

Time Saver—Dr. Vannevar Bush (seated) and Dr. Samuel Caldwell of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in Cambridge, demonstrates an automatic typewriter that photographs lines of type on film—which in turn can be used to make a printing plate. The whole process takes only five minutes and is expected to revolutionize the printing industry. The device is three times faster than the conventional typesetting machine. (Acme Telephoto)

FERDY IN THE WELL

'Take the Bull by the Horns' Was Solution of Problem

Celeburne, Tex., Sept. 21 (AP)—Ferdie the bull is a little puzzled, and hurt by the ways of man. The 1,260-pound Holstein was ambling around late Monday. He ambled right on when he saw some planks.

Feet first, he went crashing through the planks. He thudded to a stop—at the bottom of a 40-foot abandoned well.

He stayed there all night. When he looked up and saw Farmer Jim Cryer peering down he looked into a face as puzzled as his own.

Cryer didn't know—until this morning—what to do. "Take the bull by the horns," Cryer said to himself. "Take the bull by the horns."

This morning his friend, Gene Reed, pulled up with his auto wrecker. It has a winch on the back.

The steel line was lowered into the well. It settled snugly around Ferdie's ample horns.

A little grinding and Ferdie's neck began stretching. But he didn't budge.

A little more grinding and a little more stretching. Ferdie's eyes protruded glassily. He'd rather stay in the well.

He was limp by the time his bottom side cleared the bottom of the well. His neck was longer than it had ever been before.

At the well lip, Ferdie collapsed. But he kept on breathing.

"Darn near pulled his head off," commented Reed.
