

Gas and Coke Company Will Pay Fee of $4200 Annually

Instead of a flat license fee of $1500 a year, the Portland Gas & Coke company will pay about $4200 a year with enactment of an ordinance by the city council Monday night which makes the fee 1 per cent of gross earnings on the company's Salem business.

As introduced the bill provided for 3 per cent, but this was changed to 1 per cent on motion of Alderman Dan J. Fry who had introduced the bill. The measure is effective January 1. It puts the utility on a gross earnings basis as other utilities, although the rates range from 1 to 3 per cent for different concerns.

Bruce Williams Elected

Bruce Williams was elected pro tem city judge to succeed the late William H. Crawford. The election was at the request of City Judge W. W. McKinney who will take vacation time off. Four ballots were necessary to elect with Williams and Elmer M. Amundson the candidates.

A request by Sears, Roebuck & Co. for a loading zone in front of 240 South Liberty was referred to City Manager Franzen with power to act. The company is converting its farm store there to a warehouse.

Referred to the manager for a report was a letter from W. C. Winslow, representing the Salem school board, relative to the proposed vacation of Raynor street, sometimes known as Alder street, between Oxford and Rural.

Dewey Davis requested installation of a water line across Livingston area between Evergreen to a point near Lansing, a distance of about 900 feet. He said he expected the area to be in the city limits in the not far distant future. The council took no action.

Two public hearings were set by the council on zoning questions. One of them involves the property between the YMCA and the Court apartments on Court street where Don Young proposes construction of a law office building. The change would be from Class II residential to Class III-X business. An ordinance bill was tabled until after the hearing. The other would change from Class I residential to Class II residential property at Rural and University in Yew Park annex to permit erection of a two-unit dwelling. The necessary ordinance bill was introduced. Public hearings on both, which have been approved by the city planning and zoning commission, were set for October 10.

Approval was given a resolution abolishing Rule 16 of the council which requires the mayor to use the words "Shall the title of the bill be the title of the ordinance" after passage of an ordinance bill.

Approval was given an application by Stephen J. Fouchek of the Ten-Eleven Drive-in market at 995 South Commercial for package store beer license.

Application of Shorty's Cab company, formerly operated as DeLuxe Cab company, for two taxi permits was referred to the city manager with power to act. Permission was given Bales & Brady to move a garage building for A. H. Bone from the 400 block on Center to the north city limits.

Assessment Ordinances

Seven street assessment bills, covering the cost of recent street improvements and totaling $35,379.72 were passed.

Introduced were five other street assessment bills, and also the following ordinance bills: Making the annual fee of $50 for each vehicle operated by taxicab companies payable in advance at the first of the year; and granting the Oregon Electric a franchise to extend its North Front street spur from Norway north 222 feet.

A claim by John H. Carson and Allan G. Carson for $5000 in payment for professional services in connection with the suit of Gardner Bennett against the city of Salem, relative to water rights from the North Santiam, was referred to the water department. The claim dates back to a time before the managerial form of government came in when the city had a water commission. The commission employed the attorneys.

Morse May Not Attend PIL

Washington, Sept. 27 (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse, R.-Ore., went to the senate in a wheelchair today to vote for a bill to revise military pay schedules. Morse has been recovering at Bethesda Naval hospital from back injuries suffered when he fell from a sulky at the Oregon State Fair. He came to the capitol last week to vote for the foreign arms aid bill.

A statement from his office said he was being discharged from Bethesda today on condition that he remain at home in bed for the next few weeks. He will, however, be permitted to go to the senate for important roll call votes and to spend some time in his office.

"He expressed great disappointment over the fact that in all probability he will not be able to attend the Pacific International Livestock Show at Portland Oct. 7 as he planned," the statement said.

The first U. S. ice making machines were invented in 1850.

"Please don't take your hand away!"

"Remember me? I'm that bundle they found in a doorway a few months ago. (The note said: 'His name is Pete.')

"SOMEBODY took me in, washed me, fed me. SOMEBODY tucked a soft, warm blanket around me. What with doctors and nurses, SOMEBODY'S watchin' over me all the time.

"SOMEBODY does all this (they tell me) because our Community Chest stands behind them. And YOU, mister, are behind our Chest.

"There's an awful lot of things kids like me have got to face before we're grown-up citizens. Please, please, don't take your hand away now!"

Helping the "Petes" is just one of the wonderful things you do when you make out your check to our Red Feather Community Chest.

You help see that a child is safely born. You fight juvenile delinquency with Scouting... "Y's"... camping and wholesome youth centers. You keep clinics and health centers doing their blessed job of medical care and healing. And you keep the Visiting Nurse "visiting" the ill, the disabled, and the aged.
