decision on a possible postponement of the opening of the deer hunting season in Oregon is expected to be made Tuesday afternoon by officials of the forestry department of the state.

A survey of forest areas and conditions was being made Tuesday morning in an effort to check fire hazards throughout the state.

The only rain in the state during the past 24 hours occurred in Klamath county and there the squalls were accompanied by equally dangerous lightning bolts.

Although state officials lean toward permitting the season to get under way on Saturday, they warned earlier that if the present dry weather and low humidity continue, the opening date would be postponed until forest condi-

Hayward Field Tops

It took a long time to turn the trick, but the turf on Hayward field has finally reached the stage where no apologies are needed. In the Oregon-Idaho tilt the field was lightning fast, stood up under the attack of cleated shoes and few or no divots were to be seen. Of course the fall has been ideal, just sufficient rain to keep the grass growing without softening the roots. Heavy weather will undoubtedly bring about a different situation but judging by Saturday's appearance the turf is there to stay. Just three varsity games are booked for the Hayward gridiron this fall-Colorado Oct. 15 and the annual classic with Oregon State,

Should Cut WU In

If the University of Oregon athletic director would give credit where credit is due, he would send Willamette a check for at least $1000. There is little doubt but that Idaho's defeat of the Bearcats by a 79 to 0 score, played an important part in attracting the biggest first-game-of-the-season crowds in Oregon's history. "Any club that can beat Willamette by such a score must have something, for sure," reasoned a lot of fans as they took off for Eugene. The result was full stands except for the horseshoe around the north end of the field which was not opened. If Idaho had decided to hold down the score, instead of throwing passes to all corners of the lot, the which was not opened. If it dano and decided to hold down the score, instead of throwing passes to all corners of the lot, the outcome unquestionably would have been closer. Fumbles, frequent on each side, were not favorable to the Vandals either. After watching the Webfoots roll impressively over the Vandals, one can be thankful that President G. Herbert Smith of Willamette, vetoed a proposed game between the Rearrests will amount to the webfoots. Bearcais and the Webfoots.

It Could Happen

The paths of Oregon and Stanford do not cross this season and the two clubs, both potential champions, could finish up on an undefeated basis. Such being the case, it would again be up to the conference to select a Rose Bowl entrant. Would they again have the nerve to vote for a California contender? All of which, of course, is looking pretty far ahead and one or the other, or perhaps both will be out of the running before the season is much older. The Webfoots go up against a real tough one next Friday night in the huge Los Angeles Coliscum when they meet Mr. Bruin. Stanford plays another King's X affair, but by no stretch of the imagination can the University of Michigan, their opponents be classified as a breather.

Willamette Game at 2 O'clock

Willamette's first home appearance, set for next Saturday afternoon will start at 2 o'clock. On the air, through the press and in one prominent schedule at least, the game is stated all the way from Friday night to Saturday night. For one, we we way from Friday night to Saturday night. For one, we welcome the daylight program on Sweetland field. Night games are necessary in many instances but no amount of artificial illumination can equal Old Col. By way of dividing the sheep from the goats (make your own selections), a second observation post is being erected on the north side of Sweetland field. This will accommodate 10 gentlemen of the presleaving the old one, suspended from the roof of the south stand to the radio. Being a bit more agile, Bruce Williams and his associates were considered more equal to the task of climbing the ladder than the men who write for a living.

Nobody along the chalk lines during the Salem-Klamath contest but those who had an official right to be there. The high school has always been a flagrant offender in the matter of obstructing the view of those fans who pay for a grandstand seat.
