

Clark Charged With Murders

Canton, Oct. 5 (AP)—Leonard Francis Clark, 42, an American who claims to have found the world's highest mountain in western China, was charged with manslaughter today in the gunshot deaths last month of another American and an Englishman.

The former lieutenant colonel of the American OSS was clapped in a dirty Chinese jail cell on a diet of bread and water to await trial. Interviewed in his cell, he steadfastly maintained he did not do the shooting. Likewise he denied he was in love with the pretty widow of one of the victims.

Specifically, Clark, who has a featured article in the current issue of Life magazine, is charged in the gunshot deaths of Willard Freeman, 41, formerly of Bridgewater, Mass., and Harold Harris, 45, Shanghai-born Englishman who was employed in Chungking by Freeman.

The shooting culminated a drinking bout on September 8 in the Freeman home. It occurred the night before the Freemans were to celebrate their fourth wedding anniversary and the pretty Polish-born Mrs. Freeman's birthday. In jail today, Clark denied being in love with Freeman's widow, Mrs. Maya Freeman. Previously he had said Freeman had "pulled a jealousy act" and accused him of being in love with his wife.

Mulligan Here On Baseball Deal

"The Norgan interests never have or never will do anything to hurt baseball in Salem," declared Bill Mulligan, business manager of the Portland Beavers. In a brief statement during Wednesday's luncheon program of the Salem Rotary club.

George Norgan of Vancouver, B. C., is president of the corporation that owns the Portland and Salem baseball clubs. Mulligan came to Salem to consult with George Emigh, Salem Senator business manager and did not meet with a group of business men headed by Harry V. Collins assigned the job of discussing the possible purchase of the local ball club.

Mulligan declared the Norgan organization was a sound one as he reiterated his statement that "we will never do anything to hurt baseball in Salem." He made no comment concerning the possibility of a change in ownership of the Salem club, merely indicating that deal was still in the air.

Mulligan, a member of the Portland Rotary club met with Salem Rotarians for the purpose of making up a previous meeting.

Light Rainfall Freshens Valley

A third of an inch of rain fell in the Salem area during the 24-hour period ending at 10:30 a.m., Wednesday. The new series of showers and the cooler temperatures seemed definitely to mark the fall season. Total rainfall for the month to date is 4.2 of an inch.

Forecast is for partly cloudy conditions and some scattered showers, with cool temperatures both for tonight and Thursday.

The Willamette river still shows little effect from the showers, still measuring in the minus stage here. The reading was -2.9 feet Wednesday morning.

Wrong Address Given On Police Blotter

Information secured from the Salem police blotter and published by the Capital Journal concerning the arrest of Philip Weber on a hit-run charge was discovered to be in error Wednesday so far as an address was concerned.

The arrested man, who had

Survey Need of Apartments

Gene Conger, housing market analyst for the federal housing administration, has been detailed to make the survey in Salem relative to need of more apartment units in the $75 to $85 rental brackets.

This information came to Folger Johnson of Portland, state director of the FHA, from M. Joseph Cassidy, zone commissioner for the FHA in Washington, D.C.

The survey is being made in connection with applications by Robert Coates, Portland contractor, for FHA sanction to build three apartment houses in Salem, totaling about 80 units, one in south Salem, one near the Capitol Shopping Center, and one in the Hollywood district.

The Chamber of Commerce, Senators Guy Cordon and Wayne Morse, and Representative Walter Norblad have contacted FHA authorities in Washington in support of the project.

Reservists Using Planes

Four Naval Air Reservists from Salem, three from Portland and one from Corvallis were at the Salem Naval Air Facility this week-end to use the planes there for training. Salem men flying Sunday were Lt. (j. g.) Glenn Favel, Lt. James Brigham, Lt. Ed Schiess and Lt. (j. g.) L. A. Griffith.

Here from Corvallis to fly was Ensign W. F. Kerr, who is one of the pilots from the Corvallis unit flying the planes into the Salem facility from Seattle when they were brought down here September 22.

Portland men down to get in time on the planes, all of whom are from ACORN 13-2, were Lt. K. E. Cochran, Lt. J. J. Fite, and Lt. George Bickford. This coming week-end members of the Salem volunteer Naval Air Reserve unit will be at the Salem Facility and will fly the planes. The Corvallis unit as soon as the members records are in order will be given a week-end, as will the Portland unit. Also planning to use the Salem planes is a Marine air unit (VTU 13-11) from Portland. There are 45 members in this unit.

Repudiation Of Yalta Sought

Washington, Oct. 5 (AP)—Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) has urged United States denunciation of the 1945 Yalta agreement on grounds that Russia already has violated the accord.

He told the senate that Soviet recognition of the communist regime in China had violated the 1945 Sino-Russian friendship and alliance pact which was provided for under the war-time Yalta agreement.

The Yalta agreement also provided for continued Soviet domination of Outer Mongolia, returned the southern portion of Sakhalin to the Soviets, guaranteed Russian interests in the port of Dairen, and continued the Soviet lease of the Port Arthur naval base.

It also gave Russia the Kurile islands. The Yalta accord was signed by the late President Roosevelt, Russian Premier Stalin and then British Prime Minister Winston Churchill. The Chinese national government charged yesterday that recognition of the communist regime was one of a "long series" of violations of the Soviet-Chinese treaty.

C of C to Lunch With Firemen

The Chamber of Commerce luncheon next Monday, which will be at central fire headquarters in City hall instead of in the chamber dining room, will be for the double purpose of acquainting chamber members with Salem fire fighting facilities and kicking-off fire prevention week.

Robert Taylor, state insurance commissioner and fire marshal, will be the speaker, and he will be introduced by Fire Chief W. P. Roble.

Chief Roble said today the fire equipment will be removed from the main floor to the apron in front of the station to make way for dining tables and chairs.

The department is equipped with loud speaker and short wave radio facilities, which will be used Monday. Arrangements have been made with City Manager J. L. Franzen for use of chairs from the city council chamber. The department has several tables and others will be provided.

Try to Unload Pineapples

The Dalles, Ore., Oct. 5 (AP)—Hawaiian pineapple owners will try to unload a barge cargo with the aid of the Taft-Hartley law. R. M. Botley, president of Iseways, Ltd., said the national labor relations board would be asked to invoke the law's ban on secondary boycotts against CIO longshoremen. Longshoremen last Wednesday stopped the unloading here when they swarmed over the Municipal terminal, roughing up workers and damaging equipment.

The owners of the $800,000 cargo say they are not involved in a Hawaiian longshore strike and picketing of their barge is a secondary boycott.

Botley said there would be no further unloading effort until the NLRB acted on the petition, expected to be filed in Portland today.

YMCA Officers to Train Oct. 15

A Hi Y officers training conference is to be held at the Salem YMCA October 15 when representatives from a number of high schools will be in attendance. The schools to be represented include Salem, Corvallis, Sweet Home, Dallas, Independence, Albany, Lebanon, Silverton and Canby.

Dick Peterson of Salem high is arranging the program. Officers of a number of Salem service clubs will sit in during the conference and will hold group discussions with Hi Y presidents, secretaries and other leaders.

The Hi Y Mothers of Salem will provide the noon meal. Formation of a fourth Hi Y club at Salem high school is a possibility, hinging upon the number of applications for membership in the three existing chapters.

Counselors for two junior high school Hi Y chapters have been named. Bob Ladd has been assigned the Tracy Strong chapter at Leslie and Duane Denny, a Willamette student, holds a similar position at Parrish. Parrish Hi Y will conduct an assembly at the YMCA Thursday evening to which all boys interested have been invited.
