly Khan. "He'd be sex-citing even without money."

No. 5—Anthony Eden, British statesman.

"He's the handsomest man in the world. Sophisticated, too."

No. 6—Doak Walker, Southern Methodist university football player.

"He looks like the love-em-and-leave-em type," she said.

No. 7—Kirk Douglas, the bare-chested male pin-up of movie ads. He earned his spot by roughing Miss Maxwell in a recent movie.

"He gives you the impression of ruthlessness and subdued power," she said. "It makes you shiver."

No. 8—Joe Verdeur, Olympic swimming champion.

"He has such lovely long, rippling muscles."

No. 9—Clark Gable, 'of the movies.

"Mere words can't describe his appeal."

No. 10 — Montgomery Clift, movie newcomer.

Jefferson Residents Claim Fair Ribbons

Jefferson—A number of Jefferson women had exhibits at the state fair this year. Mrs. Harry Oldenberg, who has had exhibits at the fair for the past 16 years, received first prize in quilting and first for her nut bread. Mrs. James Adams received an award for sponge cake, and second in open class. Mrs. Charles Smith received first prize on knitted Jacquard mittens and second on argyle socks and knitted baby set. Donna Oldenberg was placed fifth in showmanship and ninth on heavy beef in the 4-H livestock division.

Homework

will never be a thing of joy to every student but proper school supplies will assure less resistance and better work all around.

As a matter of fact, we have students tell us that good papers, pens, pencils as well as recognized dictionaries and reference works, make a tremendous difference in their grades.

At Cooke's they'll find: Zipper notebooks, refill papers of every size, Esterbrook pens, Webster and College Standard dictionaries, desk lamps, art materials . . . everything to make homework a pleasant operation.

This fall, as in the past, smart students will look to Cooke for everything for school. P. S. Cooke is headquarters for Parker and Schaffer pens.
