Price Index Drops 13 Cents

New York, Sept. 22 (AP)—The Dun & Bradstreet wholesale food price index dropped 13 cents in the week which ended yesterday. It was the widest break in more than seven months.

The drop cut the index to $5.72, lowest since July 19, and wiped out most of a net gain of 19 cents since the index started rising on July 12. This week last year, the index stood at $6.82. Breaks in the prices of edible oils and declines in grain and livestock markets were largely responsible for the big drop.

The previous widest decline was a drop of 22 cents in the week ended Feb. 8.

Of the 31 foods used in compiling the index, 17 moved downward, 11 were unchanged, and three increased. The index is the sum total of the wholesale price per pound of each.

The commodities which declined were flour, wheat, corn, rye, oats, barley, hams, lard, coffee, cottonseed oil, cocoa, beans, rice, steers, hogs, lambs and butter.

Unchanged were cheese, sugar, tea, peas, peanuts, eggs, molasses, currants, prunes, milk and raisins.

Those which advanced were beef, hog bellies and potatoes.
