One of the cases was from the Grand Ronde area and the other from West Salem. Both are being treated now and are not believed serious.

In view of the diphtheria cases reported in southern Oregon, Dr. Stewart also advises parents of school children and preschoolers to secure immunization or booster shots for them.

"The outbreak of this disease is a reminder that we cannot relax our control efforts against the killer," he says. "Contact your family physician or the Polk county health department to be sure that your child is safe."

Cordon Blasts CVA Proposal

Washington, Oct. 22 (AP)—Senator Cordon (R-Ore) said today the session of congress just closed "was the most extravagant in history."

"Here," he said, "the whip of the executive was directly responsible."

"The Truman program from the opening message to the day of adjournment was a calculated scheme to garner for the executive department more and more dictatorial and arbitrary power," Cordon told a reporter. "It became so raw that even stalwart administration democrats rebelled."

"No better example of this philosophy of the administration can be found than is embodied in the president's Columbia Valley administration bill which is a bid for power run riot."

Cordon referred to Mr. Truman's proposal to set up a CVA to develop the Columbia river basin in seven northwest states, which would be headed by a board of three members appointed by the president.

Cordon said the session "dragged on far longer than was necessary chiefly because the democrats, who had a controlling majority, could not agree among themselves or with the administration on a program."

Lebanon—A. J. Walker, Lebanon farmer, comes to town twice a week driving Molly, 14-year-old mare, who is indifferent to the hazards of traffic. Molly and the shay occupy a full parking meter space and this is frequently the cause of good natured argument between Walker and members of the police force. Walker contends that in pioneer days an ordinance was passed requiring the city to furnish hitching racks, that the ordinance has never been rescinded, and that, since there are now no racks, Molly is entitled to free standing space wherever it may be found. Chief of Police Cliff Price, who is hazy on this point, still maintains that Molly is entitled to a ticket, and slips one under her bridle. "Molly will never pay that fine, Chief," Walter insists, "You'd just as well arrest her right now."

Couple United After 36 Years

Willamina, Oct. 22—A happy reunion was held recently at the home of Ed Sider in the southern part of Willamina, when his wife, Rosalia, whom he had not seen for 36 years, arrived here accompanied by his daughter, Linda, and a granddaughter and grandson, Lehti and Ivar.

The family came originally from Narua, Estonia, and have been in displaced persons camps in Germany for the past five years. They described the squalor and crowded conditions of these camps and expressed great joy to be arriving in a free country to live.

The daughter, Linda, is a nurse and teacher, and was in charge of war orphans in Germany for two years. The granddaughter, Lehti, is a medical student and has completed five semesters of university medical work.

They brought with them several beautiful hand-made rugs, some of which took a year to make.

The family made the trip from Germany through the help of the federal displaced persons program, the Red Cross, and the voluntary state committee in Oregon which represents various church groups.

Lois Gunderson, 12, of 190 South 13th street, left the hospital Friday. She got head and body injuries Thursday when struck by a car at Howard and South Capitol. Two other children were also hit by the vehicle which was driven by Roy Bloom, 4560 Liberty road.

Car Registration At All-Time High

An all-time high registration of 638,875 motor vehicles was recorded in September, the office of secretary of state reported today.

Registrations exceeded the total for the same period last year by 10 percent and topped those for all of 1948 by 38,000.

The break-down showed 44,544 more passenger cars, 7888 more pickups, 3743 more trucks and 323 more motorcycles than at this time last year. Buses, only vehicle classification to show a decrease, dropped 145.

The office said registrations have gone up 50 percent since the end of 1945, giving "plenty of reason why chance-taking by drivers or pedestrians is more dangerous than ever." It added that 1948 traffic accidents were 53 percent greater in number than those reported in 1945.

TOLD STORY IN OREGON CITY

Army Deserter for 41 Years Turns Self in to Avoid Hiding

Fort Lewis, Wash., Oct. 22 (AP)—Forty-one years of hiding from Uncle Sam's military police ended here Thursday night for 65-year-old Ray H. Wheaton.

Wheaton turned himself in to the duty officer at this army post with the explanation "I've been a deserter since 1908 and I can't stand it anymore."

He told Maj. F. D. Lowe, post adjutant general, that he deserted at Newport News, Va., in October, 1908, to avoid transfer to Cuba with his signal corps company.

He had been recovering from tropical fever contracted during previous Cuban service and didn't want to go back "so I took the only way out."

"I wrapped my uniform around a rock, dropped it in a canal and started walking. I haven't stopped since. Luckily I didn't have a family to disgrace when I deserted, anyway."

Now white-haired and showing his years, Wheaton said he enlisted at Sioux City, Iowa, in 1906.

"The time I should have turned myself in was during the first world war," he told Maj. Lowe. "I kept moving too fast to get drafted and then I got afraid."

Last week he reported to the sheriff's office in Oregon City and was advised to give himself up to the army. He hitchhiked to Fort Lewis arriving Thursday night.

Major Lowe said if Wheaton's records check with his story he will be granted an administrative discharge.

The statute of limitations has expired, he said, and the only official action is to give him a dishonorable discharge and get him off the rolls as a deserter. This probably will be completed at Fort Lewis.

Thomas A. Edison lit the world's first electric light on a Sunday afternoon in October, 1879. He watched it burn until Tuesday noon, and then deliberately burned it out by increasing the current.
