Do an Ami and you're on your way to dancing the ballroom hula. An ami symbolizes "around the island," and is one of the basic steps in the dance originated by Don Wallace at the Royal Hawaiian hotel in Honolulu. Here Mrs. Gladys Bowen of San Diego and bandleader Jack McLean demonstrate some of the gyrations, danced to any 4/4 foxtrot.

Driver Trapped In Truck Crash

Albany, Oct. 3 (AP)—A truck driver was trapped inside his vehicle for an hour today after he crashed into a divider on the Pacific highway overpass here. Robert Richardson, of Portland, was pinned inside the truck cab so tightly that rescuers had to cut the cab's top off with cutting torches before he could be removed. Richardson was still conscious—though suffering a broken leg and other undetermined injuries—when rescuers reached him and took him to a hospital. His asphalt-laden Northern Lines truck and trailer smashed into the steel post and high curbing of the divider. The impact demolished the cab.

Suspect Held for Alaska Rape-Slaying

Anchorage, Alaska, Oct. 3 (AP)—John Chebetnoy, 33, was held under heavy guard today while authorities investigated the rape-slaying of Alice Peterson, who died Saturday night a few hours after she was found with her throat cut. Chebetnoy was captured in the brush north of Girdwood yesterday by Alaska railroad section hands who were alerted to be on the lookout for him. Residents said they saw him hiking out of town along the railroad tracks, shortly after Miss Peterson's body was found. After he was captured, Chebetnoy was brought to Anchorage. Authorities said he was released recently from jail in Seward.

TRIED IN TREATING ARTHRITIS

Wonder Drug Plant Is Being Grown in Hawaii

Honolulu—A rare plant that has brought hope to 7,000,000 arthritic patients in the United States has been cultivated in Hawaii for the last 17 years. A species of African vine called strophanthus, this plant contains ingredients for relief of arthritis and rheumatic fever. But—total production in the islands so far doesn't add up to enough to help one patient one day. "It's still in the experimental stage," says Dr. H. L. Lyon, director emeritus of the experiment station, Hawaii Sugar Planters Association. Researchers have reported that a chemical obtained from seeds of the strophanthus is identical with one of the intermediate chemicals now involved in the laborious process of producing cortisone. Main obstacle to production of cortisone from the plant is the same as that presently hampering its production from ox bile—you need a mountain of seeds for a few ounces of cortisone. To be exact, one ton of seeds to relieve one patient one year. (AP Newsfeatures)

One Injured, Another Jailed in Shooting

Corvallis, Oct. 3 (AP)—A railroad bunkhouse shooting sent one man to a hospital and another to jail here yesterday. State Police said Cedric K. Ellison, 40, was wounded twice in the chest and once in the head, by 22 caliber bullets. Held in the jail for Lincoln county authorities is Cecil P. Young, 50. Young was reported as saying the shooting stemmed from an argument and fight over money owed him. The affair occurred along the Southern Pacific tracks west of here at Nashville.

Willamette Trustees Accept Bequest

The executive committee of Willamette university board of trustees heard a report on enrollment, reviewed campus improvements and later attended the football game Saturday afternoon. The group inspected the recently installed pipe organ in the college of music and the stacks added to the library. The committee authorized acceptance of a $1000 bequest made by the late C. Gertrude French of The Dalles. Income from the bequest, to be known as the Esther B. French memorial fund, is to be turned into the general operations fund. C. Gertrude French received an M.D. degree from Willamette in 1895.

'Wizard of Odds' Has Feature by Tommy Schultz

The main feature in the Capital Journal's "Wizard of Odds" cartoon on the editorial page today is furnished by Tommy Schultz of Salem. The subject is safe traveling, and the cartoon informs readers that one in every 200,000 train passengers is killed annually. A picture of a streamliner accompanies the feature. "Wizard of Odds" by the cartoonist Hal Mason is syndicated by the New York Post.

