Tokyo Rose Fate In Hands of Jury

San Francisco, Sept. 26 (AP)—A jury of six men and six women begins deliberations today to decide whether Mrs. Iva Toguri D'Aquino, 33, committed treason by broadcasting over the Japanese radio under the name "Tokyo Rose."

First, however, the jurors were to hear two hours of instructions from Federal Judge Michael J. Roche on abstract legal principles. Then it will be their duty to sift the truth from 1,000,000 words of testimony gathered in the six-week trial.

Mrs. D'Aquino, a graduate of University of California at Los Angeles, maintained the same calm composure that has marked her appearances in court. Only twice did she break down—both times under rigorous cross-examination by Prosecutor Tom DeWolfe.

The jury may acquit her or find her guilty on one or all of the eight counts charged against her. Conviction on each count could bring a maximum sentence of death or a $10,000 fine or a minimum sentence of five years' imprisonment.

American Kitchen Gadgets Get Priority on Trip Abroad

By PATRICIA CLARY

Hollywood (AP)—At the head of Phyllis Calvert's list of American luxuries she's taking back to England is a can-opener. She wants one to go on the wall, just like the one in the kitchen of the big Hollywood house she is renting while working for Paramount in "United States Mail."

"Household gadgets are still pretty hard to get in England," she said. "And we never did have the ingenious ones that you Americans have such a knack for turning out."

Among the other pieces of kitchen equipment she wants to take back for British meals are an electric mixer, a pressure cooker, a big thermos job, electric popcorn popper and a coffee percolator.

"We always have tea at home," she explained, "but in Hollywood I've gotten in the habit of drinking a great deal of coffee. One reason is that I can't seem to make a good cup of tea here. I expect that when I go home I will keep drinking coffee along with my tea."

The actress is also, foolhardily, laying in a supply of bubble gum for her six-year-old daughter, Auril.

"My friends warn me I will regret it," she smiled. "But American kids get such a kick out of it I can't resist treating her to some."

Other items on her shopping list are lipstick, face powder, bubble bath, bobby pins and a half dozen boxes of candy.

She's going heavy on nylon stockings, which are still scarce and expensive in England, and American cigarettes.

On her last trip home she took a wardrobe of American clothes. "I'm buying very few this time," she said. "The clothing ration is off in England and it's nothing like the problem it used to be."

Miss Calvert's dream is a washing machine with all the fancy accessories.

"I'm afraid," she sighed, "that the shipping and custom charges would make that cost far too much."

Meet Louis Karg—Another "Do-it-yourself" American

He's on his way up!

Louis A. Karg of Canton, Ohio, was a screw machine operator with ideas and ambitions, and the initiative to do something about them. He took courses in metallurgy on the side. He used his wits to invent a special gauging device for seamless tubing. Result? He won himself a job as machining service engineer at The Timken Roller Bearing Company. Today at 32, he's sales development engineer, a specialist in his field. He's on his way up...he did it on his own!

It's a Fact...

It's a fact that the affairs of the life insurance business are an "open book," because:

- Every life insurance company has to file a report every year in every state in which it is licensed to do business.
- These reports to the state supervisory authorities completely cover each company's insurance and financial operations. They are open to the public at any time.
- The state authorities also have the right to inquire into any of the company's affairs at any time. And in most states examinations of the company must be made at regular intervals. These examination reports, too, are open to public inspection.

The insurance commissioner at your state capital will welcome inquiries. Or an inquiry to your company or your agent will be gladly answered. See your life insurance agent. Getting information for you is one of the many ways he helps demonstrate that life insurance is a service!

★ It's the American Spirit!

YES, LOUIS KARG opened up a "new frontier" for himself . . . on his own Main Street! Like thousands of others, he has the traditional do-it-yourself spirit that finds opportunities in today's America—and makes the most of them.

In your own home town, you'll find another proof that most folks still believe in taking care of their own—on their own. It lies in the fact that 4 out of 5 American families are voluntary owners of life insurance. And through their life insurance they also help open up opportunities for other Americans. For every year many of their life insurance dollars are invested in industries, homes, farms. This means more jobs and better living for everyone. And more security at lower cost for America's 78 million policyowners.

Because more people look to life insurance service every year, life insurance has grown to meet their needs. Today more than 150,000 trained agents and 584 separate life insurance companies compete aggressively and constantly to help Americans help themselves!
