OFFERS NO ALIBIS

Naturally no coach likes to see his team beaten by a 79 to 0 core, or anything like that astronomical figure, but Chester Stackhouse returned to his football chores after the trip to Moscow offering no excuses. As a matter of fact the score, high as was, singles and faced only 28 men in besting Harry Brecheen, Ted Wilks and Al Brazle.

Brecheen held the Dodgers scoreless until the fourth when scoreless until the fourth when scoreless until the fourth when washington Huskies. A few years later the 'Cats coached by Spec Washington Huskies. A few years later the 'Cats coached by Spec washington Huskies. A few years later the 'Gat coached by Spec Washington Huskies. A few years later the 'Gat coached by Spec washington Huskies. A few years later the 'Cats coa cerned. That record was hung up back in 1925 when Willamette, then under the tutelage of Guy L. Rathbun, went to Seattle where Keene became known as the "Boys of '76" after they had been trounced by Oregon State 76 to 0. In each instance Willamette To Top Ruth Mark Timbrook, Jr., Indianapolis, 4 survived scholastically and athletically and we do not expect the institution to fold up under the most recent whipping.

A BIT OF EXPLANATION

While Coach Stackhouse offered no alibis, it should be pointed out that he had no knowledge of his men prior to his arrival on the campus last August. Furthermore opportunity for instilling his system of play was limited. On the other hand the Vandals had spent 17 consecutive days, including Sundays, under the lash of Coach Dixie Howell. Each day the squad was put through two sessions of three hours each for a total of 102 hours. Since Howell has a squad that in-cludes 28 lettermen, 10 of whom are seniors and 18 juniors, the oft heard statement that "this is Idaho's year" has some basis in fact. A fairly good idea as to the capabilities of the Vandals as well as the Webfoots should come out of next Saturday's game at Eugene between Oregon and Idaho.

THAT SUBSTITUTION RULE

After being socked a number of times for substituting players at the wrong time (according to the rules), several football coaches Snead is Dropped state that the only time a substitution can be made is when the ball is dead, that is when the ball changes from one team to the other, after an incompleted forward pass, is run or kicked out of bands at bounds, etc. Substitutions at other times means a time out and after a certain number of those, a five yard penalty is assessed. All of which means that it will be a bit difficult for a coach to substitute at strategic moments in a tight game. The penalty is not too severe when a team is about to punt and the coach wants to send in his favorite kicker. It would seem that coaches as well as officials should take a refresher course in rules each fall,

BEATING THE DRUM

Under the heading "It never happened to an Oregon team before", Dick Strite of the Eugene Register Guard, prints a few quotes from San Francisco papers following the Webfoots' decisive defeat of St. Mary's. In view of the fact that Bay to encompass anything north of the Golden Gate bridge, their eulogies probably should be taken with a grain of salt. Bill Leiser of the SF Chronicle reported: "The team (Oregon) showed just about everything in the book including a dangerous running attack, passing if needed, punting, point kicking after touchdown and field goaling."

STELLE WELL LIKED

As for Earl Stelle, Art Rosenbaum of the Chronicle declared a cutie at quarterback, made 45,000 customers aware that "(1) Oregon is a Rose Bowl contender, (2) Oregon may have an idea last year in believing it deserved the bid over California, and (3) Babe Is Favored
To Hold Women's most pertinent to the lovely evening, that Oregon was vastly superior to St. Mary's in this game." "San Franciscans got a preview last night of the football team which could easily wind up in the Rose Bowl come January 2."

COULD BE LET DOWN

Coach Jim Aiken apparently has the facility for firing his ball club and keeping it a fairly hot temperature throughout the season. But there is always the possibility of a let down in effort after a fairly easy win. Those who are looking for a Idaho win Saturday overlook the fact that Willamette was not nearly ready for a foe as tough as the Vandals proved to be. The Bearcats had not been able to master Chester Stackhouse's offensive strategy and this fact made the Vandais look good. Nevertheless the lopsided win gave Idaho a tremendous lift and they will face the Webfoots in Eugene Saturday afteron full of confidence. Look for a tough tussie on Hayward

Deer Season to Open on October 1

Although Oregon has experienced its driest summer in several years, the deer season is expected to open on schedule October 1, State Game Director Charles Lockwood said here today.

Lockwood said heavy night dews, following recent rains, have dampened the forest floor, and postponement of the deer season opening prob-ably will not be necessary. The season runs from October 1 to October 20.
