Favors Ban on Red Teachers

The teachers of this country are about as near 100 percent American as any group can be. Aschenbrenner, principal of Parrish junior high school as he concluded an address before the Salem Lions club Thursday noon.

Aschenbrenner, as a member of the board of directors of the National Education Association, spoke of his experiences and of the efforts of communists to infiltrate within the ranks of the teaching profession. These efforts were successfully and decisively beaten down during the recent convention in Boston, but, the speaker said, they were not whipped.

Aschenbrenner said there was no reconciliation between democracy and communism and the teachers that advocate totalitarianism should not be permitted within the classroom, whether it be the elementary grade or the colleges.

Democracy, the speaker said, is a way of life rather than a form of government and as such has respect for the minority.

After being soundly whipped on the subject of communism the advocates of that system brought up the racial question in order to create a conflict among the teachers. This question, Aschenbrenner stated, is one that will take many years to solve.

The N.E.A., said the speaker, comprising nearly a half million persons is attempting to do a job for the children. The teachers need adequate salaries, must be properly trained and kept that way.

Dick Carter Wins Freedom

Dick Carter, also known as Richard H. Carter and "Dickering Dick," 12th street carlot operator, was freed in circuit court here Thursday of a charge of receiving and concealing stolen property in a directed verdict of the jury on instructions of Circuit Judge George R. Duncan.

When all the evidence was in Judge Duncan ruled that the state had admitted no evidence in corroboration to show that Carter knew the alleged piece of stolen property, a car radiator, was on his premises.

Bruce Williams, appearing as counsel for Carter, set up the contention of lack of corroboration in arguing the motion for a directed verdict in chambers and also that there was no evidence to show that Carter had either knowingly received or concealed stolen property, that where the radiator was found it could have been put there by anyone of a large number of people without either Carter's knowledge or consent.

Carter came up to the trial court from the county jail where he is serving the fag end of a 90-day sentence on a larceny charge, due to expire October 6. There also is one other charge hanging over his head, alleged unlawful use of a motorcraft, on which he has been bound over to the grand jury. On this charge he had posted bail.

Murray Insists

It didn't take Fairless long to reply. Within a few hours he told Murray the labor chief can't dictate U.S. Steel's acceptance of the board's recommendations as a condition to bargaining.

But Fairless reiterated he is perfectly willing to resume negotiations. Murray didn't comment. His aides said they don't know when he will.

Carrier-Boy Gets His Question in 'Wizard of Odds'

An "odds" question suggested by David Hardie, 1748 B street, a Capital Journal carrier, is featured in today's "Wizard of Odds" cartoon by Guild, which appears on the editorial page.

The cartoon appears in many leading newspapers throughout the nation. Hardie has been a Capital Journal carrier for about one year.

Waterfront Blast, Newport

Newport, Ore., Sept. 15 (AP)—An unexplained waterfront explosion among closely jammed fishing boats today sent one to the bottom of the harbor and damaged three others. No one aboard was critically hurt.

The 40-foot Canadian fishing boat Cluny, with two men sleeping aboard, was shattered and caught fire. The blast apparently originated in that vessel. Its skipper, A. R. Rogers of Vancouver, B.C., jumped unharmed into the water and swam to safety. His crewman, Ian G. Forbes, Canadian of undetermined address, suffered second and third degree burns before he got into the water. His condition in a Toledo hospital was reported not serious.

The adjacent 32-foot fishing boat Grayhall, skippered by Lyle Joy of Portland, burned to the waterline. Joy was aboard but escaped unharmed. Two other boats, the Salar, of Canada, and the Forest, were damaged slightly.

Coastguardsmen and local firemen fought flames for two hours, seeking to prevent spread to other boats.

Lewis Insists

Soft coal operators assembled at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., for negotiations with Lewis, said it was possible that the miners, now idle under the union's three-day walkout, would not return to the pits Monday.

Lewis, who demanded that the operators continue their payments to the health and welfare fund despite the fact the union's contracts with them have expired, said that failure to pay could "cause reactions deterrent to the constructive progress of the industry."

Mine owners regarded the statement as a strike threat. More than 87,000 workers already are idle in other industries. Of these, almost 46,000 are on strike and 41,000 have been forced out of work.

Anti-Trust Suit

The action in New York requests a court order requiring A. and P. to separate its manufacturing and processing business from its buying and selling business and to separate its present seven retail store divisions into seven independent owned retail food chains.

The justice department proposes to dissolve the Atlantic Commission company, A. and P.'s wholesale purchasing and sales agent in the produce markets.

To Make Seven Independents
Under the proposed breakup of the present national chain into seven independent companies, A. and P. itself would not be permitted to own more than one such division, probably covering about 800 stores, in contrast to the 6000 retail outlets it now operates.

The department point out, however, that the final form of the proposed dissolution would be a matter for the court to determine.

McGrath described the A. and P. system as "the largest enterprise in the food industry in the United States," with annual retail sales amounting to about $1,300,000,000 or about 6.4 percent of the national total of retail food store sales.

"The suit," McGrath said in a statement, "is designed to eliminate the abuse by A. and P. of its mass buying and mass selling power."
