Alaskans Rush To Gold Strike

Fairbanks, Alaska, Oct. 24 (U.P.)—Merchants closed their shops and workers threw down their tools today to join the headlong rush for gold in a new strike just nine miles from the Arctic Circle.

Every plane capable of getting into the air was crowded with veteran prospectors, construction workers, trappers, storekeepers and college students racing to stake claims at the site, located on a sandbar in the storied Yukon river 160 miles north of here.

The territory's fastest-growing community was the tent city beside the river which sprang up after a fisherman discovered nuggets the size of peas clinging to the webs of his fishtrap, a wheel contraption operated by the water's flow.

Airline terminals were full of men trying to charter planes to the impromptu town, appropriately nicknamed Fishweel, Alaska.

Although the men were excited to fever pitch by the aged cry of "gold," no bloodshed was reported in the race for the diggings.

"Ramblin' Sam" Gamblin, a veteran of the Sushanan strike of 1913, said the filing of claims was being carried out peacefully.

"They're not jumping each other's diggings like they did in the Klondike rush of '98 and the Sushanan strike of '13," he said.

Gamblin, whose opinion is respected by Alaskans, said the strike had "commercial possibilities."

Leaders Chosen For Seal Sales

Marion county Tuberculosis and Health association has announced the names of chairmen responsible for the sale of 1949 Christmas seals in the areas of the county.

An even larger sale than the $19,142.08 collected for seals in the county in 1948 is anticipated this year, the association reports. Last year 23,625 letters containing Christmas seals were mailed to residents of the county with an average of 74 cents per letter returned.

The association has announced that the seal sale will be held in the county's schools again this year with a special Santa Claus pin given to children who contribute to the seal sale. The familiar double-barred red cross pin will be presented to those buying seals from booths established at familiar places downtown, it was announced.

Both chairmen announced by the association include Mrs. Harry E. Aston, 2050 N. Capitol, Amaranth lodge; Ulva Derby, 245 North Winter, Eastern Star lodge No. 37; Mrs. Donald Rossner and Mrs. Hal DeSart, Eastern Star lodge No. 162; Mrs. Roy E. Fedje, 2470 South Commercial, Council of Church Women; and Mrs. Josephine Erickson, Rebekah lodge.

Other county chairmen announced are Mrs. Elmer Klein, Aumsville; Mrs. George B. Elliott, Aurora; Mrs. Ronald Jones, Brooks; Mrs. Marion Draba, Gervais; Mrs. Clarence Friend, Hubbard and Donald; Mrs. Floy Story, Idanha and Detroit; Mrs. Paul Smith, Jefferson; Mrs. Arthur Dreiver, Mill City; Anne Erwert, Mt. Angel; Mrs. John Myers, Silverton; Mrs. Kenneth Hansen, Stayton; Mrs. Carl Smith, St. Paul; Mrs. Carl Magnuson, Woodburn and Mrs. James T. Brand, Salem.

Special chairmen are Mrs. Barbara Stumbo Eloffson, county seal sale chairman; E. Burr Miller, county bond chairman and Mrs. Sam Campbell, president of the Junior Woman's club, bangle pin chairman.

Announcement is expected soon of mailing date for this year's seals which depict a dove in flight and traditional Christmas holly.

Grants Pass Flier Critically Hurt

Grants Pass, Ore., Oct. 24 (U.P.)—David Manary, 33, Grants Pass plumber, was in critical condition at the county hospital today after his light plane crashed on a takeoff.

The civil aeronautics administration said Manary's plane cleared the runway but the engine cut out. He banked and tried to return to the field but crashed.

He was taken to Josephine county hospital where he failed to regain consciousness last night. He suffered a serious head injury.

Labor Relations Men To Address Meeting

Many nationally prominent labor relations men will speak before the 11th annual conference of the Pacific Northwest Personal Management association in Vancouver, B.C., on November 3, 4 and 5.

In addition to discussions of basic employer-employee relations, this year's conference will deal with problems of reducing costs and increasing production through better personnel procedures. A. A. Campbell, PNPMA president, announced.

Information regarding attendance and reservations can be obtained from J. T. Brattain of the Oregon Journal.