17 Die When Fast Train Crashes Airforce Bus

Ontario, Calif., Oct. 3 (AP)—The GI driver of an airforce bus apparently reacted automatically when someone shouted, "turn left," and drove in front of a highballing passenger train roaring at 73 miles an hour, a survivor of the resulting crash said today. Seventeen persons died, including five girls and the chaperone who went along on a beach party with enlisted men from March airforce base. Five others were injured. Airforce officials said apparently only 22 persons were aboard the bus, which had a capacity of 32. At least one of the wounded was in serious condition. One of the less seriously injured was Sgt. Peter A. Grisolia, 21, Brooklyn, N. Y., who said the bus driver, a GI, was unsure of the way and that passengers had been shouting directions as he drove toward Ontario to return the girls and the chaperone to their homes. "People would yell out, 'turn left' or 'turn right,'" Grisolia said. "Just before we were hit, someone said, 'turn left,' and I closed my eyes because I was sleepy." Then he was thrown from the bus by the crash. The impact wound the bus around the front of the locomotive so tightly that acetylene torches had to be used to cut loose the driver, tentatively identified as Gordon C. Crimin, who was pinned in the wreckage. It was nearly three hours before the train, the Union Pacific's pony express, could resume its journey to the east. The seven girls on the trip, only two of who survived, were members of the March airforce base service club, a local group that helped out at parties and entertainments for air base troops. Bodies and parts of bodies were strewn along the railroad right-of-way for 500 feet. Rescuers found some of the mangled bodies impaled on the locomotive.

Survey Notes in Road Survey Lost

County Engineer H. E. Swart told the county court Monday he has had no success so far locating the notes on a survey made in 1913 on the south side of the little north fork of the Santiam from about Horse creek to Lumker's bridge. Lumbermen along the river and others want a new road along that side of the river and had asked for a copy of the old survey so they could make arrangements for securing the right of way. The county engineer Monday brought his old diary which told the story of the survey being made in the midsummer of 1913, and Swart also said he has a distinct personal recollection of it. Swart thinks that the survey notes were turned over to the then County Judge W. M. Bushey and never returned. The engineer says that Bushey was opposed to having the road run along the south side of the river. As a result another survey was made later along the north side and the road ordered built there where it now runs. Apparently a new survey will have to be made if the new piece of road is to be built.

Archduke Otto Invited to Salem

Archduke Otto of Austria, heir to the Hapsburg throne, living in America since 1940, has been invited by the Salem Knife and Fork club to be its guest speaker during its dinner meeting to be held the evening of October 13. Otto who speaks excellent English, has appeared before numerous clubs of this country. Born in 1912, the son of Charles, emperor and king of Hungary, his early childhood was spent at the imperial castles in Vienna and Budapest. He left with his family for other parts of Europe after the revolution of 1919. The archduke returned to Europe in 1946, 1947 and in 1948-49, visiting Germany, France, England, Spain, Italy, Portugal and Greece and northern Africa.

$25,000 Law Suit Up Tuesday

Tuesday the $25,000 damage action of Beulah Carpenter against Journal Garage company will come up for trial before a jury in circuit court here, one of a long series of actions growing out of a truck-bus accident November 5, 1947, south of Salem on the Pacific highway when two persons lost their lives and several were injured. This is the second trial with Beulah Carpenter as plaintiff. The first directed at the Pacific Greyhound lines resulted in a verdict for the defendant and now the legal guns are trained on the garage company whose truck was in collision with the Greyhound bus. The truck driver was killed. Including these two trials there have been six in circuit court here and two in Multnomah county growing out of the same accident. Another brought by the driver of the bus is pending. One verdict has been returned for a plaintiff in Marion county, one in Multnomah county. Both were against the bus company. These have been paid off and also the bus company has settled one death case out of court and paid off on another claim. A woman passenger died as result of injuries received in the accident. It was estimated in 1889 that there were only 541 bison in the United States of an original 50,000,000.

North Mill Creek Is Still in Dry State

North Mill creek, from which the water was diverted by the city engineering department while trench work is in progress at the North Church street bridge location, will remain dry a few more days, City Engineer J. H. Davis said Monday. The diversion was made at 19th street by diverting the water from the Salem ditch into the south channel. The flow of water in the ditch was also decreased. The work at the North Church bridge site is for installation of pipes in the interceptor sewer project. It was necessary to work at that location, which normally wouldn't have been done until later, because of pending construction of a new bridge. The sewer pipes have to be laid under the bridge.
